The film director beauty redit is samp a firm only factive thember of the manying to France Action to the tentional reportation of the tention of te

The Paris Open Managers than the course of the Paris Open Managers and the Paris Open Managers of the Paris Open Managers of the Paris Open Managers of the Course of the Paris Open Managers of the O

er on The car let by the months and the that the manager than

e the transmission of the Acith Redisors contest.

n left 1 of St. Step, Stop,

The first the property of the

the Richard and the

hert Reynolds a Sading

Print the Form

the series to the series to the series of the series to th

ARIDS: "

Within a Generation, the Size of Families Has Been Reduced by More Than Half enough.

By James Brooke
New York Times Service
RIO DE JANEIRO — At a health clinic for working-class women, the gynecologist initially thought the question was a joke: How often do women make religious objections when birth-control techniques are discussed?

ne the error involved by about their transfer "Well, I do remember a case last year," Dr. José Antônio Aviles, who treats about 80 women a week, finally answered. "I think she was a Jehovah's Witness."

When a major United Nations conferon Coc with the many of the Color of the Col

ence on population policy opens next week in Cairo, Vatican envoys are expected to lobby hard to keep all mention of abortion and artificial birth control out of official

Brazil, however, with the world's largest Roman Catholic population, is a study in the limits on the reach of the Vatican. In a country where Catholics account for 75 percent of the nation's 154 million people. every relevant statistic shows that most members ignore the church's teachings on family-planning methods.

In a survey of more than 2,000 Brazilian adults in June, 88 percent of the respondents said they did not follow church teachings on birth control and abortion.

Kiosk

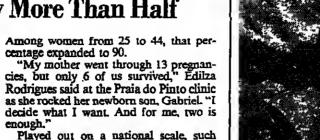

Berov's Cabinet Out in Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) - After months of political turmoil, Prime Minister Lyuben Berov's cabinet said Friday that it would resign.

Mr. Berov said later that Parliament was so namstrung by contradictory opinions that he saw new elections as the only solution. "In these circumstances, the government doesn't want to take the responsibility for postponing early elections," Mr. Beroy told national television. He snggested he would be willing to head a reshuffled transitional government for a limited period if Parliament failed to choose a new cabinet.

Crossword

Page 6. Page 19.

Played out on a national scale, such attitudes toward birth control have led to one of the most radical reductions in family size recorded in modern history. In the space of one generation, the average number of children born to a Brazilian woman has gone from 5.75 in 1970 to 2.35 today.

"The Brazilian population is controlling its birth rate a great deal," said Simon Schwartzman, president of the Brazilian Institute of Geography and Statistics, a government agency that issued new census data in Angust. "And the trend is toward continued reduction."

The census found that Brazil's population increasingly lives in urban areas -- 75 percent - and is increasingly literate, 80 percent. The share of households beaded by women increased over the last 25 years from 13 percent to about 22 percent. About 40 percent of adult Brazilian women work outside the bome.

Census statistics show that the fertility rates are particularly low in Brazil's developed south, where they have fallen below the replacement level of 2.1 children per woman. In the impoverished northeast, the rate is 4.0, relatively high but well below the 5.8 recorded in the region in 1980. About two-thirds of the married women practice some form of birth control. Of this group, 43 percent use oral contraceptives, and 42 percent have been sterilized though tubal ligations or other methods.

"It has gotten into the heads of lots of women that tying their tubes is the solution," Dr. Aviles said. "Increasingly, it is younger women who want to be sterilized after their second child."

About 1.4 million Brazilian women undergo abortions every year. That represents about 30 percent of all pregnancies. studies show. Nevertheless, abortion is illegal except in cases of rape or a threat to the mother's health. The safety of the abortion therefore depends on the woman's ability

Acting with the National Conference of Brazilian Bishops, based in Brasilia, the Catholie Church has successfully lobbied to maintain laws against abortion and sterilization and to block legislative efforts to

See BRAZIL, Page 2

Cubans Keep Coming as the Talks Go On

A Cuban refugee being helped aboard the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Key Largo in the Straits of Florida. Coast Guard and navy ships picked up more than 2,000 Cubans on Thursday and Friday as talks between U.S. and Cuban representatives continued at the United Nations in New York, amid signs Havana was weighing U.S. proposals to end the crisis. Page 5.

Ulster Protestants Ask: Who Are We?

By Steve Coll

Washington Pusi Service
BELFAST — The bloodstains on Skegoneill Avenue in Belfast on Friday provided a useful reminder that the search for negotiated settlement of Northern Ireland's long civil war will be impeded by a factor often overlooked or wished away by outsiders to the conflict.

It is this: A clear majority of the religiously divided British province's population, its Protestants, as yet sees little to be gained and much to be feared in the internationalized peace process now under way

The reasons are many. Behind the vicious pamphleteering and the occasional tants have an image problem is an under-bursts of gunfire from Protestant terrorists, a complex process is under way among Northern Ireland's majority Protestants a process that some leaders characterize as a desperate search for identity, within the community and in its relations with the outside world. This search for identity is becoming a vital part of Protestant involvement in the young, fragile peace process that has been kicked forward by the Irish Republican Army's cease-fire announcement. To say that Northern Ireland's Protesall to cling to the British motherland, to which they have been politically and economically attached for centuries.

NEWS ANALYSIS

statement. When they receive any sustained attention at all, both within Britain and ahroad, they are frequently depicted as violent obstructionists, infused with religious obscurantism and desperate above

Their opponents in the mainly Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army, which seeks to draw the Protestants into a united Ireland, have one of the highest political and media profiles of any terrorist group in the world, Hollywood memorializes their exploits. Gerry Adams, the leader of

See BELFAST, Page 8

Ulster Killing Won't Derail IRA's Truce, Adams Says

Catholic's Murder Seen As Extremist Attempt To Wreck Peace Steps

Compiled by Our Staff From Depatches DUBLIN — The Irish Republican Army's cease-fire will not be detailed by Protestant terrorist attacks like the killing of a young Roman Catholic man in Bel-fast, according to Gerry Adams, president of Sinn Fein, the IRA's political wing. "The IRA is a disciplined force and will not be provoked by anyone who is trying to wreck the peace process," he said at his first news conference in Dublin since the Irish Republican Army cease-fire. Mr. Adams spoke hours after the outlawed Ulster Freedom Fighters took responsibility for the first terrorist killing since the IRA announced its peace move on Wednesday.

The murder on Thursday night of a Catholic appeared intended to provoke the IRA into breaking the cease-fire.

In the United States, President Bill Clinton interrupted his vacation in Martha's Vincyard to meet with the Irish foreign minister, Dick Spring, who said Mr. Clinton had pledged additional economic aid to support the peace process in Ireland.

(Page 8.)
The White House press secretary, Dee Dee Myers, said Mr. Clinton had told Mr. Spring that be would like to find a way to belp bolster peace but also "made clear" the "severe budgetary constraints" under which he is operating and the need to ohtain congressional approval for direct Protestant hard-liners have condemned the peace process as an invitation to civil war, hut more moderate Protestants, who favor British rule, do not want their side to be seen as the only source of violence.

"The violence can only damage the cause of unionism at this difficult time," said Jim Wilson, general secretary of the Ulster Unionist Party, the largest party in Northern Ireland.

These attacks explode the myth once and for all that the loyalists are reacting to IRA violence," said Alban Maginness, a Belfast City Council member for the Social Democratic and Labor Party, the main Catholie party.
In Dublin, Mr. Adams, whose party

See ULSTER, Page 8

Stunning Seoul, Beijing Leaves Armistice Panel

By James Sterngold

New York Times Service
SEOUL — The Chinese government stunned South Korea on Friday by announcing that it was withdrawing its dele-gate from the four-decade-old military commission that oversees the armistice between North and South Korea.

On the surface, the move was more symbolie than substantive, since the commis-sion's once critical role in managing day-to-day problems at the demilitarized zone separating the two Koreas, which are still technically at war, has diminished greatly. As the number of confrontations have been reduced, so have the functions of what is known as the Military Armistice Commission, which consists of China, North Korea and the UN Command. dominated by the United States.

But in a region where everything has a deeper meaning, the announcement was an unmistakable blow to South Korea.

It was perceived here as part of Communist North Korea's unceasing efforts to cut Seoul out of any diplomatic maneuvering over the Korean Peninsula. Ever since a South Korean replaced the American general on the commission in 1991, North Korea, which does not recognize the South Korean government, has snubbed the body and sought to climinate it. Earlier this year, North Korea established what it described as a separate office at Panmunjom and pulled its delegation out of the commission. North Korea has also said it wants to scrap the armistice and instead negotiate a formal peace treaty, but only with the United States.

The announcement only added to South Korea's growing discomfort over the fact that, in another critical area, North Korea recently began negotiating directly with Washington over Pyongyang's suspected nuclear weapons program.

South Korea is being consulted on the talks, but it has no formal role. That has

See KOREA, Page 8

Newsstand Prices
Andorra 9.00 FF Antilles 11.20 FF Comeroon .1.400 CFA Egypt E.P. 5000 France 9.00 FF Gabon 960 CFA Greece 300 Dr. Italy 2.600 Lire Ivery Coost 1.120 CFA	Luxembourg 60 L. Fr Morocco
Lebonon US$ 1,50	U.S. Mil. (Eur.) $1.10

SMASHED - South Korean protesters tipping over an exhibit of Japanese arts and crafts at a Seoul museum Friday. They were demonstrating against Japan's plan to atone for wartime acts by creating a vocational-training fund. Page 5.

U.S. Closes Skies to Airlines of 9 Nations

By Don Phillips

WASHINGTON - The Federal Aviation Administration has banned airlines of nine countries from flying to the United States because of inadequate safety over-

Belize, the Dominican Republic, Gambia, Ghana, Honduras, Nicaragua, Paraguay, Uruguay and Zaire have been told that their commercial airliners may not fly to the United States unless the deficiencies are corrected. Transportation Department officials said 17 airlines were involved, but did not name them.

Dow Jon	es	Trib Index
Down 15.86 3885.58	3/4	Up 0.44% 118.11
The Dollar	Fri clesa	provious close
DM	1.555	1.5744
Pound	1 5475	1.5454
Yen	99.13	99.75
FF	5.3255	5.391

The list was compiled as part of a worlowide administration safety survey of the 93 governments that bave commercial airliner service to the United States. The survey is to be completed by the end of 1996. The issuing of the list on Friday marked a change in the administration's policy of keeping the names secret.
The FAA found that, in many cases, countries were simply not meeting their international obligations." Transportation Secretary Federico Pena said.

The nine nations were told that they might work with third countries to certify safety compliance or that they might lease U.S. airplanes with American crews to operate service under the country name, giving the administration direct jurisdiction over safety.

Officials said Ghana. Zaire and Gambia dropped plans for air service, and six other countries have decided to lease planes and

Mr. Pena said traveling to the listed countries "is not necessarily unsafe." To fly to these destinations, travelers should consider using U.S.-flag carriers and the carriers of other countries that have adequate civil aviation safety oversight," he said. Four other countries - Bolivia, El Salvador, Guatemala and Netherlands Antil-

See SAFETY, Page 8

France to Resume Seat At NATO Military Talks Minister Will Attend Meeting in Spain

By Joseph Fitchett International Herald Tribune

PARIS - France has decided to resume its seat at NATO's military discussions for the first time since de Gaulle pulled his country's forces out of the allied command

"It was simply a question of when we were going to do it publicly," said a French official. The decision, disclosed Friday, further diluted a boycott of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which successive French governments have described as a U.S.-dominated institution.

Publicly, French officials minimized the significance of Defense Minister François Léotard's attendance at a ministerial meeting of the alliance late this month in Spain, insisting that it did not mean that France would regularly attend future sessions.

In fact, the move was foreshadowed in a major military policy statement this spring that advocated deeper involvement with NATO as a way to retain the U.S. defense guarantee for Europe while at the same time promoting greater military independence for Europe within the alliance. The policy shift, gratifying to allied governments as a step toward greater realism in French diplomacy, is still far short of reintegrating NATO or abandoning France's independence in deciding how its armed forces are used.

Allied officials said that the shift reflects the strategic realities of the post-Cold War era, in which France needs to be more involved in NATO because the United States seems to be less and less involved in European security.

As a result, French military authorities need to participate fully in NATO's preparations for crises, such as the Gulf War and the Bosnian conflict, that end up involving French forces.

Two years ago, France acknowledged the need to resume military cooperation when Paris and Bonn agreed that the Eurocorps, a French-German force intended to bolster the European Union, would work with NATO in peacekeeping. Despite en-thusiasm in the French military establish-ment for closer ties, the government barred more visible links.

Now, however, French officials apparently believe that they can bope to change NATO by working more strongly inside

Nudging French policymakers, the Clinton administration has convincingly demonstrated its readiness to see France and other European nations assume more authority in NATO, allowing a reduced U.S.

Trying to seize the moment when Washington is ready to make concessions on NATO's structure and still remain engaged in Europe, French policymakers have finally decided to broaden their commitment to the alliance.

As one of them said: "If you want European defense, you discover that NATO has most of the bricks, and you want to get your hands on them."

Typical of this trend, a plan is ripening for the Western European Union, the European Union's defense arm, to borrow

See NATO, Page 8

New Chicago Gangster Era: Killer Is Dead at 11

By Don Terry

New York Times Service CHICAGO - The search for an 11year-old murder suspect here ended in a oank, graffiti-scarred pedestrian underpass. He was found dead in a pool of blood and mud.

The boy had been shot at least once in the back of the head, apparently, the police said, by the same street gong that put a gun in his hands and shoved him into the grown-up world of violence and

Two fellow gang members, a 16-yearold and a 14-year-old, were arrested Friday and charged with the youth's mur-

For three days, the boy, Robert Sandifer Jr., had eluded the police and saddened the city because he was so young and because there are so many others

He was neglected and burned with cigarettes before he was 3. He bounced from his grandmother's home to group homes and from the back of police cars to detention centers most of the rest of

Last Sunday night, the police said that on behest of his gang Robert fired a semiautomatic pistol into a group of teenagers playing football on the far South Side. One boy was hit in the hand, and Shavon Dean, 14, was struck in the head and killed a few yards from ber front steps.

Robert lived around the corner from Shavon. Both bc and Shavon attended the same school before Robert was sent to a group home. Shavon graduated and was headed for high school.

"The boy's death just makes the whole situation sadder," said Tawana Thomas, a friend and neighbor of Shavon's. "Him

See CHICAGO, Page 8

Mitterrand Sheds A Veil on the Past

Book Tells of Rightist Years

By Alan Riding

PARIS - It would be an exaggeration to say that the early life of President François Mitterrand was a state secret, but as long as he was a politician with another election ahead of him, he ensured that an aura of mystery surrouoded the years before he emerged as a Socialist leader.

But now, at 77 and just eight months before retiring from the Elysée Palace, Mr. Mitterrand has helped a French writer reveal new details in his hidden past, first as a rightist student in the 1930s and then working for the collaborationist Viety regime in World Way II. regime in World War II.

"I feel that he wanted to put things in their place," said Pierre Pean, the author of "A French Ynuth: François Mitter-rand 1934-1947," "that the time had come to clarify what had been years of mystery, that he was persuaded that all this would become known one day or another."

Coming just days after the president presided over commemorations of the liberation of Paris from German occupation, publication of the book has stirred enormous interest here, prampting a front-page article in Le Monde and exten-

In a sense, because rumors of Mr. Mitterrand's prewar rightism have lung made the rounds here, the book serves him well because it demonstrates that he was oever a member of either the violent extreme rightist group known as La Cagoule or of the neo-fascist Action Française.

Mr. Péan also said that after extensive research and seven interviews with the president, he became convinced that Mr. Mitterrand had never been anti-Semitic even though he was working in 1942 for a government that had already begun deporting Jews from France to German concentration camps. 'I didn't think about the anti-Semitism of Vichy," Mr. Mitterrand was quoted as having said. He said he was aware that "unfortunately" some anti-Semites were close to Vichy's head of state, Marshal Philippe Pétain, "but I didn't follow the legislation of the day or the measures being taken." The book nonetheless details how, upon arriving in Paris from the provinces at the age of 18 to study law and political science, Mr. Mitterrand was drawn into a rightist group known as the National Volunteers.

In his research, Mr. Péan also found many of Mr. Mitterrand's articles from the late 1930s. While published in rightist newspapers, however, they were in fact literary criticisms, early signs of Mr. Mitterrand's lifelong interest in literature and philosophy.

When France declared war on Germany in September 1939, he joined the army as a sergeant. But the following year, as German troops swept into France, he was captured and was held as a prisoner of war until, on his third attempt, he escaped in December 1941. It was then that he went to Viehy. In the Vichy government, he worked first as a documentalist and then for a commission dealing with escaped French prisoners of war and families of other POWs. The most interesting revelation from this period, though, was his admi-ration for Marshal Pétain and his so-called National Revolu-

The cover of Mr. Pean's book is illustrated by a previously unpublished photograph of Mr. Mitterrand meeting Marshal Petain in October 1942. The book also details how the following year, the future president was awarded La Francisque, the Vichy government's highest civilian award.

But by then, Mr. Mitterrand was beginning to work with the Resistance. In November 1943 he made a secret trip to London and, a few weeks later, met de Gaulle in Algiers. By the time Paris fell in August 1944, Mr. Mitterrand, known as Morland, was a prominent Resistance leader. His conversioo to socialism would come later.

Today, after over 13 years as a Socialist president, he sounds stoical about his past.

"During troubled times, moreover when you are young, it is difficult to choose," he told Mr. Péan. "I managed to come out all right. It is unfair to judge people by mistakes that can be explained by the atmosphere of the times. But politicians are never forgiven."

Bonn Minister Turns Aside Calls for an EU Core Group

Mr. Kinkel, leader of the Free Democrats, rejected the concept of "variable geometry" BONN - Foreign Minister Klaus Kinkel dismissed calls oo Friday by leading members of Chaocellor Helmut Kohl's Christian Democratie Union for five European Unioo countries to form a closely integrated core group in the bloc. Mr. Kohl's spokesman also several speeds are brought into play," Mr. Kinkel said.

declined to codorse the proposals, made on Thursday io a paper presented by the Christian Democratic parliameotary leader, Wolfgang Schäuble, who called for extensive institutional reform of the European er than other members toward

in Lugana

that is at the heart of the Schau-

"It makes an already difficult process even barder if concepts such as variable geometry or core groupconsisting of Germa-oy, France, the Netherlands.

Belgium and Lnxembourg should be allowed to move fast-political and economic union.

tion Directory every Tuesday

Abortion foes demonstrating in front of the Polish Parliament before the vote on Friday.

Police Kill 3 Militants in South Egypt

The officials said the suspects, who were shot took responsibility.

in the town of Sohag, are believed to have been Security officials said the three militants were

The latest violence came as thousands of delegates were pouring into Cairo for the United men suspected of involvement with extremist Nations International Conference on Population groups, apparently as a security precaution for Nations International Conference on Population and Development, which opens Monday.

The radical Islamic Group had warned in a statement that participants should stay away or risk violence.

The police cracked down on the extremists in the lattackers fled.

of the church is very limited," said Jacqueline Pitanguy, a sociologist. "But it really influeoces government."

Unlike Colombia and Mexico, which

By Anne Swardson

the most telling moments in the campaign for the future of Que-

the separatist Parti Québecois, reached into his jacket pocket ers report that he said support-

"Bravo Salomon Brothers," sneered the incumbent premier, Daniel Johnson. "Look at the profits they make on the backs of Quebec taxpayers." This was a reference to Wall Street's extensive bond business with

Mr. Johnson then proceeded to say that according to his reading of the report, Salomon

Brothers supported him, his

Liberal Party and keeping Que-

The exchange was a reminder are, albeit inadvertently, play-that the wizards of Wall Street season.

bec in Canada.

ed his case for an independent negotiate entry?

MONTREAL - In one of 18 years.

CAIRO — The Associated Press

the spring, breaking up several cells that had been operating in Cairo and in southern Egypt. Southern Egypt on Friday suspected of being Muslim militants, a day after extremists shot and killed a policeman and a police guard government security officials said.

The officials said the suspects, who were shot took responsibility.

involved in an attack last week on a Spanish tour killed Friday in a police raid in Sohag, about 380 bus. kilometers (240 miles) south of Cairo.

The police also detained more than 20 young

BRAZIL: Largest Catholic Population Is Study in Limits of Vatican Reach

On the level of daily life, the influence by foreign aid organizations in the 1960s. supporting language in conference docu-

Wall Street Looms Over Vote in Quebec

bec's most important election in for investors. Perhaps the great-

As Quebec moves toward the aratism but expansionism. Mr. Sept. 12 election, when Mr. Par-Parizeau has laid out a number

Would separating bring on a son pointed out during the de-recession? Would Quebec auto-bate that, for example, new em-

Agreement, or would it have to In addition, Quebec receives tory does not ensure separation. es, which would end under sep-

Instead, Mr. Parizeau has aration. And bond buyers pramised to hald a pra- might well demand higher invincewide referendum on inde-pendence within a year of gain-independent Quebec, raising ing power, a risky move, since Quebecers like separatism but On the other side of the led-nnt separation. If a referendum ger, Mr. Parizeau claims fre-were held today, as many as 60 quently that more than $2 bil-

percent of the people would hon would be saved by the vote against leaving Canada, elimination of overlapping fedaccording to surveys.

This fact explains why finanthough it is not clear how he cial markets have remained obtained this figure. He also fairly calm during the campaign says the costs of separation can

Some experts here say uncer- expanding economy, driven by ince.

And a Parti Québecois vic- tawa than it pays in federal tax-and pulled out a citation from a matically become a member of bassies would have to be two-month-old Salomon Broth-ing a significant role in Que- tainty in Quebec still poses risks the measures he vows to put est cause for concern is not sep-about $1 billion more from Ot-

Veto Stands In Poland On Easing Abortion

Compiled by Our Staff From Dispatches
WARSAW -- The Polish Parliament failed oo Friday to override President Lech Walesa's veto of legislation that would have relaxed the overwhelmingly Roman Catholic country's strict anti-abortion

The lower house of Parliament, the Sejm, voted by 232 to 157, with 22 abstentions, to reject the veto but fell 42 votes short of the required two-thirds majority needed to override it. The amendments vetoed by Mr. Walesa would have allowed a woman to have an abortion on grounds of financial or personal

The law now allows for abortions only when the woman's life or health is in danger, if the pregnancy results from a crime or when the fetus is irreparably damaged. Doctors who perform abortions in any other cases face up to two years in prison.

The law, approved early last year, replaced Communist-era regulations that allowed abortions virtually on demand. Until 1992, when abortions were first restricted, about 500,000 cases were reported each year. Last year, the number of officially recorded abortions dropped to 770.

The parliamentary health committee voted Thursday for the veto to be overturned on the grounds that the strictness of the law had led to an increasing number of clandestine abortions as well as to children being abandoned by their mothers after birth. Deputies also point-ed out that Polish women tend-ed to go abroad to get abor-

After the vote Friday, a spokesman for Mr. Walesa, Leszek Spalinski, said: "The president welcomes the Parliament's acceptance of his argument that human life should be

But pro-choice deputies have already said they will seek a nationwide referendum on abortion. "We will strive for a Womeo's Parliamentary Group. (Reuters, AFP, AP)

Economists say costs should oot be the principal factor governing Quebecers' decisioo will not be large and they will be temporary," said Pierre Fortin, a professor of economics at the University of Quebec at Montreal. "If you are deciding whether to stay in Canada, it has to be a matter of the heart."

Angolan Leader Rejects

LUANDA, Angola - President José Eduardo dos Santos talks aimed at ending nearly 20

Union for the Total Indepen-would give UNITA veto rights over the government's choice

The proposal by the National years of civil war.

Rebel Peace Proposal

about whether to separate. There will be costs, but they

WORLD BRIEFS

- Werelary Russian Spacecraft Docks With Mir

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Russian cargo craft, which failed twice last month to dock with an orbiting space station, successfully linked up with the station on Friday, a ground-control

Alexander Malenchenko, crew commander of the Mir station, Alexander Malenchenko, crew commander of the Mir station, had been ordered to carry out the operation manually after the failure of the docking on automatic systems Aug. 27 and Aug. 30. "The docking was a success," the official said. "It went without a hitch." The Progress cargo craft carried food, water, fuel and equipment for a manned mission to the space station in October.

Nigerian Refinery Working Again

LAGOS (AP) — Reportedly using bribes, threats, new workers and imported fuel, the military government got Nigeria's biggest oil refinery working again Friday and eased fuel shortages in the commercial south of the country.

commercial south of the country.

The government is slowly overcoming domestic problems caused by striking oil workers, who are demanding democracy. But there was no sign of improvement in exports of crude oil, which have been halved by the nine-week strike.

Arthur Onoviran of the Petroleum and Natural Gas Senior Staff Association said the government had hired new workers to replace striking tanker-truck drivers. In a telephone call from replace striking tanker-truck drivers. In a telephone call from where he is hiding. Mr. Onoviran said the government had used bribes and threats to get some workers back to Nigeria's biggest refinery at southern Port Harcourt, which was sabotaged by

Israel Now Hopes for Tunisia Links

JERUSALEM (Reuter) — Israeli officials said Friday that they hoped Tunisia would follow Morocco in opening diplomatic ties with the Israel.

They said Tunisia and such Gulf states as Oman, Qatar and Bahrain were in the vanguard of Arab states interested in rela-

Italian Party Chief Offers to Resign

MILAN (AFP) - The Northern League leader, Umberto Bossi, said Friday that he would resign if his supporters wanted it. The move followed a series of run-ins with the press and Prime Minister Silvin Berlusconi.

Mr. Bossi, who is founder of the party and has sworn he would never give Mr. Berlusconi any respite as long as its reforms were not adopted, holds no government post but he has considerable

A Surfeed noted parties for a pass

· 1=64

2 . San

THE THINK

T INTE

" who at ! 2 Lisable

. CHARLES & The state of

State of the Asset of the

Siver in Toxas Rape

Rightist Russian Aide Is Dismissed

MOSCOW (Reuters) - A Russian junior minister was dismissed Friday for his extreme oationalist views and fur demanding that freedom of the press be strietly limited. President Boris N. Yeltsin approved the dismissal, a spokesman said.

A spokesman for Prime Minister Viktor S. Chernnmyrdin said Boris Mironov, head of the State Press Committee, a post with ministerial but not cabinet rank, had been dismissed after declarations of the state Press Committee. ing that "if Russian nationalism is fascism, then I'm a fascist" and urging state cootrol of the press.

Mr. Mironov had offended the liberal Russian press by a recent oratorical defense of nationalism that led one Moscow daily to compare him to Hitler's propaganda chief, Josef Goebbels.

Rafsaniani Cites Argentine 'Apology'

NICOSIA (AP) — President Hashemi Rafsanjani of Iran praised Argentina on Friday for what he called an "apology" for implicating Tehran in the bombing of a Jewish community center abortion. "We will strive for a referendum, so that views of the majority of Poles find a reflection in the country's laws," said Barbara Labuda, who heads the Warra Labu

Chinese Leader in Moscow for Talks

MOSCOW (AFP) — President Jiang Zemin of China arrived here Friday for talks with President Boris N. Yeltsin aimed at defusing a border dispute, ending nuclear tension and modernizing trade relations.

Continued from Page 1

provide free contraceptives through the national health service.

In the programs, Brazil follows a laissezprovide free contraceptives through the national health service.

In the programs, Brazil follows a laissezfaire policy. With the government on the sidelines, family planning was first pushed the government has adopted a policy of the government has adopted a policy of accords, including an agreement on de-targeting strategic outclear missiles currently aimed at each other's countries. They will also sign an agreement on the western section of the 4,400-kilometer (2,730-mile) Chinese-Russian border.

No women serve as state governors nr ments that would be consonant with Bra-on the Supreme Court, and women bold zilian law, specifically, allowing contracepinflueoces government." Only 4.7 percent of the seats in the 580Unlike Colombia and Mexico, which have strong government-led family planthe members of the Brazilian Bar Associathe members of the Brazilian Bar Associahealth. For the Record

King Letsie III of Lesotho has agreed to reinstate the government of Prime Minister Ntsu Mokhehle, which he dissolved last month, state radio reported Friday. A palace statement read on the radio said that the king and Mr. Mokhehle had agreed to "restore constitutional order" and engage in a national debate on the future of the monarchy.

TRAVEL UPDATE

Amsterdam Airport to Go on the Air

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Schiphol International Airport will launch its own television station, one of the first of its kind, to provide round-the-clock entertainment for passengers, an airport spokesman said.

The station will broadcast international news, sports and enter-tainment programs beginning in November. News will be provided by NBC Superchannel and updated four times a day. Other programs will come from production companies worldwide. The spokesman said 250 television monitors would be be installed in lounges and waiting areas. Viewing will be free of

Flight crews of Middle East Airlines went on strike Friday, stranding more than 2,000 travelers bound for Europe, North Africa and Gulf states at the Beirut airport. (AP) Scandinavian Airlines System will inaugurate a direct route between Copenhagen and the new airport at Osaka, Japan, on Saturday, the airline said. There will be nonstop flights to Osaka on Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays, with return flights on Tuesdays, Fridays and Sundays.

(AFP)

American Airlines will offer daily nonstop service between Frankfurt and Miami starting March 26, 1995. The airline also said it would discontinua Chieston Munich Slights on Lard The rejected on Friday a compro-mise offered by UNITA rebels to break a deadlock in peace said it would discontinue Chicago-Munich flights on Jan. 30. The company said the moves were of an ongoing plan to withdraw from unprofitable rontes. (Reuters) dence of Angola was handed to United Nations mediators in Lusaka, Zambia, on Tuesday. It

The U.S. automobile rental company Avis Inc. has agreed to install hand controls for the disabled in more of its cars, the though it is not clear how he obtained this figure. He also over the government's choice says the costs of separation can be absorbed over time by an stronghold of Huambo province.

WYII and controls in the unsature in more in the unsature in more in the disappear in the unsature in more in the unsature in more in the unsature in more in the disappear in the unsature in more in the unsature in the unsat

To call from country to country, or to the U.S., dial the WorldPhone® number of the country you're calling from.

(Outside of Managua, dial 02 first) 177-150-2727 Paneme 172-1022 Military Beses 022-903-012 EgyptiCCle 1-800-624-1000 (Outside of Cairo, dial 02 first.) 355-5770 Halyicca 2810-108 Trinidad & Tobago (Special Phones Only) 00-8001-1177 008-11-800 Turkeye 001-190 Ukraine: 800-002 El Salvad 800-674-7000 Paraguay+ Peru (Outside of Lime, dial 190 first.) 9800-102-80 Kenya 0800-10012 Finland(CD) 8¥10-013 1-800-823-0484 France(CC) 19y-00-19 (Available from most major cities.) 080011 PolandiCC Ov-01-04-800-222 United Arch Foriest 0-800-2222 800-MCI(800-824) Portugal(CC) 05-017-1234 United Kingdom/CC 1-800-888-8000 To call the U.S. using 87 000-8012 Germany(CC) 0130-0012 Lebanon/CC 600-624 Puesto Ricorco ny.) (Outside of Beirut, tilal 01 first.) 90-800-1211 Uechtenstein/CCIe 425-038+ Ostar(CC)+ 156-0222 Romania(CC)+ 0800-012-77 To call the U.S. using MERCURY 0500-89-02221 1-800-624-1000 Greece(CC)+ 01-800-1800 To cell anywhere other than the U.S $v10-800-497-7222 Uruguey (Collect not available.) 172-1022 U.S. Virgin Islands(CO 0800-0112 Rusele/CCH 95-800-674-7000 Sen Marino/CCH 000-412 :-800-888-8000 172-1022 184-00-19 Saudi Arabia 06-022-91-22 Stovak Repub 001-800-444-1234 MonacolOChe 001-800-574-7000 Netherlands/CCIa 00-42-000112 Yenezuele+4

Use your MCI Card,* local telephone card or call collect, all at the same low rates (CC) Country-to-country calling available. May not be available to/from all international locations. Certain restrictions apply. 1: Limited availability. Y Walt for second dist from LADATEL public phones only. Rate depends on call origin in Mexico. 1 International communications carrier. * Not available. able from public pay phones. Public phones may require deposit of coin or phone card for dial tone.

WORLDPHONE* Let It Take You Around The World

THE AMERICAS / THE JURY'S MESSAGE

Ex-Secretary at Law Firm Wins $7.1 Million in a Sexual Harassment Case

By Jane Gross New York Times Service

SAN FRANCISCO - A former secretary at the office for less than two months. world's largest law firm who said she had been sexually harassed by a partner there has been award-partners, Martin R. Greenstein, is believed to be the largest ever in a sexual harassment case. It is also ful bosses.

almost twice that sought by the plaintiff, Rena "The jury's decision sends a message about enti- had failed to rein him in, despite previous com- tlement," said Freada Klein, the president of Klein plaints against him by other women employed at the

In a statement issued Thursday from its main es about bias in the workplace. office, Baker & McKenzie said the firm was "exed $7.1 million in punitive damages, a staggering judgment that is likely to send a chill through the U.S. legal and business community.

The judgment against the firm of Baker & McKenzie, based in Chicago, and one of its former when the properties is believed to be the complaints of harassment, even when the contract Martin B. Greenstein is believed to be the they come from low-level employees against power-

Associates, a Boston company that advises business-emotional distress she suffered as a result of Mr. Greenstein's clumsy gropings and crude remarks.

The jury of six men and six women found in the first phase of the trial that Baker & McKenzie had known of Mr. Greenstein's harassing behavior and

In the second phase of the trial, after two days of Ms. Weeks was awarded $50,000 in compensatory damages by the same jury on Aug. 27 for the emotional distress she suffered as a result of Mr. highest gross revenue of any law firm in the United States last year, and $225,000 more from Mr. Greenstein, 49, who was dismissed in the midst of the lawsuit and now runs a one-man firm in San Jose,

The total punitive award of $7.1 million far exceeded that requested by Ms. Weeks's lawyer, who had sought $3.5 million from firm and $200,000 from Mr. Greenstein.

Several jurors said their judgment had been roughly calculated by taking 10 percent of the firm's

"When you get religion, you should tithe," said one juror, Bill Carpenter, alluding to the firm's testimony about its new attitude toward harassment complaints. "A tithe is 10 percent."

ON THE POLITICAL LADDER — Former Mayor Marion Barry of Washington stapling campaign posters to a telephone pole. Mr. Barry, who resigned as mayor after being videotaped using drugs in a hotel room, for which he served six months in jail, wants his old job back and is in a close race for the Sept. 13 Democratic primary.

Blazing Away in Texas Race

HOUSTON - On the first day of the dove hunting seasoo in Texas, both Governor Ann Richards and George W. Bush, her Republi-can opposent, were out at the crack of dawn, hunting for birds — and news coverage.

But this obligatory macho political rite io the Lone Star State turned into an embarrassment for Mr. Bush, a son of former President George Bush, when he pointed a horrowed 20-gauge shotgun at the sky in rural Hockley, Texas, fired seven shots - and killed the wroog kind of bird.

Mr. Bush bagged a killdeer, a protected Texas song bird whose killing is a crime under state law, punishable by a fine of $25 to $500. Mr. Bush was fined $130, his office

The killdeer has distinctive white markings and flies in a different pattern than the dove, meaning that an experienced bunter would be unlikely to coofuse the two.

And aides to Ms. Richards, a Democrat, wasted oo time in ridiculing Mr. Bush, suggesting that in a state where hunting is woven into the historical ethos, a real Texan would never have committed such a gaffe.

"This is like oot knowing what a bagel is in the City of New York," said George Shipley, a consultant to Ms. Richards. "This is on the order of Jerry Ford not shucking the tama-' a reference to an infamous campaign swing through Texas in which President Gerald R. Ford ate the corn busks wrapped around a Mexican delicacy.

Mr. Bush made oo attempt to excuse the misfire. Mr. Bush, who said he hunted frequently, broke the state law moments after a 6:15 A.M. news cooference io which he assailed Ms. Richards as being soft on crimi-

"I've spoken to a game warden," he said. "He's goiog to write a citation and I will pay the fine. I thought it was a dove. I made a mistake, and I'm going to pay for it.

Clinton Health Czar Chides Ads

NEW YORK - Ira C. Magaziner, the administratioo's chief health-care planner, has blamed "fear-mongering" and dishooest advertisements by special interest groups for the difficulties encountered by national health insurance legislation on Capitol Hill.

But he said the battle was oot over yet, for health-care legislatioo would be first oo the agenda when Congress returned in September. "As was proven with passage of the crime hill," he said, "special interests do oot always succeed in undermining the interest of the American people."

He did oot discuss what the administration might be willing to settle for this year as he addressed a group Thursday at the anoual meeting of the American Political Science

Answering questions, he dismissed the suggestion that political naïvete had contributed to the administration's difficulties. "Nobody thought this was going to be easy," be said.
"It's always easy for people to take potshots.
We are going to continue to fight until we

He cited advertisements that newspapers had characterized as false, like the assertion that people would face five years in jail for buying extra bealth care,

This and other ads, he said, reflected the fact that "never io this history of this country have modern technology and scare tactics combined to produce the degree and tone of misinformation that was spewed out so quickly about bealth-care reform." (NYT)

Quote/Unquote

Mock 'Jury' of Arizonans Would Acquit Simpson

Marvin Gordon, chairman of Iroquois Products, a Chicago company that picks up its mail from the local post office, on a U.S. Postal Service proposal to impose a fee for the practice: "It's not the $400 they want to charge that makes me mad. It's the audacity of trying to do this: have us pay for doing their work.

Awarded in Implant Suit

WASHINGTON - A U.S. district judge in Birmingham, Alabama has approved a $4.25 hillion hreast-implant settlement, the largest product liability agreement in U.S. history.

Once the biggest manufac-turers of implants, Dow Cor-ning Corp., is now the biggest contributor, at $2 hillion, among 60 companies. Dow has consistently denied that its products caused health prob-

More than 90,500 women have already agreed to the set-tlement, which would provide Americans with payments rang-ing from $105,000 to $1,4 million each, depending on their age and severity of symptoms.

The 500 foreign claimants will receive between 40 percent and 90 percent of the U.S. payments. Judge Pointer increased the amount apportioned to foreign claimants from $81 million to $96.6 million.

About 15,000 women have rejected the settlement; half of those live outside the United

The Food and Drug Administration declared a moratorium on all silicone breast implants in 1992 after hearing complaints that the devices were associated with disorders of the immune system, including rheumatoid arthritis.

The agency later allowed implantatioo for reconstructive surgery as part of clinical stud-ies, while maintaining the ban on cosmetic surgery.

$4.25 Billion Cost of Haiti Invasion Put at $427 Million

By Eric Schmitt New York Times Service

WASHINGTON -- Pentagon analysts have estimated that an invasioo of Haiti would cost $427 million, on top of the nearly $200 million already spent rescuing Haitians who have fled the country hy boat and building camps for them.

A senior Pentagon official said that the Defense Department was assuming that the first three weeks of a U.S.-led invasion would cost $55 million to cover transport-would cost 355 inmits to cover transporting equipment and personnel, food and water, logistics, and comhat pay for an initial force of 12,000 soldiers.

The goal would be to restore to power the exiled Haitian president, the Reverend Jean-Bertrand Aristide, within 10 days after the transport ter the troops landed.

The Pentagon estimates that the next seven months of the operation would cost $372 million, with 2,500 to 3,000 American troops remaining at the end of that period.

Once order was restored, a UN-led force
Haiti's government has a of 6,000 troops, incloding the remaining Americans, would replace the initial invasion force to maintain order, retrain the country's police and reorganize its military. There is no estimate yet of what this might cost.

By the end of the fiscal year, Washington will have spent $187 million on picking up thousands of Haitians from the sea and enforcing economic sanctions against the military-appointed government there.

The Pentagon's latest estimates do not include what the United States would pay to equip, train and transport 266 troops from four Caribbean countries that would join any invading force 7 to 10 days into the operation in Haiti. The nations agreed this week to supply troops after a visit by Haiti's government has agreed to allow the departure of more than 1,000 people who have been granted political asylum in the United States, The New York Times reported from Port-au-Prince, quoting U.S. Embassy officials.

The first 91 left on a bus, making it safely across the border into the Dominican Republic. They were the first political refugees to make it out of the country since the United Nations sanctioned a U.S.-led invasion of Haiti.

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Port-au-Prince, Stanley Schrager, said that the Haitian government had agreed to let about two buses make the trip each week.

While news of the departure gave refugees hope, some said that they would re-main in hiding because they were certain that the military and its civilian backers would burt or even kill them.

Away From Politics

• The killer of a British tourist in New Orleans has been sentenced to life imprisonment with no chance for early release. Lester Jones, 33, was found guilty of first degree murder in the shooting of Julie Stott, 28, of Manchester, England, during a robbery attempt in 1992, but the jury then declared itself deadlocked on the question of punishment, requiring the judge to impose the sentence.

 Sharp reductions in the output of dioxin. beavy metals and airborne toxins from municipal incinerators natioowide have been proposed by the Environmental Protection Agency. The rules, which would take effect a year from now, are designed to achieve com-pliance with the 1990 Clean Air Act.

• A bill requiring up to life in prison for first-time violent sex offenders has been approved by the California legislature, Governor Pete Wilsoo has promised to sign it.

A man who helped capture the suspect ac-cused of assaulting Rosa Parks, 81, a heroine of the civil-rights movement, was arrested in connection with a 1991 bank robbery in Detroit, officials said. FBI agents arrested Mario Jefferson, 27, after he was interviewed about how he and a friend had identified and apprehended the alleged attacker.

 Eleven stowaways who endured four days locked in a shipping container with little food or water will almost certainly be sent back to the Dominican Republic, American officials said. They were discovered when a deckhand on the container ship Carolina at the Elizabeth Marine Terminal in New Jersey beard them yelling and pounding oo the container.

 A Food and Drug Administration advisory panel has recommended that the agency not approve the Sensor Pad, an experimental device designed to help women better detect breast lumps during self-examination, until its manufacturer submits scientific studies in women that show the product works.

AP, Rewers, NYT, WP

Albino Buffalo Inspires Tribes

The Associated Press
JANESVILLE, Wisconsin —
News of the birth of a rare white buffalo is spreading among American Indians and inspiring pilgrimages to see what many tribes believe to be a sacred, apocalyptic animal.

"This is like the second coming of Christ on this island of North America," said Floyd Hand, a Sioux shaman from Pine Ridge, Sonth Dakota, "The legend is she would return and unify the nations of the four colors — the block red four colors — the hlack, red, yellow and white."

The calf was born two weeks ago at the Wiscoosin farm where Dave Heider raises a herd of 14 buffalo.

L.A. Cruise Ship Is Hit by Illness

Los Angeles Times Service

LOS ANGELES - A 78year-old passenger died and 415 other tourists and crew of the Los Angeles-based cruise liner Viking Screnade were reported ill with a gastrointestinal ail-ment that brought the ship hack to port a day early from Baja Investigators were aboard the ship, operated by Royal Carib-bean Cruises Ltd., but an agency spokesman said it was too early to confirm suspicions of widespread food poisoning or an infectious disease.

At least six people were hospitalized in Ensenada, Mexico.

FREE Classical CD and Magazine OFREE Jazz CD and Magazine With nothing more to buy, ever! (See details below.)

Two great musical styles, two great new magazines to keep you right up-to-date with all that's happening in either the classical or jazz music worlds. Each comes with an exclusive FREE CD of new releases from leading performers. Don't miss out, return the coupon below NOW.

Exclusive FDC Classical CD Every Month Full length works - not a compilation.

Often more than an hour of music on every disc.

 Recorded to the highest digital standards. · Packaged in a jewel case to fit neatly in your collection.

Exclusive BBC MUSIC Magazine Every Month One of the fastest growing classical music magazines.

 Entertaining writing, magnificent photography, outstanding features and columns.

· Over 100 new releases reviewed and rated every month, International classical events guide.

Free CD Buying Service Purchase the music vou want from the magazine.

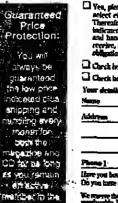

Exclusive JAZZIZ CD Every Month Filled with 10 new releases from today's hottest jazz artists. Recorded to the highest digital standards.

Exciting JAZZIZ Magazine Every Month · Featuring exclusive interviews with artists like George

Benson and Arturo Sandoval, plus in-depth articles on jazz giants such as John Coltrane, and much, much more. · Over 100 new releases reviewed and rated every atomith.

Free CD Enying Service Purchase the music you want from the magazine. A convenient way to shop, but never an obligation.

Your Complete Monthly Guides to Classical Music and/or Jazz!

CO for the long

Cut out coupon, place in envelope and mail to: Classical Music Service/JAZZIZ, Postbus 309, 1000 AH AMSTERDAM, THE NETHERIANDS. Yes, please send my FREE magazine plan my FREE CD for each programme I have checked below. (Yes may acked either or both programmes.) Bill me only for shipping and handling for each programmes, it is not below to the programmes.

Check here to:	receive the Bi receive the JA	C Cheefeel Mas 2212 programmer.	ic Progressor	ME.		Mant: fo
Your details (ple Name	sac prim) .				•	America Solgium Standard	5640. S 37-79 3 1860. S
lddres.						Padent Reserv	FIGH. F
		Coaster				- Genterly - Bellevil hely	DAMES OF LIVER OF LIVERS
bone I			37.	7.	-	Parent	POTENTE NO.

When asked to give a one-word description of Ms. Clark, ballots had been taken or "verdicts" rendered.

LOS ANGELES — To gauge how press coverage of the OJ. Simpson case might affect potential jurors, a consultant for the prosecution has surveyed a focus group of Arizona residents and learned that most would acquit the former foothall star, according to two members of the group. Ooe of the participants, Lance Kingston, 33, a real estate agent, said a dozen members of the group would oot have convicted Mr. Simpson. Mr. Kingston said he had been one of three or four who were "I told them I couldn't find him guilty based on what I knew, but that I didn't know if he was scot-free innocent either," Mr. Kingston said. The group's responses, he said, were based oo what he and the 16 other members, all from Phoenix, knew about the case from news reports, with only a few facts provided by the questioners. The six-hour session was held Aug. 19 at a Phoenix hotel.

Among other things, most of eight whites — said they did not, Mr. Kingston reported. ed that they were put off by Deputy District Attorney Marcia Clark and charmed by Mr. Simpson's lawyer, Robert L.

Mr. Kingston said most of the group members used negative terminology. He said some of the words were "pushy" and "aggressive." Words used to de-scribe Mr. Shapiro, he said, were "smooth," "chutzpah" and "sharp."

The participants also said they were suspicious of Mark Fuhrman, a detective who testified that he found a bloody glove at Mr. Simpson's estate hours after Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald L Goldman were found slain in front of her condomini Mr. Simpson has pleaded not

When asked whether they thought the case had racial overtones because Mr. Simpson is black, most of the group members — nine blacks and

Pampelonne Bay - near St Tropez

600 sq.m. villa with uninterrupted sca view over the entire bay. Located directly above the beach at 200 meters. The property is unfinished and represents a unique opportunity for the discerning buyer.

Principals only fax: (33) 92.05.72.70 or call from the 5th September on (33) 92.05.32.95. The Los Angeles district at-

Mr. Kingston agreed that no written hallots had been taken. but he insisted that the focus The Los Angeles district at-torney's office confirmed bally polled about verdicts. His Thursday that the focus group account was confirmed by anhad taken place, but it said oo other member of the group, Charles Scruggs, a Phoenix truck driver.

5 NEW REPORTS:

On How to Profit and Avoid Taxes

1. "225 TAX HAVENS" Revised and Updated in 1994 From the Earlier "218 Tax Havens". How You Too Can Beat the System by Having Some of Your Money and Assets Offshore, I cam Where and How... 2. "INTERNATIONAL MAILDROP

Newest and Most Complete Source of 2245 Accommodation Addresses in 117 Countries and 50 U.S. States. Transmit and Receive Letters in Complete Secrecy... 3. "HOW TO SET UP YOUR OWN PRIVATE INTERNATIONAL BANK"

DIRECTORY

ow to Acquire a Bank Charter and Bank License for Less than USS2.500 in a U.N. Recognised Sovereign Country. Learn Where You Can Set Up Your Bank and How to Apply. "HOW TO BECOME A LEGAL HOLDER OF A SECOND PASSPORT

Totally Different Reveal-it-All Guide to 51 Foreign Passports.
The Best, Cheapest and Fastest Ways to Get One...and Why You Should 5. "OFFSHORE NESTEGG STRATEGY" Revised 1994 Report Tells You How to Systematically Accumulate Sceret Money Offshore...and

How-To-Do-It-Yourself... WRITE or FAX for FREE INFORMATION on ALL 5 REPORTS - or Send Your Business Card to: Privacy Reports

26A Peel Street, Ground Floor, (Dept. 317)

Central, Hong Kong Fax: + 852 850 5502

Classical Music Service/JAZZIZ, Postbus 309, 1000 AH AMSTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS.

A convenient way to shop,

SATISFACTION GUARANTEEDI

Simply fill out the coupon for your FREE CD and FREE magazine. Listen to the CD and read the magazine, if not satisfied for any reason, return them with no further obligation. Of course, you can cancel at any time.

There is never any obligation or pressure to buy anything.

but never an obligation.

A Breakthrough for Ulster

It is encouraging news that the Irish Republican Army has declared a break-through cease-fire in its effort to expel the British from Northern Ireland. Only last week, IRA units were mortaring British soldiers in a struggle whose quarter-century toll of 3,000 dead has made it, after Yugoslavia, Europe's bloodiest conflict since World War IL Now the IRA and its political arm, Sinn Fein, are positioning themselves to join the peace talks envisaged by the British and Irish governments.

Sinn Fein's declaration comes in response to a proposal issued by the Britisb and Irish governments last December. While those governments sought a "per-manent" renunciation of violence and have been promised only a "complete" one, all parties appear to be willing to work this out as they go along.

If the truce is kept for three months, negotiations over this and other matters will begin. The questions on the table are difficult: Under what conditions and time span will Britain begin to remove troops from Ulster? Will the IRA turn over its arms? What will happen to prisoners who are called "political" by the IRA and "terrorists" by the British? How will Protestant terrorists react? Providing reassur-ance to this community will be a major responsibility of leaders on all sides.

The overriding question of the province's future has not been settled. Nor is it the responsibility of the negotiators who now begin their work. It is a matter for the people to decide, and the promise of political leaders not to force union with the Irish Republic must be reemphasized.

Sinn Fein's leader, Gerry Adams, deserves some credit for moving toward peace, but the real heroes in this story are the moderates in Northern Ireland such as John Hume, a Catholic political leader, and James Molyneaux, his Protestant counterpart, who continually renounced violence and moved the agenda toward peace. President Bill Clinton, who wisely abandoned his campaign talk of sending in a U.S. mediator, can take credit for allowing Mr. Adams to come to America.

The cease-fire, a culmination of years of effort, is only a beginning. But if it holds it will be seen as the breakthrough concession that made real peace possible.

- THE WASHINGTON POST.

It's Still a U.S. Invasion

The State Department is asking Americans to believe something ridiculous. That is the proposition that an agreement this week by four Lilliputian Caribbean armies to take part in a U.S.-led invasion force signifies regional support for an armed strike against Haiti's military regime.

Appending 266 soldiers from Barbados. Belize, Jamaica and Trinidad to a U.S. force of at least 12,000 cannot hide the fact that an invasion, if it comes, would be a foolish and unnecessary act driven solely by the Clinton administration.

By the same token, the escalating rhetoric issuing from Deputy Secretary of State Strobe Talbott and Deputy Secretary of Defense John Deutch cannot disguise the lack of a necessary political consensus at bome, as quick rehuttals from Senator Richard Lugar and former President George Bush have already made clear. Even congressional Democrais are divided, with many endorsing an invasion only out of misplaced fealty.

Unfortunately, what all this new public posturing does is squeeze another droplet from the administration's almost empty vial of foreign-policy credibility. That can only narrow even further the range of choices Mr. Clinton has left for himself, choices that some of his advisers want to reduce to (a) invade or (b) give up.

Lieutenant General Raoul Cedras and his cronies in the Haitian military leadership are practically daring the administration to act. They bave no claim to international legitimacy, having shot their way into power at the expense of a government that won two-thirds of the vote in a democrarie election. They have defiantly rejected all diplomatic entreaties from the United States and the United Nations. They have looted a wretchedly poor economy and brought international sanctions down on their fellow citizens. of still more defenseless Haitian civilians. But as morally and legally reprehensi-hle as their actions bave been, the United States has no calling to invade countries in the absence of any clear threat to vital

S. interests or to international peace. True, the UN Security Council a month ago declared the Haitian regime a threat to international peace. But that was a peculiar exercise in circular logic that is hard for anyone to take seriously. Washington felt it could not invade without UN authorization. The UN charter only permiss such authorization when there is a threat to international peace. Therefore, a threat was duly declared, founded in large part on the supposedly destabilizing dangers of a continuing flow of refugees throughout the region.

How can the administration morally justify launching the mighty American war machine and getting Americans and Haitians killed because it finds the arrival of miserable refugees so politically inconvenient that it has asked other countries to provide them with temporary shelter?

While restoring the democratically elected government of Haiti is a legitimate aim of U.S. foreign policy, military force is, at this point, an inappropriate means for accomplishing it. Sanctions and diplomacy should be the principal policy tools, even though these have not achieved their aims so far, and possibly may not achieve them before President Jean-Bertrand Arisride's term runs out in 1996.

Unless and until the American people and others throughout the bemisphere are more willing than they are now to bear the risks of an invasion and its likely sequels, including prolonged occupation and deadly clashes with civilians, invading Haiti is a bad idea.

Even with an international brigade of 266 Barbadians, Belizeans, Jamaicans, and Trinidadians trailing along, the large U.S. Every day they prolong their thuggish rule brings the wanton and brazen murder of the fighting and, inevitably, the dying. - THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Vatican vs. the Vice President

It was considered very unusual when the chief Vatican spokesman, Joaquin Navarro-Valls, publicly took on Vice President Al Gore last week, criticizing him for allegedly misrepresenting the intentions of the American delegation to the United Nations conference on population and development set to begin in Cairo on Monday. The attack was even more surprising because it followed a recent conciliatory speech by the vice president aimed at stressing the common goals of the United States and the Roman Catholic Church. What has always been clear, though, through all the planning sessions for the conference and in fact since the election of the Clinton-Gore team in 1992 is that this government and the Varican disagree profoundly about abortion and that neither is likely to be persuaded by the other to change.

The Vatican points to language in the document proposed for conference consideration and argues that the use of certain phrases such as "fertility regulation" and "reproductive rights" actually signals the intent of planners to go on record in favor of abortion on demand. The document also urges all countries to strive to make accessible through primary health care systems various family-planning services, including those for pregnancy termi-nation. Mr. Gore, in his earlier speech, bad stated that "the United States has not sought, does not seek and will not seek to establish an international right to abortion," reiterating the responsibility of each sovereign nation to reach its own decision on this subject. But that pledge, says Mr. Navarro, doesn't square with the plain and the code words of the text.

International declarations such as the one to be considered in Cairo are moral statements meant to convey the collective wisdom of the signatory nations on matters of policy. There is no room for secret understandings about the meaning of phrases or conspiracies among some of the signatories to keep others in the dark about the intended meaning of the decla-ration. Any consensus achieved by these means would be meaningless. We don't think that is what's intended in Cairo although the Vatican apparently does but there is nothing disastrous about having this debate in the open. Perhaps language changes can satisfy all parties, but that's a long shot. Perhaps only 98 percent of the document will be accepted by all nations represented, but that would be a substantial achievement. But the Vatican is wrong to assume that Mr. Gore and this government have prepared a surprise attack to fool the world and trick others into supporting abortion on demand. As for future relations between the United States and the Holy See, the vice president's spokeswoman struck the right note: "As we deal with the Vatican on a host of issues, there is much more on which we agree than we disagree." Abortion is in the latter category, as both parties know. But that disagreement needn't destroy the conference or permanently damage relations between the two states

-THE WASHINGTON POST.

International Herald Tribune KATHARINE GRAHAM, ARTHUR OCHS SULZBERGER
Ca-Chairmen

RICHARD McCLEAN, Publisher & Chief Executive JOHN VINOCUR. Executive Editor & Vice President WALTER WELLS, News Editor SAMUEL ABT, KATHERINE KNORR and CHARLES MITCHELMORE Deputy Editors . CARL GEWIRTZ, Associate Editor ROBERT J. DONAHUE, Editor of the Editional Pages
 JONATHAN GAGE, Business and Finance Editor RENE BONDY, Deputs Publisher . IAMES McLEOD, Advertising Director IUANITA L CASPARI, International Development Director - ROBERT FARRE, Circulation Director, Europe

Directeur de la Publication: Richard D. Simmons Derecteur Adjoint de la Publication: Katharine P. Darrem

tracmational Herald Tribune, 181 Avenue Charles-de-Gaulle, 92521 Nearlly-sur-Seine, France. Tel.: (1) 46,37,93,00. Fax: Circ. 46,37,06,51; Adv., 46,37,52.12. Internet: IHT@eurokomie Editor for Asia: Michael Richardson, 5 Conterbury R.L. Singapore (IS11, Tel. (65) 472-738. Faz: (65) 174-2344 Mig. Dir. Asia, Rulf D. Kromepubl, 50 Gloucester Rd., Horn Kong, Tel. 872-922-1181, Fraz. (879) 72-73 10
Gen. May Cermany: T. Schibier, Fraedrichar, 15, 40323 Frankfur/M. Tel. (199) 72-75, Faz: (1979) 72-73 10
Gen. May Cermany: T. Schibier, Fraedrichar, 15, 40323 Frankfur/M. Tel. (199) 72-75, Faz: (1971) 72-73-10
Gen. May Cermany: T. Schibier, Fraedrichar, 15, 40323 Frankfur/M. Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 249-2254,
U.K. Adheritsing Office: 63 Long Acre. London WC2, Tel. (1971) 836-4802, Faz: (1971) 2

Herald Tribune Behind all the Tough Talk, Americans Are Soft on Crime

By A.M. Rosenthal

NEW YORK — Everybody in America is tough on crime. Parents, teachers, cops, judges, rich people, poor people, ditch diggers and brain surgeons just ask them.

So, listen: How come there is so much crime in America? How is it that we no longer possess our basic civil liberty from which all others flow - freedom to walk our streets without fear? Squirm, duck, run — there is no hiding place from the answer. We Americans are not tough on crime at all. We are pudgily soft, with great rolls of fat hanging from our bellies and brains. All we are is tough about selected crimes or some of the conditions that create crime - and only when action does not interfere with our own self-interest, lect, if that is the word. Here is a story. Across America, youngsters are carrying guns to high school. About 135,000 of comfort, desires and particularly with our own rigidities of intel-the little darlings do that every day. I am not talking about big nasty cines like New York or Washington, but places like Kings Mountain, North Carolina; Corpus Christi, Texas, and Eugene, Oregon.

Guns are legal in some of those down-home places and are as important to the spirit of manhood as testicles, maybe more, because they hang the guns out for everybody 10 admire.

But taking guns to school does not fit federal guidelines for high school safety. So some principals have taken action in schools where the kids like to park their handgums and sawed-off rifles in lockers. They know they do not have to go through the metal de-tectors that are almost as important as football teams to American secondary education.

Bill Celis, a New York Times reporter, writes that when Jim Ford, principal of a Eugene high school, took out the lockers, parents who should have been clouting their young gun-toters across their pistol-packing ears instead denounced the principal.

They said the kids would get nunchback from carrying books to high school every day. I mean, how cruel can a principal be? Other parents complain that when principals do their duty and expel gun-toting students, the lit-tle folk will have nothing to do but hang around the streets. Apparently it never occurs to anybody that gun carriers should be sent to a nice reform school where they might learn to study despite locker deprivation.

Tough? All most Americans do about crime or potential crime those high-school guns have been known to go off and kill people is to select one or two anti-crime pills and reject the total cure.

President Bill Clinton had to use every ounce of his political power to get the first congressional bill that takes a package approach to fighting crime - more police and prisons, anti-drug therapy and neighborbood effort. But the concept of a total anti-crime struggle has not yet taken bold in our collective minds. Like it or not, the list starts with effective punishment, which means swift and hard. Swift involves re-thinking the judicial system that allows endless delays. Hard means looking at the parole system to make sure it has enough probation officers to supervise criminals released early. Gun control. If you want to kill duck and deer go right ahead — with a registered gun. But tell your kids that if they are big enough to sneak any guns into school they are big enough to go Toughness means mandating not only prisons for addicted criminals but also the kind of strict long-term, compulsory physical and mental group therapy that governors like Ann Richards of Texas and Mario Cuomo of New York are ordering. The rule should be: No therapy, no parole.

Real anti-crime toughness means working everlastingly at the connection between poverty and crime. Poverty is not itself the root cause of crime. I walked often at night through the impoverished streets of Calcutta with never a tremor.

But crime is created by the concentration in disorderly neighborhoods of people at risk of failing" and the refusal of the United States to keep hunting for ways out for the residents, particularly the children. James Q. Wilson, the sociologist, writes that in Commentary.

Unless Americans put their minds to that and to the rest of the anti-crime list, we have no right to call ourselves tough on crime. We are just sitting there, soft and pudgy, with the rolls of fat around our bellies and brains.

The New York Times.

On a Park Bench in Hiroshima, United by the Bomb's Fallout

JERUSALEM — My mother and I are standing in Hiroshima Peace Park, at the monument marking the epicenter of the atomic explosion.

A group of Hiroshima maidens, along with the petite Koko Tanimoto, the daughter of Reverend Kiyoshi Tanimoto, cluster around us.

Most of the maidens are in their 60s now. Yet they are still there, as I remember them, having aged so negligibly that I recognize each and every one of them from my childhood, except for Koko. whom I haven't met before.

They exclaim and coo over me as they did when I was 5. I'm now 41. We have been here three days. The mayor of Hiroshima invited my mother to attend their memorial ceremony for my father a year after his death, in commemoration of the Japanese government's Norman Cousins Law, whereby all victims of the atom bombing are entitled to

My mother, dreading the prospect of making this trip alone, invited me. This is an escape from childhood. This is the fulfillment of a childish wish, had it ever occurred to me to wish it. For now free lifetime medical attention.

I'm not left out, I'm not left behind. It is in a circle around me, me and my mother, that the Hiroshima Maidens are lovingly bovering. The only problem, though, is that it took my father's death to get me an invitation. A young journalist bas just asked Norman Cousins's daughter for ber thoughts upon having just seen the atom bomb museum adjoining the Peace Park.

All my life people had related to me the way this man is doing, the way l often relate to the children of celebrities. That's why I fled from my father's public self, because it was scary being constantly erased by his fame. It was a fear not by a nuclear device.

At this moment, however, in Hiroshima Peace Park where so many pictures of my parents had been taken through the decades, I am standing not at the epicenter of the explosion, but at the center of my own glory. For the first time in my life, the question of whether 1 am getting undeserved attention on my father's account doesn't bother me at all.

Furthermore, I consider myself some sort of civilian representative for the American people, because our visit has coincided with a news item receiving a lot of coverage in the local press. President George Bush has refused to issue a formal apology to the Japanese government for dropping the atom bomh.

"Well, I would like to say that I've waited all my life to come here." The Hiroshima maidens murmur appreciatively. The journalist nods politely and scribbles something in his notebook.

"When I was a child I was always frightened of the Hiroshima bomh and I thought about it all the time,"

By Sarah Shapiro This is the second of two articles.

He looks up, lifting his eyehrows, questioning, and for a second I can't tell if he has understood my English, then see that it is the idea itself that is foreign. "Oh yes, my whole generation of Ameri-can children was very scared of the same thing happening to us."

I want to say: I thought nothing in life was worth investing in, since there was always the chance we'd be extinguished any minute; and to explain how at an early age I was distanced psychologically from my own life, since compared to the suffering of the Hiroshima maidens, my own sorrows seemed to me hut the petty dramas of a spoiled American.

I want to say that the possibility of nuclear war, against which it was impossible to protect anyone or anything the mere idea of tortuously slow death from radiation sickness and of fire storms reducing the whole world to a cinder - rendered pitifully insignificant everything mundane, commonplace and small, including me.

I want to get through to this man, my mother and to the Hiroshima maidens that no matter bow ridiculously self-centered and self-dramatizing it may have been to say so, I, too, had been hlasted by the Americans' Hiroshima homb. It fell on me, too. The journalist again smiles politely. One maiden steps to the side and lifts her Nikon for a picture. In a flash they've reassembled, their arms encircling us, my mother and I at the center of their devotion. For the hundredth time during these past three days, they are leaning in toward us like smiling flowers obeying the law of tropism.

And on my own face for the umpteenin ume i ieel mat smile again, the one that I recognize from all those group shots my parents used to bring hack with them from their trips to Japan. It's the smile of my mother. So warm, so eager, the smile is trying to reach out to the Japanese people over the American wrongdoing.
How incredibly satisfying it is now to be over here on this side of things. The adult in one of those group photographs, not the irrelevant child holding it later in her small hands!

Somebody taps me on the shoulder. It is Koko Tanimoto. "I have wanted to talk to you." she says. "Can you come with me?"

A couple minntes later we are seated on a park bench, with dozens of pigeons fluttering at our feet, pecking for crumbs. "I have wanted to talk to you not only during this trip," Koko begins. "I have wanted to talk to you my whole life." She apparently spoke fluent English.
"Your whole life, Koko?"

Her round face tilts up at me with ber large, dark eyes underneath the straightcut black bangs. She must be about my age, I think. And I don't know her mar-ried name.

"Yes," said Koko, "you and I never met before you came on this trip to Hiroshima, but when I was a child, I used to think of you."
"You did?"

"Yes, very often." She gives me a big, warm smile. "Very often through the years.

"You see, while I grew up, my father and mother were always involved with the Hiroshima maidens. They were working very hard on the church project, to belp them. Because anyone who was damaged by the bomb was sbunned by the rest of society. They had lost face.

I want to say that the possibility of nuclear war, against which it was impossible to protect anyone or anything, rendered pitifully insignificant everything mundane, commonplace and small, including me.

They were flawed.

"Those girls used to go around in veils to cover themselves because of the feeling against them. So my father opened up his church basement to make a workshop and got many sewing machines and they would all come there, all the girls. They spent their time there sewing. It was their honorable work.

ine to see the workshi and it was she who went back to America and told your father about it. In the beginning, when your father and mother came, many of the girls would not show their faces, they were so ashamed.

"I myself had no scars from the bomb. But the maidens, everyone paid much attention to them. So I felt left out. I felt my father did not pay attention to me. I was not so important!

"Your parents told me that they had four young daughters in America. One time I asked my mother, Who is taking care of Mr. and Mrs. Cousins's daughters?" And she said they were surely being taken good care of. But I wondered about those girls in America. I wondered about you. I wanted to say something to you,

"On the morning that the bomb fell, I was an 8-month-old baby. I was a very active baby, my mother tells me, and she was busy that day.

"She didn't have the time to run after me through the house, keeping me from trouble, so she just picked me up and did her chores with me in her arms. That is wby I survived. When the house collapsed in the atomic explosion, I was protected by her arms and I was not

"My father tried to come bome from the church, but there were so many people who needed help on the way that it took him a long time. At last he thought: 'I must go home!' He heard us crying under the house and dug us out. He saved us. "The American television program This Is Your Life' brought us [my parents and me] to the United States to do one of their shows about the Reverend Tanimoto, who saved the Hiroshima maidens. He was famous by now. My father didn't know that the moderator, Mr. Ralph Edwards, had arranged for me and my mother to come from Japan also to be on the show. 'My father beard me and my mother's voices and he was very surprised and we came out to emhrace him. My father

"Then we got a shock. There was the voice-over of someone who was saying be was the pilot of the plane that bombed Hiroshima.

"I could not believe what I was bearing at all! I had always imagined this man and hated him. I'd grown up thinking that if I could kill that man, I would. We met him. He cried. He couldn't stop crying on the show. That man I came to like very much. He was a fine sensitive man!"

Koko continued. "As the years went by, though, in one respect it gradually became apparent that I was not normal. I did not grow. So I was taken to the Atomic Energy Commission, because they were tabulating the effects of radiation on the population that had been near the epicenter. They found that this bow the radiation affected me. No other sign.

"Every year after the bomb, the AEC held a convention in Japan, to discuss their studies and their findings. I was one of their case histories.

"So every year, I was brought to the auditorium where they had their big meeting and I was taken up on stage. Each year I was supposed to stand in my underwear and the doctors and scientists examined me and discussed my progress. To help me.

"When I turned 12, I was beginning, you know ..." Koko gestured to her chest. "To develop, a girl. The AEC convention was meeting and I was summoned as usual. They told me to undress as always. And I did not know how to ... refuse them. So I did as they expected. The audience - it was full of male doctors and scientists, bundreds of them. And I stood on stage. They looked. That was my atomic explosion.
"That was my Hiroshima bomb."

© The Jerusalem Post. Distributed by New York Times Special Features.

For Northern Ireland, the Future Depends on Transcending the Past

WASHINGTON — The Clinton was quick to boast of its role in promoting the cease-fire in Northern Ireland.

A harmless vanity, perhaps. This administration scems to view foreign policy as a minor extension of domestic politics: If its Irish-American constituents are bappy, God's in his heaven and all's right with the world. The rest of us must take a more complicated view. The

No party to this tragic argument can escape history. It must be lived with and, if possible, transcended.

Irish Republican Army's announced cease-fire is a slender ray of bope, but no more. If the IRA may be taken at its word a hig if - it is admitting that a quarter century's campaign to break the will of the British government by violence has failed. Bombings and assassinations including the assassination of Lord Mountbatten and the attempted assassination of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and principal members of her cabinet, acts worthy of North Korean or Libyan thuggery at their worst - have not forced the British government to abandon majority rule. That is the essence of what the IRA is now acknowlBy Edwin M. Yoder, Jr.

edging, if again it in fact means The issue has never been well understood in the United States, where IRA propaganda goes far to muddle it, especially in Washington and Hollywood. Not long after the present troubles began, Senator Edward Kennedy articulated the romantic "Irish-American" view of the struggle when he compared the role of the British Army in Ulster to the role of U.S. forces in Vietnam. The senator's comparison was not well received and little has what it says.

been heard of it since, at least from him. But behind the scenes, militant Irish-American organizations continue to supply financial aid and comfort to the IRA. its gunmen and bombers. Their sanctimonious hands are spattered with the blood of IRA victims. Worse still, the appearement of militant pro-IRA elements has been the centerpiece of Clinton administration policy, highlighted by the visa given last spring to the IRA's political front man, Gerry Adams.

They're still at it. The announcement of the cease-fire was accompanied by the news that the White House has again broken the rule against U.S. visits by known terrorists by granting a visa to a founder of the IRA, Joe Cabill, His errand is said to be to explain to American sympathizers why the terror has been called off. Did he tell them the truth - that it has been called off because it failed?

While celebrating their role in Irish realpolitik, the optimists in that British officers had not muthe White House should pay attention to the demands that Sinn Fein, the IRA's political arm, continues to make: The British Army must get out of the six counties, and the six counties

The case for transcent must become a part of the Irish Republic. The Protestant fanatics, of course, say never.

If the IRA really is going to give up trying to bomb the British out of Northern Ireland, the British Army can be thinned ont and no one will be happier than the British public. You don't learn from IRA propaganda, so plendful in the American media, that the troops were sent as much to days, some of the followers of the protect Roman Catholics from is true. Now as before, the presence of the British Army is a token of Britain's attachment to majority rule and to the principle that legal political arrangements must not be changed by - must in fact be reinforced in the face of Assuming that all goes well, the three-month trial of good faith and after that the peace talks, PARIS - With no pomp at all. what might the Irish future look and very scant ceremony, the like? Both London and Duhlin Peace Conference has presented agree that the issue must be set- to the world its second achievetled by talk, not by communal ment: the Treaty with Austria was violence. The IRA and Sinn Fein are at least pretending to agree. We may all wish that Ireland had a less embittering history — that So protracted have been the sit-Irish patriots had never made tings of the Conference that the their island a springboard for the attempted Catholic reconquest of England in the distant past, or tinied over the home-rule issue in this century. But no party to this tragic argument can escape history. It must be lived with and, if never been stronger. With the end of the Cold War, the world has re-

The case for transcendence has entered an age of destructive na-tionalist and tribal passions. Yugoslavia stands as the chilling example of what happens when fossilized religious, communal and ethnic hatreds boil over into civil war. Ireland is not immune to such an outcome. But the now ancient comities to which Irish fanatics of both Catholic and Protestant per-suasion are so wedded make less sense today than ever.

Some peoples remember too little history. The Irish, tragically, remember too much. Washington Post Writers Group.

IN OUR PAGES: 100, 75 AND 50 YEARS AGO

1894: Dangerous Fishing protect Roman Catholics from Protestant rowdies as to protect the peace against terrorists. But it with unpleasant incidents. One gentleman who was fishing on the quay on Saturday [Sept. 1] evening watched his float so long that he dozed and fell into the river. Fortunately his fall was witnessed by a bargeman, who brought him out of the water.

world now manifests but slight interest in its labors and their result. As Renner remarked yesterday, somewhat sadly: "When I came to Saint-Germain the trees were in bloom, now the leaves are falling." 1944: Hitler to Speak

LONDON — [From our New York edition:] Adolf Hitler, reported by German diplomats to be planning a sensational speech Sunday [Sept. 3], probably will announce the crossing of the Ger-man frontier by General George S. Patton's tanks and summon the German people to battle on their "holy soil." Hitler, who five years ago set out to conquer the world and succeeded in bestriding the Continent before the tide turned disastrously, is expected to offer his nation what Prime Minister Churchill did the Britons in their 1940 extremity — "blood, toil, tears and sweat."

* a . ** . . **

Luba Talks

* Commun

511

21 14 15 14

218

 $\pi^{(1)} \stackrel{\mathcal{M}}{\longrightarrow} 1$ graduate No. 15

124 44

11 1 12 1 1 1 1 1

gath take of a low

grad of the file

State of the State of graywr iv

Control of the second

17.4

Walter See a. 1214 3 ::: Vage of the Sec Bereit and

-447 ÷ ... ें हैं के to grant in A Crist. Mar. 1.19 3.00 mg * - 100 m Miles and the second second

The state of the s 16 TO 4 390 Complete the second 1

7 71 Ta. 211 A SECOND S - - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1

The State of States ±10€ 100 mg hilm in his

- - -

11.5414

TO THE PERSON

per trains and the second

Party of the state Chillies Street de de la laction de la constitución de la constituc The state of the s White to be a set that was

rmors like Ann Richards
A and Mario Chemic of he is are ordering. The id be. No therapy maps, all anti-crome toughts in working everlashing. 13 warking everlastings course, lead poinced but is serviced erime. Powerty to not the errors of crime land the tright through the fished success of Cale il exime is evented by Rentration in disput ing, and the tentent of the position of the tente of the out for the readens, by the children lane, by the sandoged wrace by these American per to the to that and to the fee anti-crome its, we have to call converse posts e. We are mer alling to and pudge, with the file tound out he has my by d When the home than alternate explicit a land and are arms and land are arms.

Fallout .

fried to come temperate I there were a small par d help on the way only Trune, At her to move me! He he was scan television page Lafe brenet o the Cuite. Sade top man my an the great at saved to House And Samere . Box 6 Men that it work wards have about where the commence of the he dies Mari de en en en dan serr o. cerdu ...

Mark they Service ... pokit in the Missi,1 believe where Ind green Best Elli: Hr 1 223-31. . . a for A Process ores that A Sail a mere l'ac. after if. Attenti Man in gage eet i 30.1 A 981 1 1 I Free 42.0 rived

En Anders

Materia ti-

E Briston.

N. 1 1467. . 4 775 ŤŽÁLI Apriliani Agra! 41 % 232 71 1 123 Her

ម្រើក ថ្មាននេះ and the fi est. 6.78 4.4 g 1 - - - - a har .

1015 P

4. 15 · 1

1 4 th. . All at Mallan Cert 1 Kets or t PR 1- 10 12 $4 H3175 1 糖 统际。

M: Hitera special k soften in 20 金融が高がか

Hffine y - y 214 B-3" mg 3, m 464 - E

 $\text{litting}_{\mathcal{L}_{i}} = \mathbb{R}_{i}$ ALL. BA15.--#E5. 3 ()

A Cuban sleeping while two companions repaired their raft on the beach at Cojimar as the refugee flight continued.

How Communism Honed Boaters' Skill

By Gabriel Escobar

Washington Post Service SANTIAGO, Cuba - The socialist revolution gave these men a trade and taught them well. How else could a rusty bed frame, aluminum gutters, wood scraps salvaged from the port, plumbing leftovers, tar, tarpaulin and old green paint have been turned into this?

The sum of the parts is a 12-foot boat, a beauty built in just 96 hours on a hot roof in a rundown neighborhood. And now, with the work done, the builders are about to take hold of the oars they made and set off for the detention camp at the U.S. naval base in Guantanamo Bav.

"This can go from America to Europe," said Diosdado Shombert Fernández, a 50-year-old refrigerator repairman."It is a Cuban Kon-Tiki."

"You can go out on a trip that's sup-posed to take three bours, and then the wind comes, and then what?" he said. "That's why we're making this as if we're going to Europe."

The boat is, in many ways, a measure of the men who made it. As other Cubans rush to leave on inner tubes tied with twine, these men have weighed the consequences of the journey with the same precision they used to construct the sleek

Among the nine are believers and non-believers and half-believers in the revolution. They are the sons of parents whose loyalty to President Fidel Castro was cemented by the government's first effort here: converting a garbage dump where people lived and foraged for food into a cutlery factory. The best the men can hope for if they reach the U.S. base is indefinite detention, the same fate faced by the hundreds

'Over there, a technician who works can buy a car after a year. Here I don't even have a bicycle.'

Diosdado Shombert Fernández, a refrigerator repairman who have fled southeastern Cuba in the last two weeks.

The worst fate of all is not reaching the base and being confronted with the now well-chronicled terrors of the open seas. In these poor, predominantly black neighborhoods, the apocryphal stories include vivid descriptions of floating limbs, ghostly rafts and insatiable

In conversations with the men wbo built this boat and with others, these tales are set against the reality of life in Santiago, Cuba's second largest city, whose commitment to Mr. Castro is held up as a national model.

In the neighborhood where the boat is being built — and it is not the only such construction project here — people have not seen an egg in four weeks and have survived mostly on the 2.7 kilograms (6 pounds) of rice allowed monthly to each family. Children started school Thursday wearing the same clothing they wore summer. What are referred to as "shopping" places - the dollar-only stores frequented by tourists and Cubans who can afford them - are held up as examples of how the system has failed in Santiago. A pair of cheap children's shoes in these stores cost $4, the equivalent of two months' salary.

"I have never liked the system," said Mr. Shombert, a father of two who is prepared to leave his family behind. "I am totally Cuban, but I think capitalist. Time is money. Time lost is money lost."

"Over there," he added, referring to the United States, "a technician who works can buy a car after a year. Here I don't even have a bicycle."

Humberto Fayola, a 33-year-old radio and television repairman, sat silently inside the boat while Mr. Shombert spoke. He was putting bathtub caulking along the cracks between the wood bottom and the side. The decision to leave was difficult because, at beart, he still believed.

"I don't like the United States, to be honest," Mr. Fayola said. "The problem here is all economic and not political. 1 had a lot of bope in the revolution. What happened? I have sacrificed a lot and gotten nothing back."

Protesters Wreck Japanese Exhibit In Seoul Museum

SEOUL - South Koreans angry at a Japanese plan to atone for wartime atrocities attacked an exhibit of Japanese ceramics on Friday, damaging valuable artifacts, witnesses

A group of about 150 people threw eggs and rocks at the Japanese Embassy in Seoul, protesting as inadequate Tokyo's plan, announced this past week, to set up a $1 billion fund for cultural and vocational projects to atone for Japan's acts during World War II.

The protesters included several elderly women wbo bad been among the 200,000 women, mostly Asians, forced to serve as prostitutes by the lmperial Army.

Several dozen of the protest-ers then disrupted the exhibit of traditional Japanese ceramics at a Scoul museum, smashing glass boxes containing objects. staging a sil-in and chanting anti-Japanese slogans. The demonstrators dispersed after about two hours, and no arrests were made.

Witnesses said attackers smashed about 15 glass exhibit cases in which more than 100 items of traditional Japanese arts and crafts were displayed.

The exhibition hall was littered with porcelain, shattered glass, dolls and earthenware, the witnesses said.

Japanese Embassy officials said the objects on display were works of famous craftsmen designated "national human treasures" and were highly valued.

A protest statement said the Japanese fund, announced on Wednesday by Prime Minister Tomiichi Murayama, did "not help at all to solve problems."
"We know the fund will be used as a gateway for cultural invasion." it added.

In Manila, Filipino women who had also been forced to serve as so-called comfort women during the war rellied outside the Japanese Embassy on Friday to denounce the plan.

"By not consulting the comfort women on its proposed so-lution, or addressing their demand for direct compensation, the Japanese government vio-lates their rights." said a statement issued by Lila-Pilipina, a group supporting the women.

Japan refuses to pay direct compensation to the comfort women, saying all claims of reparation had been paid for by a peace treaty in the 1950s. Japan's planned fund will instead he used to set up vocational training centers and undertake other projects in a gesture of atonement to the comfort women. North Korea dismissed Japan's plan on Friday and called on Tokyo squarely to face up to its responsibilities and pay compensation.

"The Japanese authorities can never be allowed to dispose of the liquidation of the past this way," a Foreign Ministry spokesman was quoted as saying by the Korean Central News Agency, monitored in To-(Reuters, AP)

CASINO

D'ENGHIEN

15 minutes from PARIS

Open for all games

Monday - Sunday 3 p.m. - 4 a.m.

(Weekends and Bank Holidays)

ROULETTE • BLACKJACK

BACCARA • CHEMIN DE FER

Restaurant Le Baccara

Reservations: (1) 34.12.90.00

AUX LYONNAIS

Focing St German-des-Prés. 22, rue uma Apolinaire. Tel.; (1) 42,86,00.88. LE PETIT ZINC

Facing Eglise St-Germaindes Prés. Traditiona culsine Good value for money. Manilona in every gulde. 11, rue Saint-Benaît T.: 42 61 12 70 Open every day unit 2 a.m. YUGARAJ Holled as the best Indian restaurant in France by the leading guides foir conditioned). 14, no Douphine. T., 43 26,44,91.

THE CENTRAL SOURCE

Mickey's Ears? Goofy, Flight Attendants Say

TOKYO — Flight attendants working for Japan's biggest airline never dreamed they had signed on with a Mickey Mouse operation. Until they were asked to wear ears, that is. In a publicity campaign aimed at bringing the company out of a business slump. Japan Airlines last month introduced jumbos with Walt Disney characters painted on the outside.

The company also asked its female flight attendants to wear oversized mouse ears — with big red bows — to welcome passengers aboard and promote Disney character goods for

One flight attendant said that wearing the ears would make her and her colleagues look silly. "We're not children," she said. The flight attendants union says it is negotiating with management to modify the plan.

Thailand Deports Sect Chief

KUALA LUMPUR - The

head of the banned Islamic sect Arqam, Abuya Ashaari Muhammad, was deported to Malaysia after the police in Thai-land detained him Friday, the national news agency and po-

The government-controlled Bernama agency said here in an unattributed report that he was brought back hut his present whereabouts were unknown, It was not known if Mr. Ashaari was arrested or wbether be bad gone underground.

The action, however, suggested that the government might have decided to arrest and charge him. Bernama gave no details.

In hanning Al Argam last week, Malaysia condemned the cult-like following of Mr. Ashaari and his allegedly deviationist view of Islam. The government said the group had become a national threat and was sowing disunity

Dining Out AMSTERDAM PARIS 7th THOUMIFUX BRASSERIE DE ROODE LEEUW PARIS 15th LE WESTERN The Reference for lovers of the American West with American & Tex-Mex specialities Party Express Monu including a choice of starters and main course with coffee and brownies. Traditional bistra cooking in authentic 1900 docar, Excellent wines & mineral waters. 32, rue 5t Marc. Tel.: [1] 42 96 65 04. FF 150 funch & dinner! Paris Hilton 18, av. Suffren Tel : 42,73 92.00 CHEZ FRED NEW FURSTENBERG One of the oldest bistres of Poris. French madrianal cooking 190 bis bd. Péraire. Reservature. Tel.; (1) 45.74.20.48

LE CLOS SAINTE-MARIE and its flowered terrace, on a pedastion work, Colm atmosphera Iradiilonal cuisine, near Etalle and Porte Maillar. 1, place Charles Fillian Tel., 46 77, 33 27.

KERVANSARAY Turinh & Int'l specialnes, lobster bor, best sectional restaurant, 1st floor Mohlerstr,9. Tel., 5128843, At conditioned, 80m, Opera. Noon-3 p.m. & 6 p.m. -1 a.m., except Sunday. Open halidays

U.S.-Cuba Talks, and the Exodus, Go On

Compiled by Our Staff From Dispatches UNITED NATIONS, New York - U.S. and Cuban officials resumed talks Friday on immigration, amid indications that Cuba was seriously weigh-ing Clinton administration proposals to resolve the crisis creat-ed by thousands of refugees setting sail for Florida. Negotiators refused to speak to reporters before the talks be-gan at Cuba's UN mission, and it was not clear if the two sides were close to an agreement. But public statements by American and Cuban diplomats after a first session Thursday suggested that some major differences remained. According to American and Cuban officials, the Cubans were seeking to use the talks to call for elimination of Havana's biggest grievance with the United States, the trade embargo. while the Americans were insisting on talking about immigration matters only.

President Bill Clinton has repeatedly said that he will not discuss the embargo with Presi-dent Fidel Castro and will do nothing to lift it until Mr. Cas-tro, who has led Cuba since mocracy. The talks came as the exodus of Cuban refugees in makeshift rafts and boats continued. U.S. Coast Guard and navy sca Thursday in flimsy row-boats, crude rafts and sailboats.

1959, takes steps to restore de-

the early morning bours Friday.
All will be taken to a camp set up at the U.S. Navy's base at Guantánamo Bay in Cuba.

Since Mr. Castro said in early August that his Coast Guard would no longer prevent Cubans from leaving, more than 20,000 people have fled the island in rafts, boats and inner

The two sides' differing goals made some members of the American delegation fear that it could be hard to persuade Cuba to accept a deal that involved only immigration matters.

Although the United States has long treated Mr. Castro as a mortal enemy, the Clinton ad-ministration agreed to the talks with the hope that Mr. Castro could be persuaded to stop the exodus of refugees.

The main subject of the talks was an American proposal that the United States grant entry rights to more than 20,000 Cu-bans each year in return for Havana's calling a halt to the chaotic exodus.

11 Killed in Indonesian Bus

JAKARTA — Eleven Indonesians were killed when their ships picked up 1,903 Cubans at minibus was hit by an express passenger train in central Java, Fax: + 49 6102 39329 the Antara press agency reportonly valid where legal Another 145 were picked up in ed Friday.

has long clamored for: a firm commitment from Washington to grant the entry rights. This would give the Cuban leader a safety valve that would belp him get rid of thousands of dis- join the exodus. contented Cubans.

The spokesman for the U.S. delegation, David Johnson, described the talks on Thursday as "serious" and "businesslike." He said the United States had made an offer that "can meet what we believe is a a mutual objective: channeling the desire to immigrate into a legal, safe, orderly, predictable and de-pendable process and stemming the uncontrolled outflow." But Ricardo Alarcón de Que-seda, the former Cuban foreign minister, who is beading Cuba's delegation, said the only serious way to resolve the exodus of Cubans was to address the tbree-decade-old embargo, which Havana insists is fueling the exodus.

"All they have to do is change that basic issue," Mr. Alarcon said on Cuban radio Thursday. chaotic exodus.

Mr. Alarcón, who is the pres-ident of the Cuban National offer Mr. Castro something he Assembly, accused the U.S. side of seeking to sour the atmosphere by suggesting that the Castro government had released about 100 prisoners in August and encouraged them to

Win up to 10 Million DM by taking part in a German Lottery German Lottery Marquardt POB 10 12 07 D-63012 Offenbech Germany Tel. + 49 6102 320988

"That information is oreposterous," he said. "It's a way to create a very negative atmosphere, not only for the talks but also for those Cubans that are seeking a new life in the States.

The Clinton administration sought the negotiations because its initial effort to halt the flood of refugees failed. On Aug. 19, Mr. Clinton ended a three-decade-old policy of admitting all Cubans, confident that Cubans would prefer to stay at home rather than be detained indefinitely at the Guantánamo Bay Naval Station, But since then more than 15,000 people have set out by sea.

Marie-Martine

8, rue de Sèvres,

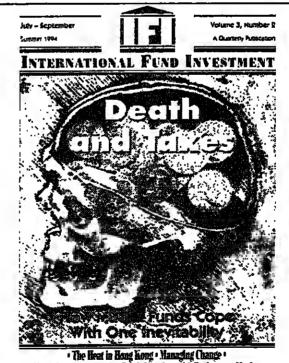

· The Heat in Hong hong · Managing Change · Chanceleon Swap Funds • Funds March on U.S. Retirement Market · Asian Castody · EX Investment Directive Analysis ·

I.F.I. is the one and only publication devoted to providing unbiased coverage of this fast developing sector of the financial world.

> Reactions to I.F.I. have been highly enthusiastic, demonstrating that the magazine is badly needed by the asset management industry.

ON FUND INVESTMENT

'I found it to be of great interest." Gilbert de Botton - Chairman - Global Asset Management.

You have made our industry appear as exciting in print as it is in real life. Congratulations." Marc.L.Landeau - Chairman - Olympia Capital Sir Marc Cochrane - European Director - G. T. Management "It is very interesting and professional...

"A great diversity of valuable information it really will fill a gap in the market." Jean Paul A: Francq - International Director -Crossfinance S.A.

"It reads brilliantly and appears to be receiving universal approval." Mark Adorian - Managing Director - Micropal.

Topics include: relevant to many areas."

Fund analysis and performance.

 Opportunities and pitfalls in the markets. Developments in investment management.

Custody and administrative issues.

Regulation and technology.

Personality profiles.

Herald Eribune. I.F.I. is a quarterly magazine published by the International Herald Tribune.

Return your order to: International Herald Tribune, Simon Osborn, 181 Avenue Charles-de-Gaulle, 92521 Neuilly Cedex, France. Or fax to: (33-1 46 37 21 33)

101
Please send me the next 4 quarterly issues of I.F.I. for USS120 (FF.700)	For business orders, please indicate your VAT number: (IHT VAT number: FR74732021126)
Name	Payment is by check or credit card.
Company	Please charge by credit card Amex Visa Access
Address	Number
City/Code	Exp date Signature
PLEASE TICK ONE BOX WHICH INDICATE	S YOUR PRIMARY BUSINESS FUNCTION:
Institutional Improved Intermediary Improved Institutional Improved Improve

Careers for the 90s Teaching English The American University of Paris 34, av de New-York, 75116 Paris AUP's TESOL Certificate Program prepares you to enter the field of English teaching abroad.

Intensive daytime classes (12 weeks, Sept.-Dec. 1994)

Free Information Session: Thursday, Sept. 8 at 18h30 Call to reserve a place:

Tel. (1) 47 20 44 99

Herald Eribune

Don't miss the upcoming Special Report on in the September 5th issue of the newspaper.

AVIATION

Exploding the Myth of Pont-Aven

ONT-AVEN, France — Powerful myths get entrenched in art histo-ry as in other fields. It will take more than just one exhibition to dispel the fiction of a solid, stylistically consistent group of artists gathered around Gauguin at Pont-Aven.

But "Le Cercle de Gauguin en Bretagne" with 70 works on view at the Musée de Pont-Aven until Sept. 26 and an im-portant catalogue by the curator of the museum, Catherine Puget, is a first step. The focus is on 1894, the year when Gauguin, devastated at losing a court case against an innkeeper who retained all his paintings, left in mid-November, never to return to Brittany.

SOUREN MELIKIAN

The truth is that Gauguin, stockbroker who turned full-time painter in 1883, was too complex a man and too excited by the novelty of his discoveries in his art to stick to one formula for very long. The flagship of the show, the portrait of a girl painted in the autumn of 1894, widely deviates from the manner associ-ated with his "Pont-Aven period." The memory of the juxta-posed patches of lavender blues, rusty reds, dark greens all subtly blending, with which the master handled the Breton countryside in the vintage years 1888 to 1890, merely lingers around the monumental figure that fills the canvas. The mass of deep yellow, toned with orange and shot through with almond-green sliv-ers looks like a color explosion.

ENTALLY, Gauguin was already turning his back on Brittany, The portrait, "Bretonne en Prière" (Breton Girl at Prayer), is not of a Breton girl. She wears the yellow smock that missionaries in Tahiti forced on the girls in their care. Puget notes that the cap is not Breton either. Nor are the angel's wings, for that matter. Not even pious Breton girls grow wings. Gauguin's "por-trait" is a flight into fantasy with an ironic farewell to the Symbolists in Pont-Aven who had played a role in the development of his style.

They were no longer relevant to him. That same year, Maurice Denis, the man who wrote down the rules of Gauguin's teaching in an article published in 1890, came to Loctudy in the summer and painted one of the "Le Soir, Loctudy."

Gauguin's praying girl is enough to convince anyone that there was no question of a "Pont-Aven School" at that point. The two school at that point. The two pictures are light-years apart. In "Le Soir, Loctudy," the bust of a woman springs out of the lower corner left as in a Japanese print and the handling of her blouse, done in swirls of juxtaposed dots, sends back echoes of Pointillier.

A different beritage was kept up in the work of others, equally distant from Gauguin's monmental style and from the Symbolist dreamlike evocation of Denis. When Henry Moret met Gauguin at Pont-Aven in 1888 and became very close to him, the group of artists around Gauguin disparagingly dubbed Moret "the Impressionist."
Looking at "Waiting for the Fishermen's Return," done in 1894, one can see that Moret deserved the label.

A group of women is scanning a choppy sea handled in Neo-Impressionist brushstrokes. Three tiny boats loom on the horizon. The artist paints what the eye sees, not what the mind conceives, as Gauguin and Denis alike would have it, albeit in vastly different styles.

But the identical labels could conceal huge variations. There is little in common between the Denis and a picture by the Englishman Eric Forbes-Robertson at Pont-Aven about the same time, even though Forbes-Robertson took part in several of the "Exhibitions of Symbolist and Impressionist Painters" organized by le Barc de Boutteville. "Great Expectations" has a sculptural quality to its figures, a sense of depth and perspective and a painterly quality to the highly structured composition that set him apart, sier, and Lacombe's would-be Symbolist allegiances, could have been working on another planet. "Le Nabi à la barbe rutilante" (The Nabi With the Red Beard), portraying Sérusier, is little more than kitsch with literary pretensions. Charles Filiger fell into the same trap while turning for inspiration to the seventh-century Ravenna mosaics and medieval enamels. There is little in his spoofy "Sainte Cécile," done yet again in 1894, to indicate that Filiger was ever part of Gauguin's "circle in Brittany."

German and

Paul Gauguin's "Bretonne en Prière," at the Musée de Pont-Aven exhibition.

Georges Lacombe, despite Chamaillard. They met at an the "Nabi" denomination conferred upon him by Paul Seruand Gauguin came to see de Chamaillard as his pupil. This is remarkable concerning a painter as short on ideas as he was on skills. De Chamaillard's landscapes, composed like the picture postcards of his time, do not bear the remotest connection to Gauguin's teaching, despite the years he spent at Pont-Aven.

Louis Roy, with whom Gauguin struck up an instant friendship in 1889, presenting him with two of his own still lifes and painting his portrait that same year, had on the con-trary considerable talent. A still life of pears and apples

Interestingly, the same is true gathered near a fruitbowl, f artists the great man got to which Roy did in 1894, is one of know very well, like Ernest de the gems in the show. But al-though he continued to be close to Gauguin, who asked him that the intense lighting is reminis- bold. Probably before that.

cent of 17th-century Spanish O'Conor had painted a view of bition, however, is "Paysage de O'Conor. Born in County Ros-common in 1869, O'Conor had academic training in Dublin and Antwerp. He was in Paris by 1887, exhibiting his work at the Salon, After spending a year at Grez-sur-Loing, where Eng-lish and American painters con-gregated, the Irishman found his way to Pont-Aven in 1892. came back in 1893 and throughout 1894 was among the artists

TET. O'Conor's Pont-Aven landscape, unlike any by Gauguin, is far abead of his year to take care of the printing master's work, on the path to of a series of his own woodcuts, modernity. Undulating stripes Roy's picture bears no resemblance to Gauguin's work. The der a hilly countryside in which color is predominantly in nu- swaying trees are done in blue ances of other yellow. There is a and red streaks. Fauvism, a devigorous relief to the fruits and cade later, was not nearly as gravitating to Gauguin.

still lifes. It is entirely original, the forest path at Lezaven, The real surprise in the exhi- which is much closer to Gauguin, in a poetie vein. He also Pont-Aven" (Pont-Aven Land- did, in yet another manner, an scape) by the Irishman Roderie undated portrait of a Breton woman using color in rhythmi-cal curves that herald 20th-century Op Art.

Neither the landscape nor the portrait really make it to the grade of masterpiece. They find their limits in a certain clumsiness and hold out a prospect of wonderful things to come that never did. Once Gauguin was gone, the Irishman's talent withcred. He sank back into the academie rut.

Gaoguin's Pont-Aven had hardly been a school. It was an alebemy that touched off sparks in some. Marvelous at times and crassly mediocre at others, it simmered in a diversity that was so far barely sus-

The backyard view that the exhibition gives of the "Pont-Aven circle," by bringing in its most obscure participants, is a refreshing novelty.

Penny Arcade Arcana

Coin-Operated Devices Up for Auction

By Rita Reif
New York Times Service

EW YORK - When he was grow ing up in the 1930s in East Liver-pool, Ohio, James Smith 2d lived a trolley-car ride away from paradise: the Rock Springs amusement park in Chester. West Virginia. On family outings there twice a month when he was 6 or 7, he loved riding the Ferris wheel, listening to the com-pah-pah of the carousel and eating cotton candy.

"As soon as I could sneak away from the adults," says Smith, now a New York plastic surgeon, "I'd head for the penny arcade." As a tenaser, he continued playing the coin.

a teenager, he continued playing the coin-operated baseball and horse-racing games at the local pool half. "To my father," he recalls, the local pool half. "To my father," he recalls,

"that was gambling — cutright sinning. So when I got caught, he read me the riot act."
Smith's childhood passion was rekindled in 1964 when his wife, Nancy, gave him a birthday present of a penny-operated gambling machine. That modest gift spawned a collection of 1,000 bits of areade and fairground paraphernalia, one of the largest and most comprehensive ever formed. Sotheby's in New York will anction the lot on Sept. 16 and 17 in a sale expected to bring about $1.8 million.

"This is American history as seen through a fun-fair mirror," said David N. Redden, a Sotheby's senior vice president. Although coin-operated vending, gambling and music machines were also made abroad, he said, those produced in the United States are among the most prized by collectors. "There's something pretty universal in their appeal," Redden said. "It's a rancous form of Americana."

The penny-drop gambling machine that inspired Smith to acquire more of these devices is not for sale. "We're keeping it as a memento of the collection in which the entire family shared," he says. The Smiths' five children helped buy many others at flea mar-kets. They also helped restore and maintain them, a skill they learned from their father, who had apprenticed as a teenager on the broken wheels, gears, tumblers and household appliances in his own home. "I was the one to fix the clocks, the door locks and the washing machine," Smith says.

IRTUALLY every one-armed ban-dit and Chiclet dispenser owned by Smith is in working order, thanks to the efforts of his family and Gary Taplin, a restorer who was made curator of the collection in 1984. Now that the Smith children are grown and live elsewhere, says their father, who is 67, it's time to close the private museum in Greenwich, Connecticut. To ease the separation from his pinball machines and carousel beasts, Smith is focusing these days more on another holding amass over the last 15 years: postcards of hospitals.

Among the surgeon's pre-1950 coin-operated devices that come alive when fed a coin is a 1930s life-size belly dancer from the Palisades Amusement Park in New Jersey. Deposit a dime and it rolls its eyes and shimmies. Sotheby's expects that the novelty will sell for about $1,500. With a 1908 red-white-andblue metal "shake with Uncle Sam" strength tester, it costs a cent to grip the symbol's hand hard enough to ring the bell. The auction price may be as much as $9,000.

The machines are a cast-iron time line of popular obsessions and objects that Americans romanticized: baseball, football, hockey and horse racing. Transportation via balloon, bicycle, ocean liner, airplane and automobile, And war. One early 20th-century gambling machine depicts Admiral George Dewey at the Battle of Manila Bay of 1898. In another, a successful player shoots poison pills into Adolf Hitler's mouth.

For a cent, a test of strength.

"These machines reflect what people thought about, worried about and the ways they had fun," Smith says. "And in the years when they were popular, there really wasn't a lot else to do for amusement. What I still marvel at is how well those iron and oak machines worked. And today, only about 1

Austrian 13. October

Emil Nolde (1867-1956), Herbstmeer XVI. Estimate: £350,000-450,000.

Christie's second highly important sale of German and Austrian Art will take place on 13 October in London.

The sale will include works by C. D. Friedrich, A. von Menzel, C. Spitzweg, R. von Alt, L. Corinth, M. Liebermann, E. Nolde, E. L. Kirchner, K. Schmidt-Rottluff, F. Marc, C. Felixmüller, K. Schwitters, W. Kandinsky und M. Ernst.

A selection of works included in the sale will be on exhibition in Germany on the following dates:

9.-11. September, Dresden,

Galerie Neue Meister 13.-14. September. Christie's Berlin,

Fasanenstraße 72 16.-17. September, Christie's Düsseldorf, Inselstraße 15

19.-20. September, Christie's Hamburg, Wentzelstraße 21

22.-24. September, Christie's Frankfurt, Savignystraße 42

26.-27. September, Christie's Munich, Residenzstraße 27

For further information please contact Mayella Figgis in London on (4471) 389 2551 or Birgid Seynsche in Dusseldorf on (49211) 498 2986.

ART EXHIBITIONS

SWITZERLAND FONDATION DE L'HERMITAGE PEINTRES ZEOROWSKI MODIGLIANI UTRILLO SOUTINE ET COURS AND

24 JUIN - 23 OCTOBRE 1994

TOUS LES JOURS DE 10 H A 12 H.

H. S. A. WOSDU, SIOS IGUSE BARUTOOK

U.S.A.

NAGEN • DEWEY

SANTA FE

Quality Old

navajo & Mexican Textiles

505-B98-505B

COLLECTORS

Spink

English Paintings and Watercolours Oriental, Asian and Islamic Art Textiles · Medals · Militaria Coins - Bullion - Banknores

SPINK SPINK & SON LTD. 5, 6 & 7 KING ST.

ST JAMES'S, LONDON. ENGLAND SWIY 6QS TEL-071-430 7888 FAX: 071-839-853. TELEX: 916711

ANTIQUES

(14th century through 19th century.) FLYING CRAMES ANTIQUES, LTD 1050 Second Avenue, Gallery #55 New York, N.Y. 10022 Tel: (212)223-4600 - Fex (212)223-4601

"SERIOUS COLLECTOR"

Wishes to acquire individual pieces andfor entire collection(s) of 19th Century or earlier swords, rapiers, daggers etc. Must be in excellent condition Please lax particulars to: Cenada 416-667-0981

MUSEUMS

CLAUDE MONET MUSEUM IN GIVERNY THE HOUSE - CLAUDE MONET'S GARDENS THE WATER-LILY POOL

Open everyday except Monday, from 1st April to 31 October 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. wilhout interruption. West highway, dir. Rouen, exit Bonnières near Vernon (Eure).

Information: (16) 32 51 28 21 ...

Montepulciano Celebrates a Famous Son By Susan Lumsden

ONTEPULCIANO, Italy -Called the pearl of the 16th century, this noble Tuscan town of 14,000 might be better promoted as an oyster full of pearls of Renaissance architecture. Its 23 amassed palaces and churches are grouped in great-er density than those of Florence, its historic protector.

Even the town's shape is that of an oyster, served cool at 605 meters (2,000 feet) above sea level on a ventilated, forti-fied rock ledge overlooking vineyards. At first, Montepulciano seems like a miniature Florence, its Palazzo Comunale by Michelozzo having the same medieval tower as the Palazzo Vecchio. But with its Renaissance symmetry of windows and doors, it is quite different. Across the Piazza Grande, the Palazzo Contucci by the elder Sangallo looks like a cozier version of the Palazzo Medici, now public property in Florence. The Contucci, Montepulciano's oldest wine family, still live here.

The real pearl, by the same Sangallo, is the large, glowing travertine church of San Biagio, built away from its oyster for clear-er viewing on the road to Chianciano.

Until the end of the year, all the monuments are numbered, labeled, furnished and catalogued for a grand walking tour in honor of the 500th anniversary of the death of Montepulciano's most famous son, not an architect but a poet, Agnolo (or Angelo) Ambrogini (1454-94) better known as Poliziano, which he took from the town's Latin name, Mons Politianus.

Poliziano (or anglicized as Politian) was a child prodigy who translated The Iliad from Greek to Latin at a time when Tuscans were discovering humanism. After his lawyer father was killed in a vendetta, the boy fled to Florence, where he found protection from Lorenzo de' Medici.

From 1473, the Palazzo Medici was his 🛦 home. He tutored Lorenzo's heir, Picro, and the other Medici children, including two future popes, Leo X and Clement VII, all the while writing his first epic poem "Le Stanze della Giostra." It was dedicated to Lorenzo's brother Giuliano, assassinated in the 1478 Pazzi conspiracy, which Poliziano helped Lorenzo escape. "Le Stanze" revitalized the Tuscan dialect.

Poliziano's second masterpiece, "La Favola d'Orfeo" (1480), resurrected the myth of the poet seeking eternity through music and poetry. The play has inspired artists from Monteverdi to Cocteau. Films on the Orfeo myth will be shown in Montepulciano from Sept. 15 to 30.

Susan Lumsden writes about the arts from

BOOKS

BABY, WOULD I LIE?

By Donald E. Westlake. 291 pages. $19.95. Mysterious.

Reviewed by Bruce Cook ORDY folks, it's murder in Taney County - that's Branson, Missouri, the pleasure dome of the American heart-land And Douald E. Westlake is right there on the spot to tell the whole, dark, simister tale. Considering the author, it should not surprise you to learn that in his hands, the brutal facts aside, the whole matter becomes funny (peculiar as well as ha-ha) and occasionally downright hilarious.

He's had plenty of practice.
In the impressive list of works

NEW AUTHORS PUBLISH YOUR WORK ALL SUBJECTS CONSIDERED Authors World-wide knytted

Write or send your manuscript to

MINERVA PRESS

OLD BROWPTON PD. LONDON SW73DO

opposite the title page — 43 in all — he has given a separate category to what he calls "com and new as wet paint. And these while Sara may wax as lyrical as she likes over Branson, Middle honest, simple, slow to anger or America and Ray Jones, the all — he has given a separate category to what he calls "comic crime novels." Some of his best - "High Adventure" and "Cops and Robbers" - are is certainly its master. As with any Westlake book, perhaps better than most, "Baby, Would I Lie?" is set in recognizably authentic territory. The Branson he presents is the real thing, from the creeping "one-mile-an-hour" traffic on the Strip to the backstage lives of the star performers whose theaters line it.

tucked under this heading. If he did not invent this sub-genre, he

He doesn't ridicule. He doesn't patronize. When Sara Joslyn, a writer from Trend magazine in New York, goes bail and performing two shows a day at his theater.

"Branson is country-western star Ray Jones's spiritual home, judgment."

Her editor, Jack Ingersoll, supposes she has gone bonkers, of course, and flies out immediately to set her on the right path. Their relationship is complicated by the fact that they are lovers and apartmentmates. Both, too, are reformed alumni of the Weekly Galaxy, a tabloid that excels in scurilous reporting. that "Baby, Would I Lie?" has developed a plot parallel to the murder story. We follow Ray Jones and his stalwart (and very expensive). expensive) defense team through the planning and exe-cation of its strategy. And along with it, we see Galaxy's team of down to Branson to report on the murder trial of country star Ray Jones, she finds him out on hound the defendant and his lawyers, as well as the prosecution, every step of the way.

Ingersoll sees it unfold and decides they deserve an expose as exciting as Atlantic City, as all their own. He, of course, is clean as Disneyland, as fresh the one to report and write it, she likes over Branson, Middle America and Ray Jones, the hero of the great unwashed.

Jones is, sure enough, in a stew. He is accused of the rape and murder of Belle Hardwick, an employee at the Ray Jones Country Theater. While the evidence is purely circumstantial, with the wrong sort of jury it just might be enough to send him to the gas chamber. He knows it, but ole Ray, who is craftier than anybody realizes. has a plan, a way out of his troubles so daring that it may just free him from them all. Westlake has made Jones his own man. His attitudes, dialogue, everything about him may be taken on faith by the reader. And the songs he sings are pure country. If Westlake wanted, be could open shop as a lyricist in Nashville and make a second fortune for himself.

Bruce Cook, the author of many books, including a guide to Branson, Missouri, and the mystery novel "Rough Cut," wrote this for The Washington Post.

& Architect aa 005 1 151

1 77.34 200 . . 47.

1-1-027 T 50. 1 - E

وجويه برادات

ağı daribin biği Anna Marie 18 A.

Guiding the Visitors cana Around the Museums

By John Russell

EW YORK - Once upon a time, the great European museums did not see it as a moral duty to guide their visitors. It was assumed, on the contrary, that if visitors were hright enough to walk into the museum they would also be hright enough to find their way around. They did not want, and did not need, a semaphore system to keep them on track.

If quite another point of view was put forward in the United States, it was because it has always been the role of American museums to provide a community service cater to the specialist first. Sometimes that role seems to have grated.
As long ago as 1954 there was a director of the Metropolitan Museum who said, "We get them into the museum, and what do they look at? One thing after another. If they come to a fire hose, they look at that too." But those days are gone. Today the nurturing of the visitor has a high priority in major museums.

What is now called signage, or the science of signs, is the topic of the hour. The idea that visitors should not get to see what they want is ahhorrent. Even more so is the idea that they might get lost and stumble around like zombies. At the same time, visitors have to be made to feel at home without being subjected to an informational overload. It is at the very outset of their visit that they should be taken gently by the hand and sent on the right way. The key ingredient in that affectionate welcome is the brochure that is available at the information desk.

Anyone who doubts the use of these hrochures has only to go to a major museum in high summer. At the Metropolitan, for instance, more than 50 percent of the public is made up of foreign visitors. Hardly one of them is not hold-ing a brochure, which functions as visa and menu, talisman and passkey.

It might seem that the museum brochure is a one-size standard-issue. But even a casual perusal of a group of brochures from all over will show that on the contrary, the brochure is a volatile and a highly personal affair. National character, local pride, fashions in photography, internal rivalries and rival marketing strategies — all play a part. The performance of other museums in the matter of the brochure is also monitored.

A brochure can look clunky and long overdue for revision. But it is also possible for a brochure to be too beautiful. In 1988, when I. M. Pei's pyramid first became the point of departure for almost every visit to the Louvre, an orientation guide was produced after a long period of in-formed agonizing and collegial discussion.

It was a triumph of French intelligence, Order, logic and lucidity were everywhere paramount, A great deal of information was conveyed in a concise and unhurrying way. It was magical to look at. It might have been waiting for Maurice Ravel to orchestrate it. Folded, it measured no more than three by two inches. The paper was thinner than thin. It weighed nothing and had everything.

But alas! It was a hust. Nobody liked it. Opened out to its full size, it crumpled. The uncluttered plans did not correspond at all to the rough-and-tumble of finding one's way across huge spaces that were being mobbed in the name of novelty. User reactions were unanimous. This was a brochure that didn't do the job.

So it was hack to the drawing board, with beadaches and bruises everywhere evident. But the Louvre came back strongly. Its present brochure is — guess what? — a 12-page handbook. It is tall and narrow, with the information stacked up at the top of each page and the maps nestling at the bottom. It, too, is beautiful, hut sturdy, and built for hard wear.

Meanwhile, in the United States, the hrochure still wins out over the handbook. But as between one museum and another, it is strongly characterized. In Washington, the cover of the National Gallery of Art's hrochure makes the most of its commanding position in the architecture of the capital. (It doesn't stint on the vegetation either.)

At the Art Institute of Chicago, the floor plans barrel down the page as if to indicate that the museum has its full share of the thrust of the city itself. The point is rammed home, moreover, hy a hefty bunch of small-scale illustrations.

At the Getty Museum in Malihu, an unhurried luxury is the mark of a brochure that makes much of the enormous gardens and touches with a gentlemanly discretion on the ramified nature of its collections.

My prize, if I had one, would go to the Cleve-land Museum. Its brochure not only sites the museum precisely in the landscape outside hu manages to suggest that it is a friendly and bospitable place in which family outings will never feel out of place.

That point is heightened at the foot of page after page by the presence of a busband and wife marching along and clearly having a very good time. They are not from Cleveland. Nor are they of our own time. They are taken, in fact, from the work of a German artist called Hans Sebald Beham, who lived nearly 500 years ago.

T the Met, where roughly a million brocbures are printed every year and every one fmds a taker, a new and I revised one, printed on a two-color Japanese printer bought for the purpose, will be ready in good time for the museum's 125thanniversary celebrations next year.

Its publication is one of the many fine-tuning operations that the Met has in hand. Some of them have to do with signage. Others are in the more conspicuous arena of rooms remodeled and collections set out to greater advantage.

In parentheses, I must admit to thinking that there is nothing terrible about being lost from time to time in a big museum. Conjunctions and revelations may occur at such times that would never occur elsewhere or otherwise.

Not for nothing did I at one time give as my favorite recreation "Getting lost in big museums." This is a context in which "Break loose on your own!" is not necessarily had advice.

Venice Honors the Man Who Invented the Book

Aldo Manuzio set

By Roderick Conway Morris International Herald Tribune

TENICE—Compact, portable, capable of storing tens of thousands of words, with random access and requiring no power - the book, as Arthur C. Clarke has observed - is an information tool of the future as well as the past.

That the modern book, as we would recognize it 10day, was born so soon after the invention of movable metal type in the mid-15th century, was principally the work of one man — Aldo Manuzio, founder of the celehrated Aldine Press in Venice 500 years ago this year. To mark the anniversary, the Biblioteca Nazionale Marciana, Venice's national library, has staged an attractive and thought-provoking exhibition of more than 150 Aldine books and related Vears ago. manuscripts, "Aldo Manu-zio and the Venetian Milieu, 1494-1515," which runs until Sept. 15. The setting is the first-floor vestibule and main hall of Sansovino's library, opposite the Doge's Palace, not usually open to the public.

Manuzio was born near Rome in about 1450, at about the same time as the dawn of printing, and led the life of a wandering scholar and teacher until, in his 40s, he launched himself on a new career as a publisher. Venice had already established itself as the superpower of early publishing.

The Venenian government was quick to appreciate the possibilities of the new technology and the favorable conditions the city offered, from a skilled work force and an abundant local supply of paper to access to one of the largest and most cosmopolitan markets in the world.

For Manuzio, Venice had an added attraction. It was his primary amhinon to publish Greek classics and, after the fall of Constantinople to the Turks in 1453, the city bad become the refuge of so many Greek scholars, bearing thousands of manuscripts, that it had been duhbed "almost another Byzanium."

Manuzio's program to publish books in ancient Greek may seem rarified. But the flair and imagination he brought to the enterprise made him rapidly the most influential publisher of that, or possibly any other, age.

As a glance at any of his productions confirms, for him a book was a book, a new phenomenon that demanded a distinct form of its own, Thus, when many other backwardlooking printers were issuing books that resembled manuscripts, Manuzio squarely addressed the newly emerging secular "reading public" who wanted to read for education and edification, certainly, but also for pleasure.

To this end he created the octavo format, handy, portable and pocket-size. His texts were exceptionally clear and crisp, with wide margins and, to increase the ease of reading these smaller-format books, he invented what he called cursive type, hetter known as italic. He pioneered page numbering to aid rapid reference, and though his books ushered in new standards of care, he initiated the errata page to correct fugitive errors. Even the simple, elegant and practical bindings set the measure for centuries.

While he never lost sight of his central goal of publishing Greek books, he brought out numerous others in Latin and Italian, and even Hebrew, which achieved for him additional publishing firsts, including war memoirs, an instant medical book on gonorrhea. then ravaging Italy, and a modern-style travel book on the Caucasus. With Erasmus's "Adages" — a tome of Greek and Latin quotations - he created the first best seller. To produce it, he suspended the printing of other titles, obliging the Dutch humanist, then in Venice, to write against a deadline, printing as the copy came in.

His capacity for work was astonishing. He edited, set and printed almost the entire known works of Aristotle — nearly 3,800 pages — within three years. His high-pressure style of production was clearly not always understood by his contemporaries, hence the sign outside his printshop, which read:

"Whoever you are. Aldo earnestly begs you to state your husiness in the fewest possible words and be gone, unless, like Hercules to weary Atlas, you would lend a helping hand. There will always be enough work for you. and all who come this way.

 HE famous logo of the Aldine Press
 — a dolphin entwined with an anchor, denoting speed combined with reliability — was in due course imi-tated by other publishers as the ultimate symbol of publishing quality (often with scant justification).

Needless to say, Manuzio's books were extensively counterfeited. He helpfully warned his customers that you could literally smell such substandard fakes, as he used only the best paper and ink, a boast confirmed by the books in the Venice exhibition,

A perfectionist to the last, in 1513 be declared that "I bave never been sansfied with any book I bave published." But, in reality, by the time be died two years later, through his unique vision and superbuman energy, be bad not only guaranteed the survival and diffusion of ancient Greek literature, but also set standards of production in publishing that have yet to be surpassed.

'90s Architecture With a '60s Vision

Calthorpe designs grown-up, prosperous versions of the

he shows that the hippie commune was actually not that distant from the postwar suburb

that its wayward progeny sought to reject. The suhurh promised community but delivered alienation. The commune held out a bope of realizing the values advertised by the family room and the white picket fence. Now Calthorpe repackages that hope in the

This seems a noble undertak-ing. And Calthorpe's plans, as outlined in his book "The Next American Metropolis," probably go as far as design can to-ward shaping private suhurban development to humane ends.

With their links to mass tran-

UT they are also controlling in less enlightened ways. The fundamental decency of Calthorpe's intentions may obscure the fact that his designs do little to alter what the sociologist

M. P. Baumgartner describes as the "moral minimalism" of the

The image of harmony they present is the result not of social cohesion but of transiency, isolation and an underlying belief that "conflict is a social con-taminant, something to be pre-vented if at all possible and to be ended quickly once begun."

proposal for a military base conversion in the southwestern

United States, may well epitomize what Brand thinks is wrong with architecture. Exhibited earlier this year at the Los Angeles Museum of Contemporary Art's "Urban Revisions" show, it was the only theoretical project on view, and it served as a kind of emblem of the vision-

Certainly the swirling, organ-ic forms of the large model did not resemble a conventional city or suburb. The catalogue described it as a utopian community, combining visionary and agrarian ideals, "where carpenters and artists work alongside engineers and scientists."

ary spirit.

"Weed," Michael Sorkin's

American suburb.

form of solid real estate.

ippie commune. In doing so,

By Herbert Muschamp New York Times Service director to a fla.

ALL I

ga gritte

绝以.

50 8 1 2 4

(454) T

TREES ..

Arrest 1 41-" "

t and other

Act of the 414:00 Carried St.

≰মটা টাং ব শ্ববি

Lines .

d march

t

H NOTE !!

mi Ai 🔻

6298.5

die

Marie ...

E . 77 5

Maria b

OR PAGE

Mark Said I'

Sep. 150

Yes &

the line

majst : ...

1. 50

1112

-. .i

EW YORK - For architects, it's too soon for a Woodstock reunion. In this patient, not to say plodding, art form, the '60s counterculture never had a union in the first

Architects seldom get to do much building before they're 50, and beyond that, a movement that defined itself in op-position to authority was bound to have a rough time claiming an art that is traditionally bound to the status quo. But a countercultural vision of community has emerged in recent projects hy some prominent survivors of that generation.

Stewart Brand, author of a sit, pedestrian scale, higher denrecent book, "How Buildings sity, and provision for such Learn," is not an architect. hut amenities as open space, scenic as editor of the Whole Earth vistas, bike paths and day care centers, communities like Lagu-Catalogue, he was the leading na West, a development outside Sacramento, California, reprechampion of Buckminster Fuller's geodesic dome, a design that came closest to prosent an enlightened way to conviding the counterculture with trol suhurban growth. an architectural symbol. But Brand writes now that domes were a massive, total failure." They leaked. They offered no privacy. They resisted alter-

Beyond that, Brand has come to feel that innovation in architecture simply isn't worth the trouble. Though he has kept ahreast of changing times in the field of electronic communications, he condemns architects and the architectural press for promoting novelty at the user's expense.

He agrees with Peter Calthorpe, the San Francisco architect and planner, that "many of the follies of his profession would be avoided if architects simply decided that what they do is craft instead of art." Like Bernard Rudofsky and Sybil Moholy-Nagy, Brand cele-brates the tradition of vernacular building: barns, bungalows, Cape Cods and pueblos.

Yet as Brand romantically represents them, all these forms are domes --- forms of sheltered innocence uncorrupted by wilv urban ways. Unlike Plato, Brand wouldn't exile artists from his ideal community. He would simply forhid them to practice architecture.

"Art must be inherently radical," he writes, "but buildings are inherently conservative. Art must experiment to do its job. Most experiments fail."

FOR SALE/SOLD Two wheels, Forbes-style: Malcolm Forbes, the wealthy puhlisher of the husiness magazine bearing his name, owned one motorcycle for each year of his life before his death in 1990 at age 70. He recounted his passion for bikes - and hot air balloons in a monograph titled "Around the World on Hot Air and Two Wheels." One item from his collection, a 1988 Harley Davidson, was auctioned off for $12,000 in Pehhle Beach, California. Proceeds from the sale went to the AIDS Care Center at New York Hospital, Cornell Medical Center.

Marc Chagall (1887-1985), Young Bride Among Roses, gouache and pastel over pencil on paper, 24 x 20 in. (61 x 51 cm). Estimate: $250,000-$350,000.

25

September

1994

19th and 20th Century Paintings, Drawings and Sculpture

Auction: 25 September at 7.30 pm, Dan Hotel, Tel Aviv

The sale will include works by Mané-Katz, Chagall, Kisling. Mokady, Gutman, Rubin, Danziger and Arikha.

> Viewing: Dan Hotel, 21-25 September

> > Enquiries:

Anke Adler-Slottke or Matthijs Erdman in London on (4471) 839 9060, Nathalie Zaquin in Paris on (331) 40 76 85 79, or Maria Reinshagen in Zurich on (411) 262 05 05

Catalogue Sales: London (4471) 389 2820 Paris (331) 42 56 17 66

A BOCK OF GREAT FRONT PAGES FROM THE INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE REPORTING THE MAJOR EVENTS OF THE PAST CENTURY.

Reproductions of 150 front pages, many with Herald Tribune exclusive articles: like first hand reports from the sinking Tiennic, the Drevius trial, the 1981 failed coup in Madrid, the hurried departure of Marcos from Manila - and the. Venice campanile caught in mid-collapse by a Tribune photographer! Follow coverage of the First World War by one of the few newspapers that stayed in Paris and was virtually edited at

Read about people - Queen Victoria, Lindbergh, Jack the Ripper, the Windsors, Khomeini, Gorbachev - a century of news headliners and the events that surrounded them. Hardcover, 27 x 37 cms(10.5 x 14 ins), 168 pages. readable size text. The book is divided into six chronological sections, each with an introduction describing the period from historical and journalistic viewpoints. THE FRONT PAGE 1887-1992 is a distinctive personal or business gift. Order one — or several — today.

Return your order to International Herald	Tupmie Offers' 2'	Cathibton Roso, Dondon Sw2	00
vice, fax only to: (44-81) 944-8243	NAME

e send me	copies of THE	FRONT PAGE.

Price per copy: UK£39 (US$55), plus postage: Europe: £4.80 per copy:

Rest of world: £13. Please allow up to three weeks for delivery.

USA/Canada: £7.80:

Payment is by credit card only. Please charge to my credit card: ☐ Access ☐ Amex ☐ Diners ☐ Eurocard ☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa Card No. Life Hill Hill Expiry dates _

White House Denies Irish Aide's Report Of Clinton Aid Offer

By Ruth Marcus

Washington Post Service EDGARTOWN, Massachusetts — President Bill Clinton interrupted his Martha's Vineyard vacation Friday to meet with the Irish foreign minister, Dick Spring, who said Mr. Clin-ton had pledged additional eco-nomic aid to support the peace process in Ireland

"President Clinton gave his pledge that he wanted to assist further." Mr. Spring, who also serves as deputy prime minister, said after a 45-minute meeting. "I would take it as a firm com-

But the White House press secretary, Dee Dee Myers, said Mr. Clinton had promised no such thing. She said he had told Mr. Spring that he would like to find a way to help bolster peace hut had also made clear the "severe hudgetary constraints" under which he was operating and the need to ohtain congressional approval for direct assis-

The United States currently contributes $20 million annually for projects on both sides of

NATO: Paris Steps Closer

Continued from Page 1

warships and cargo planes from NATO - in practice, the United States - to allow European forces to carry out their own

Despite these U.S. overtures. closer ties, apparently because doctrines of keeping the alli- spect here and overseas. ance at arm's length. As recently as last spring, the French ambassador to NATO was telephone call from Mr. Mitter-

Echoing that, a presidential game," said Robert Bell, a hisaide said Friday that Mr. Mitterand had agreed this time to French participation "because today supervises a huge archive on Northern Iteland's war at the principal question of the on Northern Ireland's war at day will be Bosnia," where the Linen Hall Library in Bel-French troops will be exposed fast. "It's a closed society. It's to the fallout from any NATO monolithic. That comes from military action.

In fact, Bosnia does not figure prominently on the agenda, NATO officials said.

The political position of Mr. said. Mitterrand has weakened so-

AMSTERDAM

HANNOVER

INTERNATIONAL FELLOWSHIP meets at LKG, Pinkestr. 7. First and third Sundays at 10:00 a.m. All dominations. Tel.: 0511-551848

KJEV

INTERNATIONAL CRISTIAN ASSEMBLY IAOGI Evangelcal Fellowship, Sundaya, Kiev Council Trade Union, 16 Khreschalik Street, call Pastor Brown (7044) 244-3376.

LYON

LYON CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP,1 bis rue P.L. Bernau: 69100 Villeurbanne Sundays 700 p.m., Tel: 72 36 35 52.

INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY CHUPICH, Evergolical, Bible Believing, services in Engli-sh 4.75 p.m. Sundays at Enhaber Str. 10 (Uz Theresconstr.) (089) 93 45 74.

PARIS and SUBURRS

EMMANUEL BAPTIST CHURCH, 56 Rue

HOPE INTERNATIONAL CHURCH (Even-peical) Sun 9:30 a.m. Hotel Chon. Metro 1 : Esplanade de La Diffense. Tel.: 47.7353.54 or 47.75.14.27.

or 47.75.14.27.

THE CONSERVATIVE JEWISH COMMUNITY in Pare "Adolfs Shelorn" invites you to join them for Rosh Hashonneh and Yorn Kippur services. For details and seals, phone 45.53 84.99 or write Adath Shelorn, 22 bis, rue des Sellos Feuillee, 75016 Paris.

rue des Selos-Feunes, 75016 Paris.
SAINT JOSEPH'S CHURCH (Roman Cafholici. Masses Sunday, 9:45 a.m., 11:00 a.m., 12:15 p.m., and 6:30 p.m. Saturday, 11:00 a.m. end 6:30 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3:30 a.m. 50, avenue Hoche, Paris 8th, Tet. 42:27:28:56. Metro. Charles de Gaulle - Biole,

SALZBURG

BEHEAN BIBLE CHURCH. In Beree, They

searched the scriptures dealy "Acts 17:11, Evangeical English service at 10:30 a.m. with Paster David biboston, Franz Josef Strasse 23. For into call 43 (0) 662 45563.

STRASBOURG

ST ALBAN (Angican) at l'Eglise des Dominicans. Euchansi 10:30 a.m. comer Blvd. de la Victoire & rue de l'Université, Strasbourg (33) 88 35 03 40.

TOKYO

ST. PAUL INTERNATIONAL LUTHERAN CHURCH, near Idabashi Str. Tel.; 3261-3740, Worship Service: 9:30 a.m. Sundays.

TOKYO UNION CHURCH, near Omolesen-do subway sta. Tel. 3400-0047, Worship sennoss Sunday 8:30 & 11:00 a.m., SS at

If you would like a free Bible course by mail, please contact: L'EGLISE de CHRIST, P.O. Box 513, Staumon, Indiena 47881 U.S.A.

ZURICH-SWITZERLAND

ENGLISH-SPEAKING CATHOLIC MISSION

St. Anton Krypt, Minervostrasse 63, Sunday Mass: 11 30 a.m. Located near Kreuzpietz. Tram No. 15 or 11.

UNITARIAN UNIVERSALISTS

BRUSSELS: Tel. (32) 2-260 0226. or (32) 2-762-4293 meets 3rd Sun. of month. OCHEVANDERON (41) 31-352 3721.

DELBERO: (49) 6221-472116

BARCELONA: (34) 3-314-9154

the North-South Irish border. Mr. Spring said he and Mr. Clinton "didn't actually go into the detail of figures" hut expressed hope that "substantial sums would be forthcoming."

Mr. Clinton, speaking at a news briefing at his vacation retreat, said only that the United States was "prepared to take some steps to do whatever we can to help." Mr. Clinton said he was "delighted" by the news that the Irish Republican Army had declared an unconditional cease-fire after 25-years of hos-

The disagreement over how far Mr. Clinton had gone in promising financial help was the second time that situation had arisen since the announcement of the cease-fire Wednes-

Prime Minister Albert Reynolds of Ireland said Wednesday that Mr. Clinton had proposed a multimillion-dollar aid package, hut the White House said that day that he had made no

Mr. Spring, in his comments at the briefing, said the Clinton administration's decision to grant a visa to Gerry Adams, president of Sim Fein, the political wing of the IRA, "has proven to be a correct move." He added, "The granting of that visa played a significant role in showing Mr. Adams the correct path to follow."

Mr. Clinton with the Irish foreign minister, Dick Spring, on Martha's Vineyard Friday.

BELFAST: Ulster Protestants Dig Through History in Search for Identity

France has blocked bids for the IRA's political wing who has led his movement toward of President François Mitter- the negotiating table after two rand's fears of losing domestic decades of violence, commands stature if he hreached Gaullist attention and sometimes re-

But Mr. Adams has no counterpart among the Protestants with whom he must eventually ahruptly ordered out of a meet- make peace if Northern Ireland ing on military matters by a is ever to return to normalcy.

They don't know how to play the political and media game," said Robert Bell, a hisbeing under siege for such a long time."

What is so sad about it is, they've got the best cause of all they're the majority," he

This Protestant identity verely because of the rising pop-ularity of Prime Minister quence of poor media relations Edouard Balladur, a conserva- or failed political lobhying. It tive who is now a front-runner runs deep into the community ourselves as Irish. So, we've em-victims not only of terrorism

hlings of an international peace process they neither sought nor makes a nation." encouraged, Northern Ireland's Protestants have embarked in recent years on an energetic, unfinished search for their own history and culture, and for lessons that can be applied to the new political challenges. For many Protestants, when they hear the famous IRA slogan, "Brits Out of Northern Ire-land," which is the key IRA goal in peace talks, "We would not perceive that as being about the British Army," said George Patton, general secretary of the 80,000-member Orange Institution, the province's most influential Protestant religious, political and civic organization.

"It's us. It's us they want out."
So, as Britain has moved to bargain first with Ireland and now with the outlawed IRA over the province's future. Mr. Patton said: "We were brought face-to-face with the reality that Confronted with the rum- literature, culture and history issue of New Ulster Defender, Ulster cultural societies, magazines and pamphlet shops have spring up around North-ern Ireland. Lost Protestant po-ets have been "discovered" and revived. Protestant schoolchildren are dispatched on field trips to France, to see where thousands of Belfast Protestants died for the British Empire in World War 1 hattles.

Great warriors of old, even prehistoric mythological fig-ures, have been resurrected as symbols of Protestant determination to fight their cause, if Ulster people, bewildered and we were not being treated as the bedeviled by the international rest of Britain. So we asked, pro-Irish propaganda campaign 'Who are we?' We don't think of against them, should become harked on a great rediscovery of but of identity," said the latest

- the whole concept of what the organ of the outlawed Ulster Defense Association.

English ascendancy and Irish chauvinism have combined to suppress knowledge of Ulster and to deprive Ulstermen of legitimate pride in their heritage and identity," a piece of Belfast graffiti tells the city's Protestants. "Do you know your history?"

The history these activists seek to revive, and to apply 10 the present predicaments of the peace process, is a centuries-long tale of siege, religious con-flict with Irish Catholics, distrust, hetraval, and such enduring 18th-century Protes-necessary, to the last man.

This iconography is now turning up repeatedly in the propaganda and street murals of the key Protestant terrorist of a 17th-century event called the Plantation. The English monarchy, having just crushed a rebellion by Northern Irish dictably, the remaining Catho-Protestant arrivals, and the two Northern Ireland. sides have been in conflict ever

A key climax came decades lic. was overthrown by a Protestant relative known as William of Orange, from Holland.

ULSTER: Provocation Seen

Continued from Page I

seeks the reunification of British-ruled Northern Ireland with the Irish Republic, demanded that Britain withdraw its forces from Catholic areas of the North.

"Crown forces, including the RUC, are not acceptable in nationalist areas," he said, refer-ring to the 18,000 troops and 12,000 policemen of the Royal Ulster Constabulary who patrol the province day and night. John Hume, the Catholic political leader who was instrumental in drawing Sinn Fein into seeking negotiations, said in a BBC radio interview that Mr. Adams "is now making these demands politically and not by other methods, and that is a fairly major change."

Mr. Adams emphasized that his agenda was negotiable.

"We accept totally that other people will have different views on this, and in fact there may be other issues." Mr. Adams said. "So, all of this needs to be talked ahout and resolved, through dialogue."

Mr. Adams brushed aside juestions about whether or not the IRA's cease-fire was "per-manent," the adjective the British government wanted tagged to its statement.

The conflict that arose in the British cahinet has been resolved," he said, without elaborating.

Irish government sources

Prime Minister said a speech by Prime Minister Albert Reynolds on Thursday night, in which he said the cease-fire was "complete," appeared close to dispelling any doubts Britain might have had about the duration of the cease-

Sinn Fein will be treated like other political parties and allowed to join all-party talks on Northern Ireland's future three

In addition to the "fees," months after the cease-fire has taken effect, according to the terms of last year's Anglo-Irish peace hlueprint.

Mr. Adams said he was sure the IRA had anticipated such attacks as the slaying Thursday of John O'Hanlon, a 22-yearold Catholic, in shaping its new

And he repeated Sinn Fein allegations that British security forces, especially the Protes-tant-dominated RUC policemen, were colluding with Protestant extremists to fight the

"There is indeed evidence of collusion between them and the collusion between them and use very death squads that are carrying out these attacks," he said. "You may ponder on the weapons that are in the hands of the death squads courtesy of God was looking out for Shaman and Robert, too.

that three IRA prisoners and subjects in Scotland to move one from an IRA splinter heard the boy got killed, I just across and take their land. Pre- group, the Irish National Liber- hroke down. He's a baby. He's ation Army, were transferred just a haby." lies were unhappy about these Thursday from Britain to mediate concession to Sinn end up as he did.

Fein. Mr. Adams had demand"Bad little boy" was a comlater when King James II of ed Wednesday that IRA prison- mon phrase they used to de-England, a proselytizing Catho- ers in British prisons be hrought scribe him.

The prisoners included Patrick Magee and Gerard Mc-James fled to Ireland, and reli- Donnell, both serving life sengiously motivated armies loyal tences for trying to assassinate to the rival monarchs clashed at former Prime Minister Margathe gates of Londonderry, a city ret Thatcher in a 1984 hotel in Northern Ireland still segre- bombing that killed five people. gated hy violence hetween Aides said the transfers had Catholics and Protestants. Wilbeen scheduled in July. (Reuters, AP)

Fresh Expulsions By Bosnian Serbs

566 Muslims Shifted, UN Says

By Chuck Sudetic

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — In the largest single instance of "ethnic cleansing" in months, a gang of nationalist Serbs has driven 566 Muslims from their homes in Bijeljina in northern Bosnia, United Nations officials said Friday.

The latest expulsions, carried out Thursday night by a private militia under the command of Vojkan Djurkovic, brings to about 1,500 the number of Muslims driven from their homes in Bijeljina since the Serbs began a new wave of eth-nic cleansing in mid-July. Bosnian Serbs have driven over 3,500 people from their homes in the Bijeljina, Banja Luka and Rogatica areas over the same period, UN officials in Sarajevo said, adding that they expected the Serbs to expel an additional 600 Muslims from Banja Luka this weekend.

"This is a final push to create a Serb-only state," said Peter Kessler, the spokesman in Sara-jevo for the UN High Commis-sioner for Refugees. "These kinds of movements cannot happen without the full support of the Bosnian Serh anthori-

"Djurkovic and his people are making millions of dollars in the process," Mr. Kessler said, referring to reports hy refugees that they had been required to pay Mr. Djurkovic and his men from $60 to $1,800 in "exchange fees" to cross over a front line to territory con-

In addition to the "fees," practically all the arriving displaced people said Mr. Djurko-vie and his followers hadrohbed them of all their money and jewelry, not to mention property stolen from their homes and the value of the Muslims' real estate itself.

"No one is doing anything to stop it," Mr. Kessler said.

At least two women expelled from Rogatica several weeks ago had been repeatedly raped, including one who was in bondage to the former commander of the Serbian prison in the town, UN officials said.

Armed by Serbia and the Yugoslav Army, the Bosnian Serb rebels have rejected an international peace plan that would require them to recognize Bosnia's sovereignty and return a third of the 70 percent of Bos-nia's territory that they have seized since the start of the war bere in 1992.

On Thursday, Bosnian Serbian militiamen forced down a French Puma helicopter flying into a United Nations headquarters in Sarajevo with 11/ peacekeepers aboard, UN offi-cials said.

The Serbs hit the aircraft with six rounds of machine-gun fire, including four rounds into the fuel tank and two more into the gyroscope, forcing the pilot to make an emergency landing at Sarajevo's airport, the offi-

"An attack like that on a helicopter flying with clearance had to be premeditated," a UN offi-

The Serbs warned the United Nations earlier this week not to use helicopters to track arms seized from the weapons-exclusion zone around Saraievo.

CHICAGO: At 11, Killer Is Dead

being dead doesn't prove nothing. Shavon's not back. It's just more grief and sorrow for our neighborhood."

wasn't happy that Robert died," said Christopher Dean, one of Shavon's cousins. "That's another hrother off the street. Black folks is getting slaughtered."

the British military."

Britain, meanwhile, insisted that it was simply coincidence that it was simply coincidence Falls said: "I don't think I can take no more of this. When I

Many in Robert's neighborhood have said since the shoot-The move looked like an im- ing that they expected him to

He stole hicycles and started fights with other children, they said, and he had been arrested at least 10 times for armed robbery, arson and auto theft. Mrs. Falls said onc of Robert's aunts had walked around the corner on Thursday to tell Shavon's parents that she was sorry, and that Robert had also been killed

Robert's aunt said it was time for the block and the city to come together to end the vio-

Mrs. Falls said Robert had called his family on Wednesday afternoon, scared and wanting to come home. His family arranged to pick him up, but when they arrived he was not

"I believe the boy was killed because he wanted to turn himself in and because he knew too much about the older guys in the gang." Mrs. Falls said. "Who could be so cruel to shoot this little boy in the head like At a news conference Thursday, Superintendent Matt Rodriguez and Commander Earl Nevels of the Chicago Police said they believed they knew where Robert had been hiding since the Sunday night shooting. But they would not say much more about the investiga-

Mr. Rodriguez said Robert was killed between 11 P.M. Wednesday and 12:15 A.M. Thursday. His body was discovered shortly before 12:30 A.M. on Thursday. The superintendent said the boy had either been "taken or walked" a short distance into made at an inappropriate the underpass, a few blocks from where he lived and where Shavon had died. Then he was Korean officials in a somber shot, "apparently becoming a victim of the gangs."

"It's a dead-end street," Mr. Rodriguez said of the gangs, which become even more active at this time of year when they increase their efforts at recruit- region. ment as schools start the fall

Kathleen Kostelny, who studies the effects of violence on children as a senior research associate at the Erikson Institute of Child Development in Chicago, said: "It's an arms race on the streets of America. You only need one 12-year-old with a gun, then other 12-year-olds feel they need a gun."

Dr. Kostelny recalled asking 9- and 10-year-olds in a survey: "What would make you feel safer?" The overwhelming response, she said, was "a gun."

KOREA: Seoul Stunned

Continued from Page 1

caused simmering resentment among many officials here, par-ticularly since Washington and steps toward possible diplomatie recognition if North Korea abandons its efforts to build a

WHIC SCENE

Japanese M

CURREN

It was disclosed Thursday. that North Korea had sent aninvitation to former President Jimmy Carter to mediate the dispute, a fact that also leaves the government here cold since Mr. Carter is seen as taking a more sympathetic view of the North than the Clinton admin-

Xinhua, the official Chinese press agency, Deputy Foreign Minister Tang Jiaxuan said the withdrawal effectively rendered the commission inoperative. Mr. Tang was said to have agreed with North Korea that a new agreement should be negotiated to protect the peace on portant role in moderating North Korea's behavior and persuading it to halt its nuclear weapons program.

Chinese to back up its ally and lift its confidence.

China's withdrawal will weaken the commission, but officials in Seoul stressed that it did not appear to create new military tensions at the Demilitarized Zone or make hostilities any more likely in what is one of the most heavily defended

South Korea's Foreign Ministry said in a statement that the Chinese had informed the government of its move in advance. "We believe the decision was," deep political fault lines in this

RELIGIOUS SERVICES

MANNET: (49) 821-47-24 86 meets 4th Sunday each mo. at 2 p.m., Peace Church, Frauenlobst: 5, Munich. CHOSSROADS INTERNATIONAL CHUR-CH Interdenorminetonal & Evengelical Sun-day Service 10:00 a.m. & 11:30 a.m./ Kids Welcome, De Cusentizari 3, S. Amsterdem Into 02940-15316 or 02503-41399. MURENBERG: (49) 911-46-7307. NETHERLANDS: (31) 71-12-10 85 or (31) PARIS: (33) 1-40-50-08-19. UN: (44) 611-71-94-61. WIESHADEN: (49) 611 71-94 61. Next conference: Oct. 14-16. For into: (33) 1-47 05-39-77.

> THE EPISCOPAL CHURCHES OF EUROPE (Anglican)

PARIS and SUBURBS THE AMERICAN CATHEDRAL OF THE HOLLY TRINITY, Sun. 9 & 11 a.m.Nursery during 11 a.m. service. 23, evenue George V, Paris 75008. Tel.: 33/1 47 20 17 92. Metro:

ST. JAMES CHURCH, Sun. 9 a.m. Rile I & 11 a.m. Rite II. Via Bernardo Rucellai 9, 50123, Florence, Italy. Tel.: 39/55 29 44 17. FRANKFURT emmanutet Barrist Christin, so hie des Bons. Raisma, Rued-Malmalson. An Evengebed church for the English speaking community located in the western suburbs SS 945; Worship: 10.45. Children Schutch and Nursey, You's ministres Dr. B.C. Thomas, pastor Call 47.51.29.63 or 47.49.15.29 for vitomation. CHURCH OF CHRIST THE KING (Episco-pal/Angican) Sun. Holy Communion 9 & 11 a.m. Sunday School and Nursery 10:45 a.m. Sebestian Firz St. 22, 60323 Frankfurt, Ger-many, U1, 2, 3 Miquel-Allae, Tel: 49/69 55 01 84. EMMANUEL CHURCH, 1st, 3rd & 5th Sur. 10 a.m. Eucherist & 2nd & 4th Sur. Monting Prayer. 3 rue de Monthoux, 1201 Geneva, Swizsetend, TeL: 41/22 732 80 78.

FLORENCE

MUNICH THE CHURCH OF THE ASCENSION, Sur. 11:45 a.m. Holy Eucharist and Sunday School, Nursery Care provided. Seybothstrasse 4, 81545 Munich (Harlaching), Germany.

ROME ST. PAUL'S WITHIN-THE-WALLS, Sun. 8:30 am. Holy Eucharist Rite I; 10:30 am. Choral Eucharist Rite II; 10:30 am. Church School for children & Nursery care provided; 1 pm. Spenish Eucharist, Va Nepol 58, 00184 Rome, Tel: 396 488 3339 or 396 474 3559.

WATERLOO ALL SARTS' CHURCH, 1st Sun. 9 & 11:15 a.m. Holy Eucherist with Children's Chapet at 11:15. All other Sundays: 11:15 a.m. Holy Eu-charlet and Sunday School, 563 Childred et Louvain, Chain, Belgium, Tel, 32/2 384-3556.

WIESBADEN THE CHURCH OF ST. AUGUSTINE OF CANTERBURY, Sun. 10 a.m. Family Eucharist. Franklurier Strasse 3, Wiesbeden, Germany, Tel.: 49611.30.66.74.

EUROPEAN BAPTIST CONVENTION

FAITH FELLOWSHIP INTERNATIONAL meets at 9:00 a.m., Bone Nove Beptist Church Carrer de la Cutat de Ballaguer 40 Pastor Lance Borden, Ph. 439-5059.

BERLIN INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST CHURCH, BERLIN. Rothenburg Str. 13, (Sagler). Bible study 10.45, worship at 12.00 each Sunday. Charles A. Warford, Pastor, Tel.: 030-774-

BONN/KÖLN THE INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST CHURCH OF BONNKOLN, Pheineu Stasse 9, Köin. Worship 1:00 p.m. Celvin Hogue, Pestor. Tel.: (02236) 47021.

BRATISLAVA

ch Znaskeho 2 10.30-77 Jozep Kulacik, Tat 31 67 79

ole Study in English. Palisady Baptist Chur-Znaskeho 2 16:30-1745. Contact Pastor

BREMEN INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST CHURCH (English language) meets at Evangelish-Freidrichich Kreuzgemeinde, Hohenfohestrusse Hermann-Bose-Str. (anound the comer from the Bahnfol) sunday worship 17:00 Ernest D. Walker, pastor. Tel. 04781-12877.

BUCHAREST INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST CHURCH, Strada Popa Rusu 22. 300 p.m. Contact Pas-tor Mike Kemper, Tet. 312 3860. Household and mornings 11:00. Tet: 1-724 2862.

BUDAPEST International Baptist Fellowship. Il Bimbo u. 56

Internebonal Baptist Fetovering. II Emitto U. 55 (main entance Tapoticarnyu. 7, Immediately behind front entance). 10:30 Bible study. 6:00 p.m. Pastor Bob Zbinden. Tel: 1156;16. Reached by bus 11. BULGARIA INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST CHURCH, World Trade Center, 36, Orahan Tzankov Bwd. Worship 11:00. James Duke, Pasior. Tel: 704367.

CELLE/HANNOVER

DARMSTADT DARMSTADT/EBERSTADT BAPTIST MIS-SION, Bible study & Worship Sunday 10:30 a.m. Stadmission Da-Eberstadt, Bueschelstr. 22, Bible study 9:30, worship 10:45, Pastor Jim Wabb, Tel.: 05155-6008216.

DÜSSELDORF INTERINATIONAL BAPTIST CHURCH. English, Worship and Children's Church Sundays at 1230 p.m. Meeting temporarily at the Evengelech - Freierchildre Gemende in Rebingen, Germany (Kaiserberg 11). Friendly Fellowship, All denominations welcome, For judier information call the pastor. Dr. W.J. De Ley, Tel: 0211-00157. INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST CHURCH, En-

Ley, Tel.: 0211 - 400 197.

FRANKFURT

INTERNATIONAL CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP Evengelsch-Freikärthiche Gemeinde.
Sodsrest. 11-18, 6390 Bad Homburg, phonefac 06173-62728 serving the Frankurt and Taurus areas, Germany. Sunday worship 09:45, nursery + Sunday-school 10:00, women's bible studies. Housegroups - Sunday + Wednesday 19:30. Pastor M. Levey, member European Baptist Convention. "Dedara His glory amongst the nations."

8 ETHEL INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST

AETHEL INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST CHURCH, Am Dachsberg 92. Frankfurt a.M. Sunday worship 11:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m., Dr. Thomas W. Hill, pastor. Tel: 099-549558. HEIDELBERG

GRACE INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST CHURCH, Industrie Str 11, 6902 Sandhau-sen, Bible study 09:45, Worship 11:00. Pestor Paul Hendrix, Tel: 06224-52235. HOLLAND TRINITY BAPTIST S.S. 9:30, Worship 10:30. nursery, warm lellowship. Meels al Bloemcamplaan 54 in Wassengar. Tel: 01751-78024.

MADRID INMANUEL BAPTIST, MADRIO, HERNAN-DEZ DE TEJADA, 4. ENGLISH SERVICES 11 am., 7 pm. Tel: 407-4347 or 302-3017, MOSCOW

INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST FELLOWSHIP Meeting 1100; Kno Center Building 15 Druz-Druzhinnikouskuye Ul, 5th Floor, Hall 6, Meeto Station Baraksadneye Pastor Brad Stamey Pr., (085) 150 3293. MUNICH INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST CHURCH OF MUNICH, Hobstr 9 Engish Language Services. Bible study 16:00. Worship Service 17:00. Pastor's phone: 6908534.

PRAGUE International Bactist Fellowship meets at the Czech Baptist Church Vinchradska # 68, Prague 3 At metro stop Jirfhoz Podebrad Sunday a.m. 11:00 Pastor: Bob Ford (02) 311 0893.

WUPPERTAL

ZURICH -SWITZERLAND

ASSOC. OF INT'L CHURCHES

CELLE/HANNOVER
INTERNATIONAL BAPTIST CHURCH,
Windmulen Stasse 45, Celle 1900 Worship, 1400 Bible Study, Paster Werl Campbal, Ph.
(05141) 46416.

THE INTERNATIONAL PROTESTANT
CHURCH OF BRUSSELS. Sunday School
9.30 am. and Church 10:46 am. Katterberg, 19 (at the Int. School). Tel.: 673.05.81.
Bus 95. Tram 94. COPENHAGEN

INTERNATIONAL CHURCH of Copenhagen, 27 Farvergade, Vartov, near Radhus, Study 10:15 & Worship 11:30. Tal.: 31624785. FRANKFURT

GENEVA EV. LUTHERAN CHURCH of Geneva, 20

LLITHERAN CHURCH of the Redeemer, Old City, Muristan Hd. English worship Sun. 9 a.m. All are welcome. Tel.: (02) 281-049. LONDON

AMERICAN CHURCH IN PARIS. Worship 11:00 a.m. 65, Ouai d'Orsay, Paris 7. Bus 63 at door, Metro Alma-Merceau or Invalides.

STOCKHOLM RMMANUEL CHURCH, Worship Christ in Swedish, English, or Korean, 11:00 a.m. Sunday, Birger Jarisg, at Kungstensg, 17, 46/08/ 15 12 25 x 727 for more

TIRANE

WARSAW INTERNATIONAL CHURCH, Protestant English language expetitales, Sundays 11:00 a.m. (Sept.-May), 10 a.m. (June-Aug.); Sunday School 9:55 (Sept-May) UL. Micdows 21, Tel.: 43-29-70. ZURICH

WARSAW

International Baptast Church, English, Ger-man, Persian, Worship 10:30 a.m., Selterstr, 21, Wupperel - Eberfeld, All denominations welcome. Hans-Olater Fraund, pastor. Tet: 0202/4698384.

IN EUROPE & MIDEAST

AMERICAN CHURCH IN BERLIN, cor. of Clay Afee & Potsdamer Str., S.S. 9:30 a.m., Worship 11 a.m. Tel.: 030-6132021. BRUSSELS

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHUPCH, Nibelungen Aliee 54 (Across from Burger Hospital), Sun-day School 9:30, worship 11 a.m. Tel.: (069) 593478 or 512552.

rue Verdaine. Sunday worship 9:30. In Ge man 11:00 in English. Tet (022) 310.50.89. JERUSALEM

AMERICAN CHURCH in London 79 Tot-lenham Ct. Rd. Wi. SS et 10.00 a.m., Worship at 11.00 a.m. Goodge St. tube. Tet

INTERNATIONAL PROTESTANT ASSEMBLY, Interderominational & Evangelical, Services: Sun. 10:30 a.m., 5:00 p.m., Wed. 5:00 p.m. Ringa Myslym Shyri, Tel/Fax 355-42-42372 or 23262. VIENNA COMMUNITY CHURCH, Sunday worship in English 11:30 A.M., Sunday school, nursery, international, all denomine-

INTERNATIONAL PROTESTANT CHURCH English speaking, workship service, Sunday School & Nursery, Sundays 11:30 a.m., Schenzengesse 25, Tel.: (01) 2625525,

SAFETY: U.S. Bars Some Airlines

Continued from Page 1

ham ultimately prevailed.

tinue flying under stepped-up giving adequate safety over-administration scrutiny. These nations were among 30 to flights to other countries. in the first round of safety assessments, conducted over seve ed only on governments, not eral years; teams are surveying airlines. other countries, including major inspections of Russian and the administration sent four-

Chinese aviation operations. Seventeen countries passed muster: Argentina, Bahamas, aviation authority and whether Bangladesh, Brazil, Bulgaria, it has the expertise and willing-Guyana, Marshall Islands, of the International Civil Avia-Mexico, the Organization of Eastern Caribbean States, Oman, Panama, Peru, Ukraine and Venezuela.

Worry on Sowing Of Rwanda Crops

NAIROBI - The international community might have to feed millions of Rwandans well into next year as result of the civil war and its catastrophic aftermath, aid workers said on Friday.

to persuade Rwandan farmers the next cycle of crops.

With the onset of seasonal

Three of these - Guyana, Marshall Islands and the Orgales — were given "conditional" nization of Eastern Caribbean ratings that allow them to con-sight to U.S. operations hut not The assessments concentrat-

In its first worldwide survey, member teams to each nation for a week or more to assess whether the country has a civil Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, ness to enforce safety standards tion Organization. Of the 63 countries still being surveyed, officials said that the United States had cooperative agreements with 22 and that they were certain to be found capable. The 22 countries were the 18 European nations of the Joint Aviation Agreement, in addition to Canada, Japan, Australia and New Zealand. Until now, the administration has assumed that if a country certified an air carrier, the airline was in compliance with international safety standards. Inspectors, however, began to notice incidents and problems.

Finally, administration action was spurred by two events. The Jan. 25, 1990, crash of a rains this month, relief agencies say they have a matter of days Colombian Avianca Boeing 707 that ran out of fuel near New to return in time for planting York City focused intense news media and public attention on "If they miss the planting foreign airlines. Additional season this month, they will de- pressure was applied by House pend on food aid until mid-next hearings on "loophole airlines" year," said Jürg Eglin, an that would be allowed to fly a agronomist with the Interna- country's flag but essentially tional Committee of the Red were leased aircraft with "pickup" crews.

Pyongyang have agreed to take nuclear arsenal.

istration. In a statement carried on the peninsula. With the collapse of the Soviet Union, China is North Korea's last major ally. China is seen by the United States and South Korea as playing an im-

The countries also hope that China will encourage North Korea to emulate its policy of economic liberalization. The announcement on Friday was thus seen as an attempt by the frontiers in the world.

The news left many South mood, as they found themselves more dependent on the United States rather being able to operate independently in the discussions that could reshape the Basically, North Korea has a very flexible attitude toward the United States but has maintained a strongly hostile atti-tude toward South Korea," said Lee Sei Kee, chairman of the policy committee of the governing Democratic Liberal Party.

مِلَدَا عِنْهِ لِأَصِلَ quatters in Same

The Series has the fire, including form together

the fuel tank and the for make an eineren ...

H Sarajevon arrent &

An althou like their

The Scale warned thety

Vations carner the stay me Britanning to the

cised from the weapons

ion rone are und Same

, Killer Is Dead

toe on the many of the

the only and a second ith a gun the kis feet there and they are a men

What were a new one ?!

The The

Some the same and

KOREA:

Second Standard

A modition - = == !

Biggintar in this

William of the State of andre :

B. Mariel Nov. 12 472

ga kerani di di sasa

transfer to the same

de senguis in the will receive the transfer

As all the state of Belgamen of the section

339 law.

1 CF 1 77 17 1 17

a feet

$1 Was alale:

441- 11

pale attack

a services

$172115

Barg William ard with the second · 查案) ******

set in the

Calls the control

Jangeria e in a fairl 1921

Charles 1

Att March

figiel in the 動し続ける。

Parkets on the

Addis From

444-007

14 30 0

Marie 1

45

Birth

 $G^{(p+q+p+1)}$

property.

17 648 A. 16 "

22.5 (4.0)

61 A 111

操作型的 (2)30

general con-

##.8 T 11 +

uih hi:

3.4

gay III.

fact.

giv - 1.110 - 15

Later 1

.₩3₩ °°

e 140°41 * **

city's

1 that $\frac{g_{\Phi_{0}}(x,x)_{\Phi_{0}}(x)^{-1}A}{2^{m}}$

$2.4.3

A . C. S. C.

graph of Marketin

L # 320 50

(Mg min)

15 A 3 E #12 To 11"

457

2.12(1)

19000 110

Max :

Cints san!

sals said.

placed people and Mr by vic and his followed robbed them of all they was lended and proproperty stolen from Musines Ical cylaic new Musing ten come not be one in the one is desire the state of the state from Rogation orders, International Herald Tribune World Stock Index ©, composed of 280 internationally investable stocks from 25 countries, compiled by Bloomberg Business News. Jan. 1, 1992 = 100. inchequite one when were age to the former confown, UN officially age Armed in Serbal and gustav Atmy, the Robert Streets have retreated as tional prace plan day tedous their man and min's severement and to there of the her received 9/2/94 close: 118.11 here in 1905 the dailing On Thursday, Burgage an milmanen intera ? French Plants Indicaples into a United Solley peacel coper about the with MA roundle of made the Kausselle partie ope blemequated, 1/1 Approx. weighting: 26% Close: 96.66 Prev.; 97.09 Approx. weighting: 5% Close: 144.67 Prev.: 146.15 The Index tracks U.S. dollar values of stocks in: Tokyo, New York, London, and Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Hong Kong, Italy, Mexico, Netherlands, New Zaeland, Norway, Singapore, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and Venezuela. For Tokyo, New York and London, the Index is composed of the 20 top issues in terms of market capitalization, otherwise the Ion stocks are tracked. Industrial Sectors

An Inspiration for Diversification Reliance Industries Buys Into India's Infrastructure

International Herald Tribune, Saturday-Sunday, September 3-4, 1994

By Kevin Murphy International Herald Tribune

PATALGANGA, India - Those who survive the drive to this industrial area will find plenty of clues as to why Reliance Industries Ltd. is, by all measures, the largest company in India.

About 75 kilometers (47 miles) out of Bombay along a humpy stretch of hroken pavement otherwise known as the main highway to Pune. Reliance has managed to build a 200-acre world-class complex that is the hackhone of its rapidly growing empire that ranges from offshore oil drilling to sari weaving.

On a good day, the drive to Patalganga, where the outdoor telephones often don't work and the local power sup-ply is unreliable, takes less than three hours. On bad days, it can double.

Overloaded trucks, jam-packed huses, oxcarts, scooters, cars and pedestrians vie for space on the road, making it easy to see why Reliance, despite a multihillion-dollar investment in its core industries, is preparing to spend hig on infrastructure, a major diversification.

The company has committed to spend $1 billion a year for the next four years to fund a massive expansion plan in all of

Started 25 years ago hy Dhiruhhai

gasoline station in Aden, Reliance is now India are unsustainable without a flood among the world's top producers of of private money into the inadequate polyester and many of its raw material infrastructure.

components.

'In India, demand will always chase supply; if you can produce, you can sell.

Anil Ambani, joint managing director of Reliance Industries

now increasing capacities throughout its supply chain, huilding its own oil refinery and developing proven Indian oil and gas reserves with Enron Oil & Gas Co. of the United States. "In every major product area we operate in, we've seen double-digit compounded growth for the past 10 years," said Anil Amhani, Reliance's joint managing director and son of the founder, "In India demand will always chase supply, if you can produce, you can sell. If you can afford to install pre-emptive capacity, you are way ahead."

But the company knows -as do many Ambani with his savings from a job at a of its peers — that high rates of growth in

The situation will become even more First a trader of rayon and polyester pressing as India further dismantles tartextiles, pepper and cashews, Reliance is iffs on many imports that will force its economy to compete internationally on pricing quality and timeliness.

The potential in India is truly humongous," Vyas Mahesh, executive director of the Center for Monitoring the Indian Economy, said of an infrastructure sector now starved of funds but still without the final policy framework to channel them from the private sector. But a possible crisis is looming.

Done properly, India gets the roads, phones, power and ports it needs but which its central and state governments can't afford, analysts say, and individual companies, local and foreign, develop strong new lines of husines

Mishandled, the kind of diversification that goes against recent international business trends overstretches the parent groups and India gets a hodge-podge of poorly conceived ventures, hohhling long-term growth.

"We're not jumping the gun, not leaving our core strengths," Anil Amhani said, defending a series of potential moves into telecommunications, private

See RELIANCE, Page 13

Pay Isn't So Bad, U.S. Jobs Study Finds

By John M. Berry

U.S. economy is creating relatively high-paying jobs at a rap-id clip rather than just providing work for more hamburger flippers and discount-store clerks, according to a new Labor Department study.

While the study found that most of the nearly 4 million jobs added from 1988 to 1993 were in low-paying industries such as services and retailing, most of the job growth actually came in relatively high-wage occupations within those industries.

In recent years, some labor leaders, politicians and econo-

WASHINGTON - The number of manufacturing jobs, groups within industries by avwhich pay relatively high erage pay. wages, was shrinking rapidly.

> The Labor Department study did find that the number of peo- the industry breakdown showed ple working in manufacturing fell hy nearly 2 million in the last five years. But it also found that most of the jobs that had disappeared were in factory occupations paving the industry's lowest wages.

Using figures from the department's monthly survey of 60,000 households, Thomas Nardone, an economist with the Bureau of Labor Statistics. mists have complained that job ranked industries according to lated support — grew by 3.3

growth was strong only in low-their average pay levels. He also wage industries and that the ranked nine occupational

The results showed "a clear dichotomy," he said. Although joh growth concentrated in lower-paying industries, he said, the occupational data showed most of the growth to be in higher-paying occupations.

Mr. Nardone found that from 1988 to 1993 the number of jobs in the three highest-paying occupational categories executive, administrative and managerial; professional specialty; and technicians and re-million. The median wages for those categories ranged from $495 to $635 a week.

By comparison, the median weekly pay for all workers was

In the middle three joh categories hy pay — precision production, craft and repair; administrative support, including clerical; and operators, fabricators and laborers - 1.2 million johs were lost. Most of them were in manufacturing, but a significant number were in con-

At the same time, though, the three lowest-paying occupational categories expanded, the

U.S. Jobs Data Show Growth Is Solid but Slow

By Robert D. Hershey Jr. New York Times Service

WASHINGTON - Employment figures published Fri-day offered the clearest evidence so far that the U.S. economy has slowed from last vear's unsustainable pace but retains enough strength to avoid hraking too severely. The Labor Department said a solid 179,000 johs were created outside the farm sector in August, but that number was considerably less than the 200,000 or more expected by economists. The unemployment rate stood at 6.1 percent, essentially the same level for the fourth straight month after falling markedly in early 1994.

The data, which provide the first hroad view of economic performance for the month, seemed to further reduce the chance that the Federal Reserve Board will raise short-term interest rates again at its next policy meeting.

At the same time, the growth in factory and other jobs was sufficient to hlunt concern that the economy, which is now being restrained by monetary policy, might sink to an unsatisfactorily low pace of expansion.

Merrill Lynch called the figures "constructive" on the whole, while the White House took the occasion to hoast of 3.1 million new jobs having been created in the past year.

"The U.S. economy continues to enjoy healthy growth in incomes and employment, said Laura D'Andrea Tyson, head of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, More-over, she added, "there is no sign of an intensification of inflationary pressures in today's Private analysis noted that average hourly earnings rose a skimpy 2 cents last month, cutting the annual rate of increase over the past three months to just 1.5 percent. This portended a slowing of consumer spending as the holiday shopping season approaches.

"With wages falling below inflation, consumers are not going to have the discretionary huving power to give the economy much support," said Lacy H. Hunt, chief economisi ai HSBC Holdings Inc. in New York. The Consumer Price Index rose at a 3.3 percent compounded annual rate for the three months through July.

What seems 10 be happening according to economists and husiness people, is that companies faced with sharp increases in costs of commodities hut unable to raise their own prices are stoutly holding the line on wages, their higgest cost.

■ Bonds and Dollar Drop The employment data failed to extinguish fears of inflation in financial markets Friday, where Treasury bond prices and the dollar finished lower, news agencies reported from New Bond prices shot up sharply just after the johs report, hut they fell back as traders scrutinized data and focused on the small increase in hourly wages in August. The price of the benchmark 30-year bond fell 15/32 point to 100 4/32, sending the yield up to 7.49 percent from 7.45 percent.

The dollar tracked bonds lower, hecause less demand for government securities translates into less demand for the dollars to huy them.

The dollar closed in New York at 1.5550 Deutsche marks, down from 1.5744 DM Thursday. It slumped to 99.13 yen from 99.75 ven. to 5,3255 French francs from 5.3910 franes and to 1.3661 Swiss francs from 1.3225 francs. The

See JOBS, Page 10

ECONOMIC SCENE

116.33 115.69 +0.55

131,58 130,88 +0.53

Finance 117.91 117.35 +0.48

Services 123.48 123.32 +0.13

Capital Goods

Flaw Materials

For more information about the Index, a booklet is available free of charge.

Write to Trib Index, 181 Avenue Charles de Gaulle, 92521 Neully Cedex, France.

Consumer Goods

Do Japanese Methods Always Work?

Fri. Pres. % close change

120.79 120.17 +0.52

137.74 136.88 +0.63

105.39 104.92 +0.45

137.99 137.17 +0.60

By Patrick Lannin

ONDON — Companies all over Europe have rushed to embrace Japanese production techniques in an effort to improve efficiency and cut costs, but a recent British report highlighted the difficulties of adopting techniques developed in a different economic climate. The report found that European companies that were heavy users of Japanese methods had slimmer profit margins in times of recession than other companies. But one of the report's writers, Nick Oliver, a lecturer at the Judge Institute in Management Studies at the University of Cambridge, said companies should not

"The lesson I would learn is to be patient, because on the other side of the recession the picture should reverse itself," Mr. Oliver said.

Two companies - Porsche AG and Presswork Metals, a small British company that makes parts for car safety equipment - are confident that lean production methods such as just-in-time stock control, total quality management and continuous improvement will work in the long run.

A spokesman for Porsche, Michael Schimpke, said the German automaker had adopted the continuous-improvement approach, known as kaizen, in 1992. Japanese consultants helped introduce more worker participation. Clutter in the workshop, which also had been used as the storeroom, was minimized and two layers of management were stripped out. Inventory has been cut from 30 days' worth to a few hours' worth, and the time to make one Porsche car has fallen by 30 percent. Mr. Schimpke said greater effi-

The thing the Japanese have taught us is that they are prepared to wait a long time for a return.

Reg White, chief executive of Presswork Metals

ciency had led to cost savings at Porsche.
The study found that although companies that made extensive use of Japanese methods benefited from reduced stock levels and increased sales per employee. these companies showed a faster fall in operating profits from 1990 to 1992. when Britain was going into recession, than concerns which had adopted the practices to a lesser extent.

Mr. Oliver said it would be premature to assume that Japanese methods were unsuitable to conditions in Europe. He said some companies in the study might have been vulnerable because they were less willing to lay off workers, a result of the closer ries that had developed between employers and employees under the Japanese approach. This could be an advantage as conditions improve. "Those who shed labor would have all the problems of having to get people in. recruit them and train them," Mr. Oliver

He said at certain points in the husiness cycle, Japanese production techniques would cut into profitability.

Mr. Oliver said he was horrified by some reactions to his report. He said those who said that industry should halt the application of the lean production philosophy typified a knee-jerk reaction found in some sectors.

"Short-termism" is something that Reg White, chief executive of Presswork Metals, which employs 260 people and has turnover of £18 million ($28 million).

says he abbors. The thing the Japanese have taught us very clearly is that they are prepared to wait a long time for a return," he said.

His company is part of a British-government-sponsored program called Learning From Japan, which aims 10 help second-tier motor industry suppliers pick up Japanese techniques.

Mr. White said he had introduced the non on company performance along to As at Porsche, where the consultants got rid of storage shelves so staff would not have to climb up and down to get supplies, Mr. White said a lot of the idea of teams and passed more informa-

Japanese approach was simply common "The higgest thing about going to Ja-pan was how simple a lot of their pro-cesses were," he said. "Simplicity seemed to be the key issue with them."

Sept. 2

Renault Profit Soars Despite Flat Sales

od last year, despite only a tiny August sales.

The increase was due mostly to capital gains.

Renault reported a first-half pretax profit of 1.72 billion French francs ($317 million). compared with 764 million francs a year earlier.

French car industry, where overall sales are up 6.5 percent so far this year after falling 15 percent last year.

Overall auto sales in France gain was counted as income crossed shareholdings when venture.

PARIS - Renault SA, the August compared with the cor-French state-owned maker of responding month in 1993. The cars and trucks, said Friday its French automaker PSA Peufirst-half pretax profit more geot Citroen and the Italian than doubled over the like peri-

> Sales hy Renault's auto hranch were 68.94 billion francs, or 76.7 percent of group

Income from financial opera-tions jumped to 640 million francs from 160 million francs, thanks to a capital gain of 488 million francs from the sale of lowered because of these re-But its flat revenue under-shares in Renault's one-time sults," Jean-Louis Cochard, an lined remaining problems in the merger candidate Volvo AB.

> Renault also had a one-time gain of 302 million francs from the sale of a stake in the Argenwhich totaled 394 million merger agreement. francs, compared with a loss of 192 million a year earlier.

said. The state plans to retain at least 51 percent of the company and will decide if and when to begin its sale by Sept. 15.

Friday's results "may even facilitate a sale if the price is analyst at MIA in Paris, said.

hought stakes in each other ear-

Compiled by Our Staff From Dispatches jumped almost 19 percent in from associated companies. Volvo hacked out of a full (Bloomberg, Reuters, AFX)

> The French government's VW Optimistic for Year plans to sell part of its 80 per-Volkswagen AG's supervise plans to sell part of its 80 per-cent stake in Renault to the public are not expected to be "continued positive" business > affected by the results, analysts trend in the remainder of the year at both group and parent levels, AFX reported from Wolfshurg, Germany. In a statement, the company said its supervisory board decided at a meeting that the company's Autoeuropa joint ven-ture with Ford Motor Co. in Portugal should be reviewed.

It said that negative curren-Renault and Sweden's Volvo cy influences and a heightened competitive situation" have ly in 1991, but both agreed last made it necessary to reassess tine joint-venture Ciadea. That December to untangle their the economic viability of the

Broadcasters Become Juicy Targets Imminent Rule Change Whets Interest in NBC and CBS

By Bill Carter New York Times Service

NEW YORK - There is a hasic reason that one, and possibly two, broadcast television networks may be close to being sold to companies that operate Hollywood studios: For both buyers and sellers, the time is right and may never be more so.

The hroadcast husiness, once considered shaky, has made a strong financial comeback in the last year. And the owners of the two networks in question, NBC and CBS, have indicated a desire to relinquish control Perhaps most significant, the two studios in the middle of the rumors have powerful incentives to protect their lucrative positions as suppliers of network programming.

Time Warner Inc. is in the middle of negotiations to buy the NBC network, and Walt Disney Co. may be moving toward talks to acquire CBS. Both Time Warner and Disney produce many popular prime-time shows that rely on network television for their distribution. But that relationship could start to change next year, when federal regulations that have kept networks from producing much programming for themselves are set Networks will almost certainly reduce the number of programs they buy from outside suppliers, giving the studios strong reasons to want to control the distribution system themselves.

"Broadcast television is not going to go AM P.M. Chips away," said Larry Gerbrandt, senior vice president of Paul Kagan Associates, a media research firm. "And if it's not going to U.S. dallars per sunce. Landon efficiel his go away and you're a studio, then you loss: Zurien and New York opening and clos- ought to own one."

ought to own one."
Officials of Time Warner and General

Electric Co., which owns NBC, declined to has seen the network decline in almost comment on their discussions, leaving Wall Street uncertain how to react. CBS executives continued to vigorously deny that they had received any recent overtures

Both NBC and CBS have longtime owners that have previously tried to walk away from the network business.

Just two months ago, Laurence A. Tisch, the chairman of CBS Inc., agreed to num over control of that network to Barry Diller before the proposed merger between CBS and Diller's company, QVC Inc., collapsed. At the time, Mr. Tisch, 71, said he had simply had enough. But it is also true that analysts for years have crinicized his stewardship of CBS as far too caurious. Alone among the networks, for example, it has failed to diversify into the cable business. GE, which has owned NBC since 1986, every area. The chairman of GE, John F. Welch Jr., came close to selling the network to Paramount Studios in 1992. Now, an executive close to Mr. Welch said he had concluded that everyone in the media business needed to consider new forms of alliances "in order to survive."

Certainly GE's bottom-line results have been discouraging. The network, earning about $500 million a year at the time of the acquisition, has seen years since then when it lost money.

Under the plan being discussed, GE would retain the one part of NBC that has consistently earned money: The seven television stations in large cities that are owned and operated by the network. Another inducement right now is that

See TV, Page 10

EUROPEAN FUTURES

MARKET DIARY

Lower Bond Prices Drag Stocks Down

Compiled by Our Staff From Dispatcher bid for the company. Both com-NEW YORK — U.S. stocks panies declined to comment. declined Friday amid concern

U.S. Stocks

economic slowdown and diminished corporate earnings. A sagging dollar and bond market also pressured stocks that General Electric might be that General Electric might be before the Labor Day weekend. The Dow Jones industrial average closed 15.86 points lower at 3,885.58. Eleven stocks fell New York Stock Exchange press. General Electric shares where volume totaled 218.9 mil-tions.

"If the numbers are as they appear, it doesn't bode well for the economy and profits," said Anthony Dwyer, chief investment strategist at Sherwood Securities Inc.

RJR Nabisco was the most active issue on the NYSE. It to 56. closed unchanged at 6%. despite speculation that Cae- to 15 7/16.

Ventritex plunged 4%, to that weaker-than-expected Au- 18%, after the maker of defibrilgust job growth might signal an lators, which are devices that regulate the heartbeat, told analysts that fiscal first-quarter earnings and revenue would fall below their expectations.

considering a takeover of the financial services company. But GE said there were no such disfor every nine that rose on the cussions with American Ex-

the economy added 179,000 around at its women's appared Limited shares rose 1, to 21%, after the retailer's monthly sales jobs in August, below expecta- around at its women's apparel business, analysts said.

Cott Corp. rose 1½, to 13¾, after bullish comments on the beverage maker from analysts. High-technology stocks appeared to stabilize after broad declines on Thursday. Intel fell 14, to 64, and AST slumped 14, osed unchanged at 6%. Among other issues, Oracle Casino Magic fell % to 8% fell %, to 41%. Novell rose 1/16

JOBS: Data Drag Down the Dollar

Continued from Page 9

pound strengthened to $1.5475 from $1.5454. The jobs data convinced many traders that the Fed, which raised interest rates five times this year to head off the Foreign Exchange higher inflation that often accompanies quick economie growth, would now stand pat on rates. That deflated enthusiasm to buy dollars.

"There's absolutely nothing to suggest that the Fed will have to raise rates again anytime soon," said Allen Sinai, chief global economist at Lehman Brothers.

Labor Secretary Robert B. Reich cautioned against relying too much on a single economic

There are perils in reading too much into a single month's average job growth over the past year," he said.

Adding to an already jittery market was an unvelcome reading on U.S. inflation from Columbia University's Center for International Business Cycle Research. The group's monthly inflation index Class, Mr. Porio and other tradinet of the said.

Thin volume, with many U.S. dealers leaving work early for a three-day holiday weekend, expression of the programs will expire in November 1995.

The networks have already begun to use in-house production companies to generate more of the programs of the program of the program of climbed to 111.4 in August from a revised 109.5 in July. Analysts at the research center said there were growing signs of inflation from higher import prices, a development that was not surprising given the rebound in foreign economies and continued weakness in Dealers said the news led to a further sell-off in bond prices and the dollar.

Some dealers bad taken large dollar positions as the currency rose this week, on expectations for an employment report that would bolster the bond market, said Matt Porio, a vice president at Chase Manhattan Bank. "When the market turned against them, they had to get out," he said.

Further fueling the dollar sell-off were unconfirmed rumors that European central banks were buying Deutsche

${f \Gamma V}$: Broadcasters NBC and CBS Attract Interest as Change in Rules Nears

Continued from Page 9

financial-interest and syndica-

"Warner knows what's going Brown" on CBS and "Full to happen when the fin/syn rules House" on ABC. Disney pro-end," said John S. Reidy, a me-dia analyst for Smith Barney time but some very important Shearson, referring to the com- ones, including the top-rated monly used term for the rules, series, ABC's "Home Improve-"It's going to have a huge impact ment."

1995.
The networks have already begun to use in-house production companies to generate more of the programs they put on the air.

Warner has been the biggest been among the most adamant defenders of the financial-interfor the last several years. Its est rules, have worried that opshows include "Murphy portunities to place their shows on the networks will begin to dry up as the networks produce more of their own programs.

Until now, Warner's re-sponse was to try to begin its own network. It plans to start with one night of programming on a group of independent sta-

U.S./AT THE CLOSE

MCI Kills Deal With Nextel

WASHINGTON (NYT) — MCI Communications Corp. formally ended a proposed $1.3 billion deal with Nextel Communications Inc., the company on which it had based its plans for building a nationwide wireless telephone network.

Nextel was the most active over-the-counter issue Friday, falling $2.75, to close at $22.50. Almost 12 million shares changed hands.

Citing intractable disagreements with Motorola Inc., a major shareholder in Nextel that had veto power over a deal, MCI said Thursday it had definitively broken off all talks.

"Although discussions were proceeding along positive lines with Nextel, any new transaction would have required Motorola's consent," the company said in a terse statement. "MCI and Motorola were unable to reach agreement on terms."

MCI executives declined to elaborate on the obstacles, saying merely that they were based on terms and price.

merely that they were based on terms and price. The company's brand-new technology, developed by Motorola, has been running into problems in delivering sound quality on a par with cellular telephones.

Western Union Bid Tops $1 Billion

NEW YORK (Bloomberg) — First Financial Management Corp. grabbed the early lead Friday in the contest to control the world's money-transfer business, offering a total of more than $1 billion for Western Union Financial Services Inc.

As part of its bid, Atlanta-based First Financial said it would

As part of its bid, Atlanta-based First Financial said it would pay $800 million in cash plus assume about $265 million of Western Union's unfunded pension liabilities.

That bid tops the $970 million cash offer by Forstmann Little & Co., which does not include the pension liabilities. It also beats a $660 million cash and stock offer from First Data Corp., which would take on the liabilities. First Financial is the winner of the first round as I read it,

Robert V. Bolem, an analyst at J. C. Bradford & Co., said.

The bids are part of a bankruptcy court-supervised auction of the unit of New Valley Corp., based in Paramus, New Jersey. New Valley changed its name from Western Union in September 1991 and has been operating under court protection since March 1993.

Any potential buyers were required to submit their bids by Friday.

Abbott to Buy Part of Spanish Firm

ABBOTT PARK, Illinois (Bloomberg) — Abbott Laboratories said Friday it would broaden its reach in Europe by acquiring the nutrition operation of the Spanish company Puleva Unión Industrial y Agroganadera SA for about $120 million.

Puleva Unión Industrial is a dairy and nutrition company.

Abbott makes pharmaceutical products, nutritional aids and personal care products. The company dominates the pediatric and medical nutritional products in the United States, with products such as Similac. Isomil and Ensure. such as Similac, Isomil and Ensure.

Federal Paper to Restate Earnings

NEW YORK (Knight-Ridder) — Federal Paper Board Co. said Friday it would restate earnings going back to the second quarter of 1993 because of charges from losses on derivative securities.

The company said it would take a $27 million pretax charge for the second, third and fourth quarters of 1993 and an $8 million charge for the first half of 1994.

The charges will reduce earnings for 1993 and the first two quarters of 1994 but will not affect future earnings, Federal Paper said. The company said the restatement of earnings would not affect cash flow.

For the Record

AlfiedSignal Inc. said it would acquire Textron Inc.'s Lycoming turbine engine division for $375 million. The transaction, if approved by regulators, would put AlliedSignal into a new aircraft market and reduce Textron's dependence on government defense

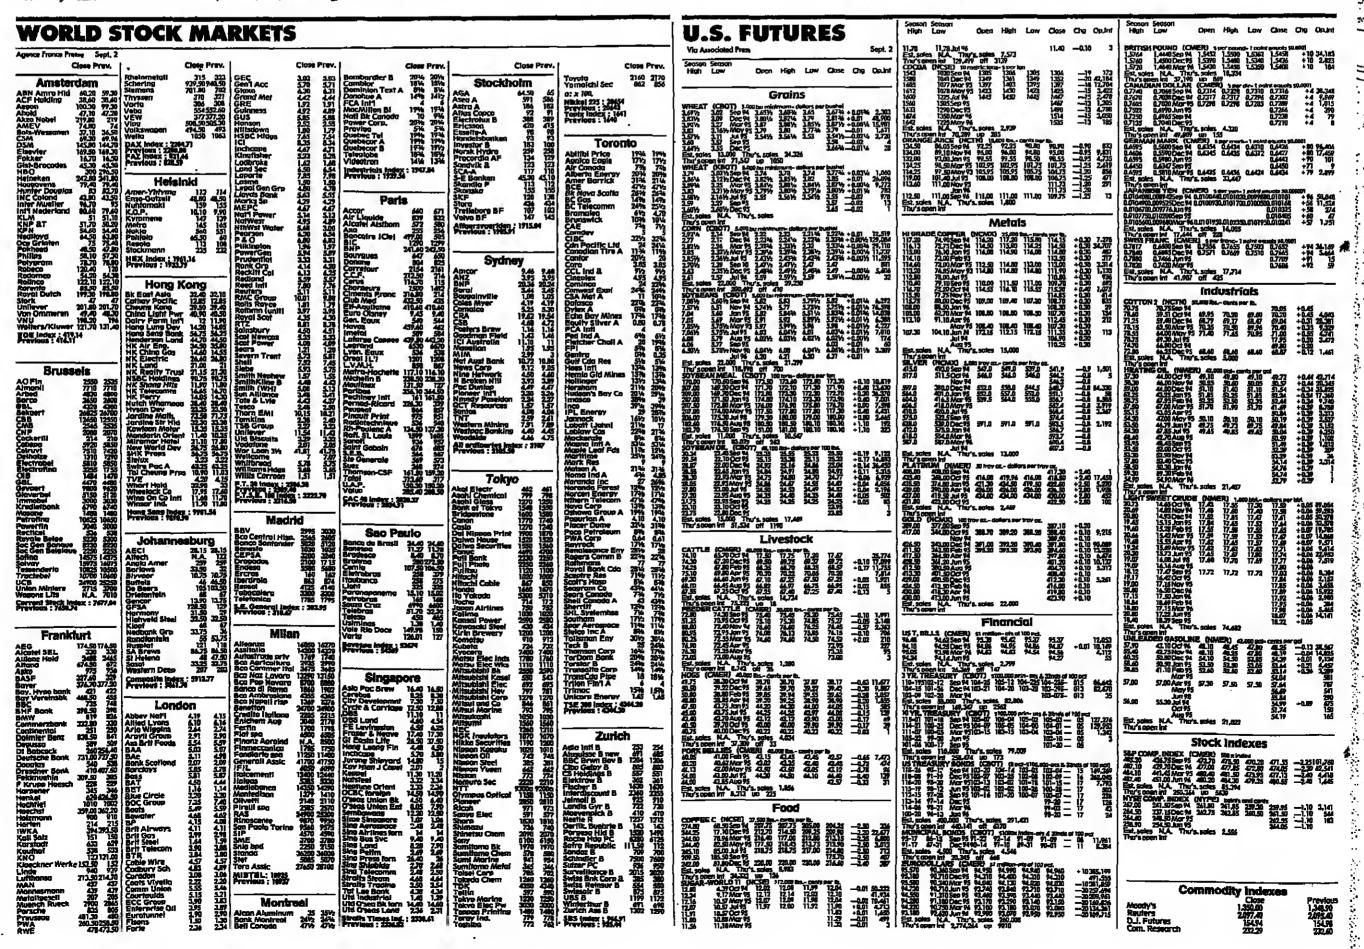

General Computer Corp. said it agreed to be acquired by National Data Corp. for $14.25 a share, or about $26 million. The buyout would combine two leading suppliers of information ons in January.

Citibank was fined $16.3 million by the Indian government for its role in a stock market scandal. Sources said the bank had strategie shift for Time received the largest fine of all the financial institutions involved in Warner." Mr. Reidy said. (AP)

4000

ful Share Trudi

With Next Roche Shares C4 Communications Cog a deal with Nextel Common oh it had based us Play where network is play the counter two the mast 12 million shares the counter two the million shares the counter two the million shares the million th with Motorcola Inc. 10 power over a deal Mills First-Half Net most all talks. First-Half Net coming past reduced pages.

s reise stutement pick printed on the opposite for BASEL, Switzerland this and price using the large of the state Roche Holding AG, the Swiss pharmaceutical and chemical giant, reported first-half earnings Friday that outshone its two Swiss rivals, and investors Tops $1 Billion responsible Rock responded by pushing the stock

First I mane and Managery in the country lands Roche Holding, which reelering a total of many ported half-year results for the first time, said net profit was d Para Pinancial and a saume about the man 1.62 billion Swiss francs (SI bil-

Roche said the earnings gain shoffer by 1 . ising a state of the labeled state o was due to higher operating margins and higher revenue from First Page 199 from investments, which should lead to a "significant rise" in full-year net profit.

C. Bradford A. C. Screen to 2.48 billion francs. im Paramus, New Jenny tern Union to September

No comparison to the first I protection was West half of 1993 was available, it used to submit their a said. Operating profit in the first half was 1.56 billion Swiss

Roche share prices ended at 6,280 francs, up 155.

of Spanish Fire

abergi - Almen Laber.

sch in Lincope by delications company Pulcount in the LA gue matter an contact

wedness, antenness of ventage

Conted States, weller,

state Earning

- Federal Party South

ing back to the works

secs on dervaments

a $27 miles produced and a $27 miles of the second and a second a second and a second a second and a second a

Sensent of more than

. . . . 7

1,1705

11.50

d Agerral

ART ...

itill prittigen.

by the

Sax

territoria (1775)

المحكمة

18th 181 (1...)

$120 manag

that of Ciba-Geigy AG and Sandoz AG, which this week disappointed investors with meager first-half profit gains and modest full-year forecasts.

The results also appeared to have assuaged concern about Roche's recent $5.3 billion takeover of Syntex Corp., a U.S. pharmaceutical company, and to have overcome disappointment about its July 12 announcement of first-balf sales.

The company said sales rose 2.4 percent in the balf, to 7.33 billion Swiss francs, despite a gain of 7.3 percent in local-currency terms.

Rocbe said that despite the slack growth anticipated for the pbarmaceutical market as a whole, sales are expected to continue expanding in the second half, although at a "slower pace" than a year earlier. Analysts said the latest Roche figures also suggested the takeover of Syntex would not dilute earnings. They also said the company's decision to release a half-year report might Roche's first-half perfor- have been motivated by recent mance was in sharp contrast to market worries.

Prosecutors Open Inquiry Into Fust Share Trading

Friday opened an insider-trad- store chain. ing investigation into Grands Magasins Jelmoli SA's acquisition of Dipl. Ing. Fust AG.

They will try to determine who was responsible for last month's surge in share prices a future carry upon the right week before the Swiss department store chain said it would take over the bousehold appliance retailer.

Fust shares jumped 12 per- available." cent, Jelmoli shares climbed 7 percent, and volume in Fust soared to 13,000 shares a day Marin a Micdoca to the dence on the same from an average of about 200. overtaking Magazine zum Glo- ters reported from Vaduz.

the closing on Wall Street and do not reflect late trades elsewhere. Via The Associated Press bus to become Switzerland's ZURICH - Prosecutors on second-largest department

> tion looked at the trading volume and the share developments, and on those grounds I decided to open a criminal inger, the prosecutor who will conduct the investigation. nal investigation are bank doc-for its letter-box companies Jelmoli said Aug. 5 that it than for tough legislation would buy 51 percent of Fust's against criminals, said Friday it voting capital for 141.5 million planned to outlaw money laun-Swiss francs ($107 million), dering and insider trading, Reu-

"The preliminary investigavestigation," said Martin Bur-"Only in the context of a crimiuments and other information

Liechtenstein, better known

A Halo Becomes a Target Body Shop Battles to Repair Image

By Richard W. Stevenson New York Times Service

LONDON - Body Shop International PLC, the rapidly expanding British retail cosmencs chain, has carefully crafted its image by pledging sensitivity to the environment. promising not to test its products on animals and seeking to be a progressive force in the communities where it operates.

Body Shop's success, its 1993 annual report intoned, "proves that profits and principles can go hand in band and that business can be a force for social change."

Now the company is under attack by an American journalist, who in an article published Thursday by the Minneapolis based journal Business Ethics, takes issue with the Body Shop's contention that the company's walk matches its talk.

The journalist, Jon Entine, said the company's charitable contributions, environmental standards, efforts to buy materials from developing nations and use of "natural" ingredients in its products all failed to live up to the company's stated goals. Some Body Shop products use "outdated, off-the-shelf product formulas filled with unrenewable petrochemicals," Mr. Entine, a former ABC News oroducer who spent much of the last year working on the article, wrote. The Body Shop, be added, bas bad quality control problems that on one occasion led to it selling products containing formaldehyde. And despite generating considerable publicity about its efforts to develop suppliers among local people in developing countries. only a tiny fraction of the company's pur-chases actually come through its "Trade Not Aid" program, Mr. Entine reported.

He also wrote about disillusionment among the company's franchisees, some of whom are cooperating with a Federal Trade Commission investigation into the company's franchise practices in the United States.

The company, in a 32-page rebuttal that was distributed before the article was published, acknowledged the commission investigation but dismissed it as a routine and groundless response to a complaint by a single franchisee

Body Shop also said that Mr. Entine's criticisms of its purchasing policies were unjusti-

INTERNATIONAL STOCKS

fied. "His numbers are wrong, but more importantly his percentages are beside the point," the company said, adding that it bad a deep and growing commitment to developing

Third World suppliers.

Body Ship dismissed the article Thursday as "recycled rubbisb." Its stock, which bad fallen about 15 percent amid rumors ahead of the article's publication, rose 61/2 pence Friday in London to close at 23014 ($3.55).

Nevertheless, the publicity bas proved cost-ly to Body Shop, both in public relations terms and in its standing with investors.

The dispute, analysts and investors said, may also prove to be a cautionary tale for companies that project a righteous image.
Increasingly, they said, journalists, regulatory authorities and so-called socially responsible investment funds are peeling back corporate facades to see if operations justify companies' claims to "green" or socially enlightened business practices. Body Shop was founded in 1976 by Anita and T. Gordon Roddick. Over the years, their chain of retail stores, selling cosmetics, soaps and other beauty products, grew into one of Britain's most successful and best-known en-

The Roddicks sought to position Body Shop as a store with a conscience. Mrs. Roddick, its managing director and public face, spoke out about buman rights, environmental protection, cosmetic tests using animals and fair trade with developing nations.

Net Rises At Pearson; Sales Fall

Compiled by Our Staff From Dispatches
LONDON — Pearson PLC said Friday its first-balf profit jumped 50 percent, but it warned that results may not be as strong in the second half because first-half results were bolstered by one-time gains.

Pearson earned £69.3 million ($107 million) before taxes in the first six months of 1994, but it would bave earned only £50.7 million if not for one-time

Sales were £648.8 million, down 21 percent because of the spinoff of its fine china business, Royal Doulton.

Pearson said it planned to complete its transformation from conglomerate to media company with the sale of the rest of its stake in the oil services group Camco International, valued at around $162 million.
Pearson's book division.

which was its strongest sector in 1993, had a loss of £7 million. The newspaper division.

which includes the Financial Times, was the best performer in the half, increasing operating profit by 66 percent, to £36.8

Thames Television, the core of the company's new television division, contributed £18.3 million to profit. But Pearson said it would withdraw its bid to run a fifth broadcast television channel in Britain if the government did not increase the channel's planned geographic coverage from 53 percent.

(Reuters, Bloomberg)

Slovakia Retries Privatization

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia -After more than two years of delays, Slovakia on Monday will resume sales of state-owned companies through the voucber

Its success or failure could have major political implications, because economic problems are a key issue in the campaign for national elections

> Authorities bope the sale will get privatization back on track after the voucher program was abandoned when the former a vote by Parliament in the Czechoslovakia split.

Div Yid PE 1005 High LawLanes/Chiee High Low Slock

and uncertainty that resulted in

Div Yul PE 100; High LowLatessCh'se economic reforms since indepercent unemployment. program in hopes of boosting 380 state-owned companies valued at more than $1.5 billion. Sept. 30 and Oct. 1.

zechoslovakia split. spring to remove Prime Minis-Slovakia has struggled with ter Vladimir Meciar.

Mr. Meciar, whose party curpendence Jan. 1, 1993, with rently leads in the pre-election double-digit inflation and 15 opinion polls, bas said be will stop the voucber sales and re-Under the program, Slovaks sume them only after they have will be able to bid for shares in been "radically altered."

But the government of Prime Minister Jozef Moravcik is But critics said the program banking on beavy participation was awash in confusion because this time. An estimated 2 milrules for the sale remained un- lion people who obtained books of special coupons for nominal Foreign investors have been sums will be eligible to trade put off by political infighting them for shares.

"I think the number of people will be similar, maybe more than in the first wave of privatization" when nearly 80 percent of adult Slovaks participated in the sales, said Ivan Miklos, a political consultant.

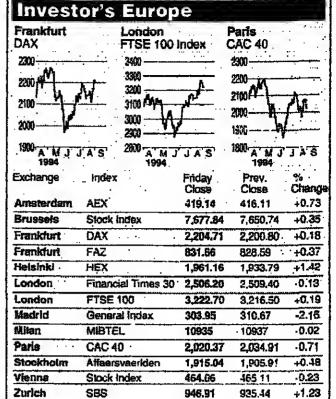

(AP, Bloomberg)

Schroders Posts Higher Profit

LONDON — Schroders PLC posted an 8 percent rise in first-half profit as the merchant banking concern's asset management arm performed well despite recent turbulence in markets, the company said Friday. Bolstered by a doubling of earnings at Schroders Investment Management, total pretax profit rose to £103.2 million ($159 million) in the period.

"Given the state of the markets, this is a remarkable performance from Schroders' investment management side," Martin Cross, an analyst at UBS Ltd., said.

Very briefly:

 Delhaize "Le Lion" SA said first-half net profit rose 73 percent. to 1.74 billion Belgian francs ($54 million), on cost-cutting at its U.S. division and higher sales.

La Caja de Ahorros & Pensiones de Barcelona said it would acquire a 58.9 percent stake in Sociedad de Aparcamientos de Barcelona SA from Banco Santander SA for 13.7 billion pesetas

General Electric Co. of Britain said sales and profit in the year ending March 1995 were running slightly ahead of a year carlier. Russia's anticipated budget revenue could be sbort by 55 percent this year because of a steep fall in industrial output, inefficient tax collection and lower-than-expected inflation, a government offi-

• France's economy as measured by gross domesuc product will grow 2 percent or more this year. Finance Minister Edmond Alphandery said.

 Germany's economy expanded 2.3 percent in the second quarter from a year earlier, Transportation Minister Matthias Wissman Bloomberg, AFX, Reuters

Danish Cleaning Company Renews U.S. Listing Plan

Compiled by Our Staff From Dispatches

COPENHAGEN - International Service System AS, one of the world's biggest cleaning what it called difficult market of the world's biggest cleaning companies, said Friday it would try again to list its stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

The president, Poul Andreassen, said be expected more than 500 million kroner ($80 million) in proceeds from the issue of at least 6 million American depositary receipts, representing 3 million B sbares.

"We are planning for sue and the introduction to take place in October." he said. ISS withdrew plans for a Big conditions. With the ISS B share trading at around 180 kroner, against 225 kroner in May, Mr. Andreassen said the company's financiai consultants had advised it to try again.

He said that because of U.S. regulations, he could give no more information about the planned move.

ARTHUR STANDERS SERVICE STANDERS SERVICE STANDERS SERVICES SERVICE

Carrier of the control of the contro

Look for the upcoming travel competition with a chance to win free airline tickets.

INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFIED MARKETPLACE

Monday

International Conferences and Seminars Tuesday

Education Directory Wednesday

Business Message Center

Thursday

International Recruitment

Friday

Real Estate Marketplace, Holidays and Travel

Saturday

Arts and Antiques Plus over 300 headings in International Classified Monday through Saturday For further information, contact Phillip Orna in Paris: Tel: (33-1) 46 37 94 74 - Fax: (33-1) 46 37 52 12

Herald Eribune

CURRENCY AND CAPITAL MARKET SERVICES

MARGIN FOREIGN EXCHANGE Call for further information & brochure

O t30+ software applications O RT OATA FROM $10 A OAY O Catch The Big Moves

Commirac, the computarised trading system is now available by fax Commtrac covers over 75 commodities/financial futures/indicies with specific "Buy", "Self" nr "Neutral" recommendations Request your 5-day free trial by sending a fax to Carol on 0624 662272 int +44624 662272

SWIFTCALL COMMUNICATIONS

CALL: LONDON 071 488 2001, DUBLIN (01) 67 10 457

LONDON - NEW YORK - LONDON PRIVATE VOICE CIRCUITS - £10K PER ANNUM Calls to USA - 20p per minute Japan/Hong Kong - 56p per minute

FullerMoney - the Global Strategy Newsletter , No.

ECU Futures PLC 29 Chesham Place London SW1X 8HL. Tel.: +71 245 0088 Fax: +71 235 6599. Member SFA.

UTURES & OPTIONS BROKERS EXECUTION ONLY .

COMMODITIES ON THE MOVE TIME TO SPECULATE? Call Philip O'Neill

USD/DEM 3-5 pips DEM/JPY 2-3 pips Competitive FX spreads with no further costs Experience - Security - Analysis - Strategies Trading facilities based on margin or company balance sheet Direct Dealing 24 Hours - London - Berlin - Copenhagen

RUBICON +49 30 Tel., 885 9330 / Fax: 882 4266.

MEMBER SFA

Tel.: + 44 71 329 3333 Fax: + 44 71 329 3019

For further details on bour to place your listing contact: WILL NICHOLSON in London Tel: (44) 71 836 48 02 - Fax: (44) 71 240 2254

Herald Eribune

The corner was wear ending entire the teacher of the first content of th

THE SET OF THE PERSONNEL STATES OF THE PERSONNEL STATE

THE ENGLAND OF THE PROPERTY OF

THE SECOND CONTRACTOR OF THE SECOND CONTRACTOR

of Ford 1-1 m in the Ord Not 1 may 1 m of 10 m of 1 m of 1 m of 2 m of 1 m of 2 months of 1 m endeligen endersten eta ortzata eta errega errantzaren errega errantzaren eta errega errantzaren errega errega

1.00 1.40 1.40 1.50 1.50 1.50 28 253 42 BE enter the formation of the section o

15. 40.51 40

THE PARTY OF THE PARTY BEARINGS AND ASSESSED TO SERVICE AND ASSESSED TO SERVIC

NEW PROPERTY.

A SECTION OF THE PROPERTY OF T

12 Month High Low Stock

YIC PE 100s High LowLotest 07'99

CAN ALL DESCRIPTION OF A PART OF THE PART THE CONTROL OF THE PROPERTY OF

TOTAL TOTAL

第四首

STATE OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY

1-313 1510

THE PARTY OF THE P

The part of the pa

10 QUI

Japan Trade Gap Widens to Record, Led by Electronics

TOKYO - Japan's current account surplus rose 0.9 percent trade and services such as tourin July from a year earlier, to ism. Japan's trading partners say $11.74 billion, thanks to a re- the growing surplus shows Japan cord trade surplus, the Finance isn't buying as many foreign Ministry said Friday.

The current account is a broad

Japan Outlook: Takeovers Seen

TOKYO - Japan's corporations could eventually sell off enough of the stock they hold in each other to make American-style takeovers possible, the president of the country's larg-est brokerage said Friday. "There should be more active mergers and acquisi-tions," said Hideo Sakamaki, president of Nomura Securities Co.

But Mr. Sakamaki said manufacturers, insurance companies and especially banks would continue selling each other's shares as they struggle to make up for poor results and bad loans. between countries, including goods as it ought to. In July 1993, the current account surplus was $11.63 hillion. Expressed in yen, however, the current account surplus fell 7.8 percent, to 1.16 billion year. The yen-denominated surplus has been falling for several months because of the yen's sharp rise since last year. According to the ministry, exports rose 6.6 percent in July from July 1993, to $33.40 billion, while imports rose 8.1 percent, to $18.95 billion.

The trace gap of $14.45 billion was a record, a Finance Ministry official said. The official said exports of ships and most cars were down but semiconductors, electronic goods and some cars and car parts continued to gain in overseas markets.

Mearwhile, foreign direct investment in Japan fell to $46 billion in July from $222 billion a year earlier, in part because the strong yen discouraged investors, the official said.

A Hot Stock in Taiwan

TAIPEI - Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Co. shares start trading on the stock exchange here Monday, and many analysis said Friday they expected the price to jump at least 50 percent soon after.

Viewed by many as Taiwan's best new listing this year, the company last month sold 40.6 million shares to the public through an initial public offering prices at 90 new Taiwan dollars ($3.50) a share. That represents a 5.25 percent stake.

The stock is already trading in the whenissued market at 135 dollars, and it will rise at least to that level after formally listing next week, Thomas Chien, research manager at Baring Securities Ltd. in Taiwan.

With shares initially expected to be in short supply as current owners wait for higher prices, the big question among many investors is how the rising shares might help or hurt others traded on the Taiwan exchange, analysts said.

"The initial question is, what are investors going to do when they find out they can't get TSMC shares," said Michael Hung, electronics industry analyst with Jardine Fleming Securities Taiwan. After that, investment decisions will be based on where Taiwan Semiconductor's price begins to settle, analysts said.

Sales and profit at Taiwan Semiconductor, which is 36 percent owned by Philips Electronics NV, are growing rapidly. It is the biggest player in ooe of Taiwan's healthiest industries, Mr. Hung said.

The company's net profit in 1993 almost quadrupled, and strong growth is continuing this year. Net earnings in the first half of 1994 soared about 160 percent from the first half of the previous year, to 3.7 hillion dollars, on sales that climbed to 8.8 hillion dollars from 5.0 billion dollars a year earlier.

Taiwan Semiconductor, spun off from a government research organization in 1987, has thrived on rising global demand for com-

Manila Looks Into Interport Trades

MANILA - The Securities and Exchange Commission began an investigation Friday into eight directors and officers of Interport Resources Corp. for possible insider trading.

The Philippine Stock Exchange on Thursday urged reg-ulators to investigate and file criminal, administrative and civil charges against Interport executives after finding evi- fact it had negotiated and dence of violations.

The investigation stems from Interport's one-day price rise of 47 percent, on Aug. 8, in heavy trading. The gain triggered a one-day suspension of trading and a preliminary investigation hy the stock exchange.

After a three-week inquiry, company had not disclosed the change audit report said.

signed a stock-swap agreement product rose 11.6 percent. with Ganda Holdings Bhd., a Separately, analysts said Malaysian company, until after trading closed Aug. 8.

Interport executives and' stock, acquiring as many as 2.9

China Delays New Cuts in Workweek

BELJING - The Labor Ministry said there were no immediate plans to further shorten the workweek, the official China Daily reported Friday.

In March, the government shortened the workweek from 48 hours, or six days, to 44 hours, or five and a half days, allowing workers to have a two-day weekend every second week.

Rumors have circulated in China that the 40-hour work week would be introduced Oct. I to coincide with the 45th anniversary of Communist rule.

But the Labor Ministry said it would not switch to the 40hour week until it was persuaded that the 44-hour week had been effective in boosting efficiency as well as giving workers more leisure time.

So far, the evidence has been favorable. In the first six months, China's gross domestic Separately, analysts said China was releasing food stocks and stocking up on imports 10 try to control inflation and prevent food shortages, Reuters refamily members traded the ported from Hong Kong. Bad weather in various parts of the billion shares on the basis of country has affected grain, oilprivileged information about seeds and sugar crops, making the exchange found that the the Ganda deal, a stock ex- it essential that stocks he replenished, the analysts said.

Investor's Asia Hong Kong Singapore Straits Times Tokyo Nikkei 225 Hang Seng 7000 A M J J A'S 2000 A N J J A S Exchange Change Close Close 9,890.90 +0.11 9.901.56 Heng Kong Hang Seng Straits Times 2.330.61 2,336.83 -0.27 +0.07 Sydney All Ordinanes 2,107.00 2,105.50 20,653.83 20,642.93 +0.05 Nikkei 225 Tokyo Kuala Lumpur Composite 1,160.88 T.156.34 1,525.84 Bangkok 1,539.06 +0.87 Seoul 950 52 -0.63 Composite Stock 944.52 +0.52 Taipei Weighted Price 7,010.63 6,974.15 3,079.39 +0.55 +0.56 jakarta 515.58 512.71 Stock index +0.54 New Zealand NZSE-40 2.178.75 2.167.02 2,140.10 National Index -0.28 Bombay 2.146.09

Very briefly:

• Aiwa Co., a subsidiary of Sony Corp., said it had not revised its current profit forecast of 7.2 hillion yen ($72 million) for the year ending in March 1995, citing the uncertain ven-dollar rate.

· Diversified Resources Bhd. of Malaysia plans to assemble and manufacture Korean infantry fighting vehicles and similar heavy equipment in Malaysia, the company said.

 Central China Display Laboratory, an electronics company, is suing Goldstar Co. of South Korea and is demanding 42.5 million Hong Kong dollars ($5.5 million) for "unethical competition," the first such case in China, an official report said.

• Kerry Group, owned by the Malaysian-Chinese tycoon Robert Knok, has reduced its stake in Television Broadcasts Ltd., Hong Kong's largest television company, to 19 percent from 26 percent.

 Japan's market share of new ship orders soared to 54.9 percent in the first half of 1994, helping it to retake the lead in shiphuilding orders from South Korea, whose share slipped to 16.5 percept.

RELIANCE: After Bolstering Capacity in Its Core Industries, India's Largest Company Plans Diversification Enterprises and GE Capital tutions called the shots in a power plants, transport and eventually financial services. Five years down the road, the majority of our assets will still be in the core businesses."

"In the 1980s we didn't know petrochemicals," Mr. Ambani said, recalling the group's thendaring move into a complex, capital-intensive new business area. "In the 1990s we don't know telecoms; there is always a learning process."

- # · ·

.

196

7

13

æ.

only recently warming to pri- his largest single holding. vate participation in infrastructhat required hureaucratic per mission for most individual husiness decisions, few privat projects' performance can b fully assessed.

But even before it gets starte on this path, potentially as partner with Enron, Bechil

West Inc. in basic telecom ser- share of controversy. vices in the states of Maharashplans, from analysts and invesors alike.

"The company is doing all he right things in the right areas." said Jonathan Boyer, who manages India funds for Jardine Fleming Securities in With the Indian government Hong Kong and has Reliance as

> "With the whole infrastrucopen, Reliance has unrivaled contacts and influence in India," Mr. Boyer said. "They have as good a chance as anybody to do it right."

Those contacts, built ap when bureaucrats in New Delhi and state-owned financial insti-

Cop. in a $2.5 billion power tightly controlled economy. plant or AT&T Corp. and US have earned Reliance its fair

Questions have always been tra and Gujarat, Reliance has asked about how Reliance gets carned strong approval for its what it wants in the first place, a Bombay financier said. "But none are asked after they latch onto a project. Their implementation and ability to make it profitable is always excellent."

While Reliance was making friends in New Delhi, it was also assiduously courting individual investors, sidestepping the powerful Bombay instituture as it ends the "permit raj" ture sector being thrown wide tions with a dedication to improving shareholders' returns. Where other companies' controlling shareholders allowed their share prices to languish if that suited their personal tax considerations, Reliance soon improved returns and an innovative financial strategy.

That course has seen the number of its shareholders rise from 53,000 in 1977 to more than 2.4 millioo today. While it means shareholders' meetings now convene in stadiums, the group enjoys unparalleled clout when it comes to raising money.

"Very few companies of our size have offered 25 percent compound annual growth in earnings over the past five years," Mr. Ambani said. He expressed frustration with current government policies that seek to cootrol the overall pace of Indian companies' money-

"We are completely constrained," he said. "If you are gathered a strong following asking Reliance to compete in through constant attention to the global chemical industry, a typical move from an aggres-needs.

2nd TRAVEL DOCUMENTS, Driving I-censes, GM, 2 Perilicous, Voulogmens, Athens 16671, Greece, Fox 8962152 OFFSHORE COMPANES, For free brochure or advice Tet Landa 44 81 741 1224 Fax: 44 81 748 6558

BUSINESS TRAVEL

BUSINESS & 1ST Class fores from Europe to USA-Conodo-For Ensi-Middle East-Australio-South America Costoc Blewwheel Travet, London Tet: 081 202 2080 Fox 081 202 3839

Ist/Business Class Frequent Travellers to Orient/Australia/Africa/No. & So. America. Save up to 50%. No cau-

we should have same financing opportunities as our global competitors."

through the use of global depositary receipts, or foreign-currency-denominated securities held and traded overseas.

lt also made the largest equi-ty-linked convertible Eurohond issue, which it soon followed up with a controversial second global depositary receipt issue, India's largest to date. Critics say the second issue was a purely opportunistic id earnings growth - Kleincash-raising exercise that came raising in international capital at the high point of a flood of Indian issues that had overwhelmed demand and prompted a temporary plunge in prices.

But supporters argued it was

INVESTMENTS

sive company following its own "There was a lot of talk that

In 1992, Reliance was the they didn't need the money first Indian company to issue then and would merely use it shares to foreign investors for interest-rate arhitrage between U.S. rates and much higher rates in India," a fund manager based in Singapore "At first it soured me on owning their stock," the fund manager said. "But it was a very clever move hy management that will ultimately be to shareholders' benefit if they are longterm investors. With analysts predicting sol-wort Benson Securities expects Reliance's earning per share to increase by 42 percent over the next three years - Mr. Ambani remains confident that Reliance can raise the money it

Goodman Fielder Profit Falls

Compiled by Our Staff From Dispatches Fielder Ltd., Australia's largest food group, said Friday that full-year net profit tumbled 49 percent amid an effort hy dissident shareholders to try to revamp the company's board.

Profit was 93.4 million Australian dollars ($69 million), down from 182 million dollars a year earlier. Sales fell 5 percent, to 3.71 hillion dollars.

The dissident investors, led hy Doug Shears, a Melbourne SYDNEY - Goodman husinessman, and three institutions control just under 20 percent of the company.

Brokers said the latest Goodman results gave more ammunition to the group seeking to launch a boardroom coup. Mr. Shears proposes to appoint himself and three other nominees to replace four directors. Goodman stock fell three cents to 1.43 dollars.

(Reuters, Bloomberg)

INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFIED

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITIONS AUCTION SALES' COLLECTOR'S GUIDES IN SATURDAY'S INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE TODAY

PAGE 6

IS ENCORE YUE Bob and Cris re-irmed to Mexico early. Please contact egarding payment and fall schedule. ANNOUNCEMENTS RICONIL The finest hand-made suit. Largest selection in Switzerland at WBNBBRG the leading men's stare. Bahnhafstr. 13, Zurich 01-211 29 58. ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS English specifing meetings claip, Tel: PARIS (1) 46 34 59 63, ROME 678 0320, HANKHURT 5974265. FEEING Sow? — having problems SQS HELP cross-line in English. 3 p.m. 11 p.m. Tek Paris (1) 47 23 80 80.

from the U.S. !

NANNIES AID DOMESTICS

MONROE NANNIES INTERNATIONA The premier landon Agency for British of NANNES NURSERY NURSES GOVERNESSES short or long term contract for hil citats of his service please Mrs. ANGELA GREENE Tel: 071-200-3887 - frac (271-429-348-504) Sreat Mayday, VI UK Limeas No. 559629

POSITIONS WANTED BURDPEAN CHEF, single fie, wall trained, experienced or othered chef is available on of Octobells 1974. Has worked for navey yealst private homes, castles and embass in places like Landon, New York South of France, Combborn blanck instantant, Switzerland and Canadi Fluent in English, a seeking of these year round employment with live-in art rangements. Excellent for largest contact for ressure by Fav-Jone. 599-5. 2463 a home phot 599-5-23443 galand of 5t Moostert of lar Naco

ESCORTS & UIDES

BELGRIVIA

ORCIDS

LONDON PARES ANEVA ZURICH ESCORT SENCY CREDIT CART WELCOME

UK 071 89 5237

GENEVA + GIMOUR + PARIS BASEL +Escort Ancy + 022/346 00 87

PARIS (LONDON'S ELEGARES Excert Service Index (71) 394 5145

NANNIES INCORPORATED Namies incorporated has built a reputation on professionalism . Nursery World 1990. We provide haby names, RGN numes, midwives, qualified numies & mothers' helps. All available for maternational obsensess. Leensed Namy Agency. Tel: 071-437-1312 - Page 071-457-122 Offices · London · Paris · Bruxelles DOMESTIC SOLUTIONS AGENCY The specialists for Butlers, Chauffeurs, Companson, Cool/Housekeepers, Couples & Seaurity Seff. Lic UK S2B810 Tel[44] 71 589 3368 Fax[44] 71 589 4966 OCCASIONAL AND PERMANENT
NANNY AGENCY has experimented British Normies and Boby Normes for interrudicated jobs. 2 Crosswell Place,
London, SMY 2E Tels UK 77.25-1955
Fize UK 77-599-8966. Lic. UK 588810.
43. CATHOLIC BILINGUAL French lody, good French cooling, seeks of lody consportion position with an eldsery lody. UK or Stoks. Places with at eldsery lody. UK or Stoks. Places with at eldsery lody. UK or Stoks. Places with at AGS. BERLIN 149-30, 427 28 65
AGS. BRIDAPEST D6-19 163 60 57
AGS. WARSAW (48-22) 562 7216
AGS. WARSAW (48-22) 562 555
HOMESHEP. Small & rendered monoScruppionally without. Hurchingon's
Employment Agency. (UK Lic. SE22700)
Tel: UK 71 235 5001 Fax 71 235 6001.

MAYFAIR INTL Landon Escort Service 071 727 4792

ZURICH ... VIOLET ...

Except Service. Credit cords occupied Tol: 027 / 63 83 32.

LONDON BRAZILIAN Escort

VIENNA "PARIS" RIVIERA "ZURICH EUROCONTACT ka'l Scort + Travel-Service. Coll Vienna + 43-1-310 63 19.

If you enjoy reading the IHT when you travel, why not also get it at home? Same-day delivery available in key U.S. cities.

Attention visitors

flerald Eribune BEAUFORD DELANEY biograph needs information. D. Leeming. Pearl St, Stonington, CT 06378 USA TOP SHOW JUMPING HORSES, ex-cellent selle françois breeding form Normandy, Bargain Price, Fel 3 21 190:

MOVING AGS MOVING HOMESHIP. Small & medium moves baggage, cars worldwde. Call Charle Pans (7) 42 81 18 81 (near Opera).

INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFIED

en LONDON ESCORT SERVICE and end sen K. I M. 8 E R. L. E. Y end sen end EL. (271 486 4461 and end ELONDES ESCORT SERVICE NEW YORK CITY Please call 212-535-8200.

AMMAINSE ESCORT AGENCY CHESSA LONDON 071 351 7468 LOS ANDEES - GARBY PAT'L Excert & Guide Service, Beverly Hills Tel. ($10) 281 8225 USA.

LONDON HEATHROW GATWICK JAPANESE GRILS ESCORT SERVICE TEL 1956 5725-G

FRANKFURT KÖLN DÜSSELDORF oll oreas, Escort Service. 059-473294

TO OUR READERS IN FRANCE

It's never been easier to subscribe and save with our new toll free service.

Just call us today at 05-437 437

EASTERN EUROPE
BELGRADE 38 (11) 45 35 94
BUCHAREST 40 (1) 211 82 68
BUDHAREST 56 (1) 277 28 77
MOSCOW 7 502 224 81 00
PRAGIE 42 [2] 301 72 39
WARSAW 48 (22) 40 88 87 ONE NAME, ONE COMPANY OPPORTUNITIES

SINTERDEAN

FOR A FREE ESTIMATE CALL

ATHENS
BARCELONA
BERLIN
BONN BREMEN
BRISSELS

CLASS A BANK in tox free venus with odministrative services and established bonking and securities accounts. US $50,000. Immediate marker. Col. Condo (80) 942-519 or Fax (804) 942-3179 or Landon (97) 394-5157 or FaX (97) 231 9928.

2ND CTTIZENSHIP AVAILABLE through 100% legal naturalization. Complete delivery in 90 clays, threstments starts at $19-500. Full protection of your funds. No payment unless you recover your documents. Swas investing Fox Nt. + 31,206/39416

HONOMERTY CONSUL. Applications sought by economically important business of the production of the country new establishing worldwide diplomatic network, Write to: PO Box 30, CH-6340 Boar, Switzerland.

LONDON HEATHROW Exact Service TE: 071 722 5008 Credit Cards LONDON-NICE ESCORT SERVICE TEL: 071 486-4515

MUNICH • WELCOME ESCORT & GUIDE AGENCY. REASE CALL 089 - 91 23 14 ZURICH • BEEN • LUZERN NATIYALIE Excort Service Tel: 01 / 463 23 34

FOR A REE: ESTIMATE CALL

ABBEDGEN 44 (224) 211 070

AMSTERDAM 31 71) 89 99 24

ATHENS 30 (1) 961 12 12

BARCEIONA 31 (3) 625 21 11

BERLIN 49 (30) 238 54 00

BONN 49 (221) 17 05 91

BRESSELS 32 (2) 759 22 85

CADIZ 34 550 85 57 44

FRANKFURIT 49 (610) 20 01

GENEYA 41 (22) 343 85 30

GELASGOW 44 (11) 762 46 67

LONDON 48 (81) 961 41 41

MADRID 34 (1) 671 24 50

MANCHESTER 44 (61) 877 51 00

MANCHESTER 45 (10) 877 51 00

MANCHESTER 45 (10) 877 51 00

MANCHESTER 46 (11) 39 20 14 00

VIENNA 3 (11) 85 30 40

VIENNA 3 (11) 85 57 05

MANCHESTER 41 (61) 877 51 00

MANCHESTER 45 (11) 87 51 00

MANCHESTER 46 (11) 87 51 00

MANCHESTER 47 (11) 945 04 00

VIENNA 3 (11) 85 04 00

VIENNA 41 (11) 945 04 00

VIENNA 51 14 00 477 13 37

WASHINGTON 1 703 620 48 19 pens, no restrictions. Imperiol Cond. Tel: 514:341-7227 Fps. 514:341-7998. CAPITAL WANTED MANTED INVESTORS for motion pic-ture films. Gogranised return of total swestment. MFB Ltd 44 (0)71 355 5030 CAPITAL AVAILABLE FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR ALL BUSINESS PROJECTS OR FOR LETTERS OF CREDIT BANK GUARANTEES OTHER ACCEPTABLE COLLATERAL

Messieurs M.I.P.K.B. & Ge FINANCIAL INSTITUTION Brussels - RELGRUM dismostion by for 32-2534 02 77 or 32-2538 49 91 TELEX 20227 VENTURE CAPITAL NEEDED for high

ZURICH'SUSAN' Tet: 01 / 381 99 48 ITALY PARIS COTE D'AZUR French Riviero Escort Agency -Diol (Int T) + 39 184 345 87

AMSTERDAM BERNADETTE Excert Service.
Tet £11 63 36 or 631 00 43.
LONDON * ESCORT * SERVICE
OF SERVICE AS 5 1 E  645 645
TEL 07 1 2 6 2 0 8 4 0 Mara's Escart Agency Pierze Call 069 - 597 66 56. ARISTOCATS ESCORT SERVICE 1 St. Mahaeb Place. Landon W2 Tel: 0/1-402 3544

IBL. 08 15/82/
SMIZERLAND - PARIS - VIENNA
BOOT, Trovel & Business Service.
Switzerland +41 07 77 72 72 30
PARIS "ZURICH" VIENNA" PRAGUE
SUPREME ESCORT INTERNATIONAL
Coll Vienna [.-63 1] 532 11 32.

FE A N K F U R I "
Process Boot and Trovel Service.
Please coll 0161/26 22 572 FRANKFURT & ARE

FUNDS REQUIRED US$ 20 000 AGAINST PRIME BANK L/C. FAX: Germony (49)0841 480 765 SERVICED OFFICES BRUSSELS - BELGIUM Transco, 51 Vesse-schänstr., 2030 Antwerp, Belgium, Tel: 03/542.62.40, fax 03/542.58.97, teles 35.207 Trans B

Your office & all service Tel: 32-2-534 85 54 Fax: 32-2-534 02 77 REAL ESTATE FOR SALE HOLLAND

REIZERSGRACHT - AMSTERDAM Unique operiment, 320 sq.m., & bed-rooms, modern renovated, covered with roof windows, DR. 645,000. AREA REAL ESTATE Tel: +31-20-6208767 Fox. +21-30-6208784. MONACO

Lusury apartment, double living room, large master bedroom, 2nd bedroom, + basts en suite, guest toilets, large equipped lacken + dining nook, conservatory, terraces, private heated pool with jet stream, 2 cellars. INTERMEDIA SOLE AGENT Tal 33-93 50 66 84 Fix 33-93 50 45 52

RUSSIAN REPUBLIC MOSCOW SUBURB, 7,700 sq.m. beautiful land, rear mver, 25 manues b car from Kremin. Very secure, in hmost presionals datche park. For infi 1at: 077/095/299 3514 or 209 06 40.

REAL ESTATE TO RENT/SHARE GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON KENSINGTON, W11. 1 mm tube, 1st floor opertment, 2 beds, lounge, modern tatchen, cantrol/heat-ing, L275/wasik, Tel: UK 71 229 4787 ITALY RIORENCE HISTORIC CENTER. 1-bed flot, sleeps 24, weekly La 600,000 inclusive, monthly Lat 1,400,000 + bills. Spezzons 39-55 245739. PARIS APEA FURNISHED

CLARIDGE Tel: [1] 44 13 33 33

PARIS AREA UNFURNISHED PARS 14th - PARC MONTSOURIS Superb 60 sq.m. artest atteller, newly renovated + modern live-in facilities FP8,000/month. Tel. (1) 45 89 61 90 VIETNAM

AUTO SHIPPING

TRANSCO BELGIUM

ICZKOVITS Alfred Escher Street 10, CH-8027 Zunch Tel- 01/202 76 10, Teles: 815915, Fax: 01/202 76 30

FRIENDSHIPS

15th METRO VOLONTAIRES, 2 bed room flat, 4th floor, 1ft, 75 sq.m., quet, bright, fully equipped. F10,000/ month all included, 1et (1) 47 34 06 IB

HOUSE FOR RENT - VETNAM. Rea nful, spacous, modern amerines, que sate, upacele area in HCM City. In Sincapore 65-6150089 Fax 3369/351

SAVE ON CAR SHEPPING. AMESCO Arabbest 2, Antwerp Belgium. To from US, Africa. Regular Ro-Ro scaling. Free hotel. Til 32/3/2314239 Fx 732-8383

The largest or export company in Europe for the past 20 years.
All makes and models.
Export sales-regardanon.
Shipping - instrume.
European, African & U.S. specs.

new FAX-FREE used ALL IEADING MAKES Same day registration possible renewal up to 5 years We also register cars with (expired) foreign (tox-free) plates

OCEANWIDE MOTORS ince 1972 brokers for Marcades, BAM Porsche, GM & Ford, Worldwide delivery, registration & shipment OCM – GERMANY Tersreogenstr 8, D-4004 Duesseldorf Tel: [0] 211 - 434646, faze: 4542120

ATK WORLDWIDE TAX FREE CARS Export + rispong + registration of new 8 used cars. ATK NV, Terninchler 40, 2930 Brasschaot, Belgum. Phone (3) 6455002; Teles: 31535; Fox: (3) 645709. ATK, since 1999. EURO + U.S.A. SPECIFICATIONS

" TAX FREE CARS

E.A.C. Gevens Deyrochweg 1130A, 2366 BX The Hague, Molkond, 1eis 31.70.3559745 Fx 3500624 Ta 33230

SUCCESSFUL, SINGLE, more, healthy, generous artist businessman with sense of humour, 43, seets lady 18-30 sender, romaine, very sim, pretty face, student-like to share frasonating life and frequent long distance travels. In addition, glamourous job offered in fashion. Write with photos to 5ox 351, 19-17, 63 Long Acre, London, WCZE 93H BURCPEAN MARRIAGE BUREAU Confidenticity, British Management, REPLAY INT1, Castellong, 93 - Pionto 4 2804e Madrid, Spoin 164, 34-156, 14.27 Fox, 34-1-355,99-57 / 361,40-52 Information 24 hrs, 1et: 34-1-355 89 76. PRETTY AMERICAN WOMAN, toll, sim, blonde, fiving in North-Germany, seels successful, sincere, kind, gener-ous and hanorable gentleman for mu-tolly rewarding ficson. Call Germany on (49)421-564098

DALLAS - TEXAS

SUROPEAN MARRIAGE BUREAU Confidentolity, British Monogement, REPLAY (NTL. Costellone, 93 - Plonto 4 28046 Modrin, Spoin 1el; 34-1-556,14-27 Frox 34-1-555-99-57 / 361-40-52, Information 24 hrs, 1el; 34-1-355-89 76. ASIAN LADIES seek morriage. Details: ICE BREAKERS 545 Orchard Rd. 10:03 For East Shopping Ctr. Singapore 09:23 Tel 65-73:28745-Fox 235 3780 JAPANESE WRITER living in Peris would like to meet or nice women. Sox 3690, I.H.T., F-92521 Neully Cedex.

REJUVENATION COUNSELLING at English & French, now in PARIS, English Tel: 1-47 66 80 74. Fox 1-45 74 84 48, BRINGUAL AUSTRIAN INVESTMENT BANKER, 30, seeks chollenging, well compensated apportunity in Western Europe Inon-German speading countries or Austrofic. Seeking new dicklenge ousted banking sector, e.g. Art, Entertainment or other, Education in U.K., AIBA in Economics in Viervo. Executive expenence in Corporate Finance, M&A and Busness Development in Central Europe, Billingual German/English, some French, Fox. AUSTRIA, +43 (I) S13 13 823, Rei. PR. 11. LOW COST FLIGHTS

WORLDWIDE. Special departure at the lowest ever discount, eronomy particle. Credit couts possible. Tel: Paris (1) 47:89 10 81 Fox 42:56:25:62 WORLD AVIATION SCHEDULED FLIGHTS. Is, business, economy at lowest force, Tel IFT Paris (1) 47040751 ARTS PRE-COLUMBIAN ART GALERIE ALT-AMERIKA, Schwabstr. 82 D-70193 Stuttgort, Fox + 49.711.634913 EDWARD LADELL ards of oil on ponel 15"012" finis and wine gloss. Tel/fax: UK +44 (0)82768563

HEALTH/MEDICAL SERVICES

EDUCATION

IMPROVE ANYONE QUICKLY?
All ages, better grades, self-esteen happness, bran damage recovery.
Great for manager students/ salesmen.
World famous Dr. John Harson, inventor of QEE, Quick, Effective Therapy, Worlschop for therapest, psychologists, teachers, optometriss, etc.
Endhoven 23 Sept., Paris 9 Oct., Los Angeles 19-20 Nov. Worldwide services Fox + 31 40-815448, USA + 1-310-643-8559

COLLEGES &

UNIVERSITIES

WISHING TO EXTEND your activities worldwide French woman, 30, US & East Europe extensive internetional business experience, seeks challening and rewording apparturity. Hardwording, free to travel, ambitious. Please call (33-1) 46-02-72.35.

EMPLOYMENT

EXECUTIVES AVAILABLE .

FRENCH PERSONAL ASSISTANT. Flu-erd English, 13 years UK, German, solid international expenence fransla-tions, marketing, legal, dynamic, and-ture, seels secretized/assistant pos-tion with int1 Paris based company. Tel: 1-42522725 (eves or answerphone)

EDUCATIONAL POSITIONS AVAILABLE

FRIENDSHIPS EDITH BRIGITTA FAHRENKROG INTERNATIONAL PARTNERSHIP-AGENCY

> MATCHING THE RIGHT PARTNERS IS MY BUSINESS, PERSONAL INDIVIDUAL Y OU CAN REACH ME DAILY: 3-7 P.M. IALSO SAT/SUN1 GERMANY, 60316 FRANKFURT / MAIN ELKENBACHSTR, 51

NEW YORK - LOS ANGELES - SINGAPORE

GERMANY - FRANKFURT/MAIN

SAY YES... TO A PARTNERSHIP

Tel.: +49 · 171 · 2 45 52 S2 Tel.: +49 · 69 · 43 19 79 Fax: +49 · 69 · 43 20 66 ARE POSSIBLE IN: FRANKFURT

INDIVIDUAL CONFIDENTIAL

A CHARMING ITALIAN BEAUTY WITH CLASS...

EARLY '95, 170, WITH A GREAT TEMPERAMENT AND A LOT OF CHARM SHE IS A MANACER IMBA. IN A WORLD-KNOWN FASHION COMPANY, VERY SUCCESSIBLE AND WITH GREAT CHARISMA. AN ADMIRABLE PERSONALITY FULL OF WITALITY AND CHEERFUL, SHE HAS LONG DARK HAIR. A WONDERFULLY FEMENINE OUTLOOK, AND A GRACEFUL MODEL LIKE FIGURE. A SCHIBSTICATED LADY WIND LOVES CULTURE AND SPORTS ACTIVITIES. COLF. TENNIS AND SHE HAS A PASSION FOR WATERSPORTS GALLING, SUPPING, ETC...
THIS ENCHANTING WOMAN IS LOOKING FOR THE RIGHT PARTMER TO SHARE GREAT ASPECTS OF LIFE BASED ON LOVE AND TRUST.

DEFAULT CALLY CO. CETSMANY 4.49, 771, 1355, 57 DRAMS - 69, 47 1978

PLEASE CALL: (3) GERMANY + 49 - 171 - 245 52 52 on + 49 - 69 - 43 19 79 INTL INDUSTRIALIST (NEW YORK - MONTE CARLO)...

19/1.86 A VERY DYNAMIC AND ACTIVE BUSINESS-MAN WHO IS EXTREMELY SUCCESSFUL WITH HIS WORLDWIDE COMPANIES. THIS CHARMING GENTLEMAN IS DARK HARRED WITH BLUE VEST AND A MASCULINE BUTLOOK A SPORTY AND ELEGANT APPE AREANCE. WITH AN EXCELLENT BACKGROUND, HE IS ALSO WARM HEAPTED PROMANTIC, GENEROLS, WITH A GOOD SENSE OF HUMBER, A MAIN WHO LOVES FABILLY LIFE, HIS SPORTS INTERESTS ARE GOLF. TENNIS, WATERSPORTS AND SKINING HE IS LOONING FOR THE RIGHT WOMAN TO START A WONDERFUL FUTURE TOGETHER.

PLEASE CALL: (3) GERMANY + 49 - 171 - 245 52 52 oz + 49 - 49 - 43 19 79

- Worldwide Exclusive Marriage Agency ---

EXCLUSIVE IN MUNICH gabriele thiers-bense Fax: +49 - 89 - 6423455 - Tel.: +49 - 89 - 6423451 9.2 THE SUCCESSFUL...

SOPHISTICATED INTRODUCTION TO THE BEST IN INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY...

CHICAGO - LAKE MICHIGAN AN INTERNATIONAL BUSINESSMAN AND COMPANY OWNER - 48/6*2" A GENUINE BEAUTY! - 35/5*6" rail, sim - A FASCINATING, MOST - with subsidiaries in EUROPE and ASIA - A most successful and wealthy RITERESTING YOUNG LADY OF DISTINCTION, an american eithe university person, who impresses with subtle intelligence, humor and a "mislecoting", gracuate with several degrees, levolved in a US Multinational Company she understating criticale... The suitable woman in question may be his age, is frequently in Western Europe and Asia and very much indicated to raise a she should be independent and Basable enough "to move..." CNLY FOR formily and "get selled" within either Germany, Switzerland or France. HARRINGE, FORMAL APPLICATIONS ARE REQUESTED IN WRITING.

IF YOU ALSO ESTEEM TRADITIONS, EHTICS AND MORAL VALUES WE WILL BE PLEASED TO RECEIVE YOUR APPLICATION. Harthauser Str. 10-8

Daily 10-19 hrs. D-81545 München/Germany 🕳 For responsible people 🕳

THE ELITE ...

. Ž

19 1

÷

1.22 .17

Div Yid PE 190s High Low Latest Ch'or

| March | Marc 42 4.7 378 8.7 378 1.7

3 81 11/2

C

8 104 95

8 134 78

10 14

55 18

7 7 10 97

10 27

7 10 27

7 10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 27

10 546 — 14 1746 — 14 1746 — 15 1746 — 15 1746 — 15 1746 — 15 1746 — 15 1747 — 15 1 57114 542 13311911811918 542 13311911811918

12% 7% Garseo 16% 9 GalxCol 7% 3 Garseo 33% 18% Garseo

G-H .04b .4 13 40 10 7.1 18 21 10 4.2 8 41

JAL Lance

"A Lambugh

"A Maram

"A Ma

.24 .60 1.20 .56 .60 1.10 1.64 1.68 .12e .09 .09 1.08 _58

34: Foresto 3 40 Soft 74: FramTc 19 FrshChe 25% Fritz 31% FutrHB 12% FuturHB 8% FuturHI s

.80 .20 ,00

 .40 .70 1.36 .12

.12

53 64 .17

26 | 9518 | 25 | 1241 | 11 | 1257 | 1241 | 1257 | 1241 | 1257 | 1241 | 1257 | 1241 | 1257 | 1241 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1257 | 1

Div Yid PE 100s High Low Latest Ch'9e

16% 14% 18% 28% 15% 21% 17% 23% 16% 26% 16% 16% 16%

12 Month High Low Stock

|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  15°43 1563 333 88578466 38778464647676783784848 4446484 1467315 127467849 19128 7 21428 18788 18

Div Yid PE 100s High LowLates Crigo High Low Stock

6% 1V., Govice w 1V., Govice w 1V., Govice w 1 1% Govice w

51, 2 ICN Bio .15
12th 71h G1
12th 72th Interform
12th 7

414 213 50 15% 30% 12 15%

974 · Va 1746 — 444 — Va 1846 — Va

37/14 3 17/14 13/15 4/14 22/16 976 12/14 074

المائية ما الم

1.90 at 9 - 12 25 1946

1.90 at 9 - 1 1956

1.

HOT

.12

12 Month High Low Stock

2,00

R-5

.44 .12 .49 .48

.14 .28 1.96

Div Yid PE 1006 Heart Law Lorest Chige

76'44
17'44
47'49
47'49
47'49 12 14 14
167'8
118'44
167'8
17'14
187'44
47 107'8
107'8 117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14
117'14 117'14 illiome Abroad

| Low-Lotest Orgo|
| 25/4 3974 + 1/4 |
| 25/4 3974 + 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |
| 1/4 - 1/4 |

Townson The A 特 To A TS

To the second of the second of

FIRST COLUMN

A New Look At a Very Old Story

HERE is, as yet, no official competition for Great Typographical Errors of the Twentieth Century. When somebody does finally get round to organizing one, the following will be this column's entry: Workers of the World Untie!

Then again, maybe it's not so much a typographical error as a hidden truth. Afar all, the failure of workers around the world to unite and smash capitalism, as they were exhorted to do in the Communist Party manifesto, has left them with a thriving, but complex system of husiness and commerce. And the more successful the workers within that system become, the more complicated the financial knots that they are asked to untie.

In theory, working outside one's home country should be a major financial bonus. The remuneration — or compensation for those who prefer headhunters' jargon — is supposed to provide financial benefits to counterbalance the stress of changing countries, perhaps learning a new language, etc. The dream scenario is that the company picks up the tah for accomodation, the executive has a big living allowance, and the salary goes straight into a bank account domiciled in a pleasingly obscure location. The reality is all too often a practical mess of conflicting tax laws and adminis-trative headaches, especially if there is still a house to be taken care of in the home

Of all the topics that the modern financial world addresses, relocation is among the things it does worst. This is surprising, given what appears to be an ever-increasing trend for business to be done across international borders. Though you might argue that this is an old story: Good managers are good at managing most things, but often not their own finances.

For U.S. Corporations, the Modern-Day Byword Is 'Globalize or Die'

By Judith Rehak

ORPORATE downsizing may be the order of the day at home, but more and more U.S. companies are buying into the 'globalize or die' theme, sending executives out to open new offices and factories abroad.

In a 1993 survey co-conducted by Wmdham International, a firm specializing in cultural integration for executives moving abroad, and the New York-hased National Foreign Trade Council, 85 percent of participants said they expected their expatriate population to increase or, at least, to stay the same. The 120 participants, mostly Fortune 500 firms, had an average of 184 executives posted overseas. about 20 percent more than they had five years ago.

Only 15 percent of participants, mostly financial service companies and banks, said they planned to cut back, and many of those have reversed their positions since the survey was taken, said Rick Swaak, a vice president at the Council.

Moreover, the type of U.S. company that is deciding to enter the global market-place is widening significantly. High-pro-file corporate giants like AT&T, Motorola, and IBM are being joined by a rush of new arrivals — smaller companies like GTech Corp., a developer of lottery sys-tems, Mary Kay Cosmetics, and MTV, the music video television network.

"We're getting calls from companies which you'd never anticipate would be going overseas," said Patricia Digh, who heads the international division of the Virginia-based Society for Human Resources, a non-profit, member-supported group which advises companies on overseas labor regulations and salary structures. "Many high-tech and hlue collar manufacturing functions are being outsourced, not only because there's a great opportunity for reduced labor costs, but because there's a greater market for widgets and phones out there."

Miss Digh, who said she has been handling inquiries from companies interested in a wide range of activities - making auto parts in China, drilling for oil in Russia, and opening bookshops in Eastern Europe, to name a few - added that she M.B. has seen membership in the Society's international division balloon from 200 to 2,000 in the last three years.

ce: Windham International/National Foreign Trade Council

And where are these companies heading? The most favored destination right now is the Asia-Pacific region. China is perceived as the country with the most market potential, although few firms are braving life on the mainland.

"Companies are looking for jumpingoff spots, like Singapore, until China's infrastructure grows to accommodate a larger number of expatriates," said Michael Schell, president of Windham International. "There's also been a dramatic increase in people going to Malaysia, especially in telecommunications and appliance manufacturing, and to Indonesia. There's even interest in Korea, despite the political unrest there."

Also coming on strong are Central and South America. Mr. Schell said he is hearing from clients that have decided to set up shop in Brazil, Chile and Argentina, and that are now organizing their advance

Experts also say that females make up a growing percentage of the expatriate work force. According to the Windham/NFTC study, 10 percent of American expatriate executives are women, up from only 3 percent five years ago. Mr. Swaak said he expected that figure to hit 11 percent with this year's survey.

But even as women are gaining as expatriate executives, they are losing out in another arena: finding a job when it is their husbands who have received the foreign assignment. In the era of two-career marriages, only 10 percent of executive spouses ever a find a joh in the country where their partner has been posted, according to the study. The result: male executives who turn down a foreign assignment often cite their spouse — who doesn't want to derail her own career - as the primary reason.

"Companies are finding it difficult to get talent, because much of it is married to other talent," said Mr. Swaak. "And the pool is shrinking because we aren't very successful in helping the 'trailing'

Another stumbling block to successful expatriate assignments sometimes lies in the companies themselves. While hig mul-tinationals like AT&T and General Electric have careful selection processes for chosing executives to send abroad, offering language and cultural programs before departure, the picture can be quite different for smaller companies.

"I can't tell you how many times I get calls saying something like, 'We're open-

Relocation - Tyles Page 17 Culture shocks

Stepping Overseas

Change forecast in number of

No change

Avoiding catastrophe

expairiates over the next five years

STATE OF THE STATE

Survey of 120 U.S. companies which have sent or are sending employees overseas.

The partnership factor Currencies' taxing problems ing a subsidiary in France, and I need the employment laws for a meeting at 1:00," said Miss Digh. "Often, training or chos-

ing a person to go overseas is done at the last minute, particularly in companies doing this for the first time." So why not just hire more nationals overseas? Many companies do, especially in sales, where language, and connections in the local marketplace can be a tremendous asset. But there are compelling reasons for a company to send a home-grown executive abroad. One is 'technology transfer,' in which,

for example, an expatriate sets up financial and accounting systems that ue an overseas operation into headquarters. In the case of a manufacturing facility, the executive might institute U.S. quality controls. Typically, the expatriate stays abroad for about three years, analysts say, selecting and training a national as a replacement before returning to the United

by Spouse

Marital status/living arrangements

Not Accompanied

Single

by Spouse

Another reason for not hiring more foreign nationals as executives, at least in the beginning of an international expansion program, is that companies going global need their managers to be able to function effectively in as many foreign lands as

"To maintain a corporate culture that is globally competent," said Mr. Schell, "you need to have an exchange of executives so that it permeates the entire organization and doesn't just remain at headquarters, It isn't just Americans going to other countries, it's outsiders coming to the U.S. and moving among other coun-

The ideal, of course, is the "global executive" - that multilingual citizen of the world who moves effortlessly through several cultures, But for most U.S. companies, that individual is still in the future. Only an estimated 25 percent of chief executives at the 20 largest American companies, as determined by annual revenues, have worked outside the United

However, say analysts, it's a fair bet that nearly all of those now moving up through the ranks to the CEO's office will

The Survey's In: Although Costly, Good Expatriate Executives Are Sound Investments

Sources: CBI, Ernst & Young.

Education & Settling-in Children a host country education fees Travel costs for children

Housing allowance House-hunting trips 53°° insurance in host country House sale in home country

Insurance in transit Storage 78% Air freight

Moving Arrangements

Tax & other payments Medical Insurance Cost of living allowance provided Tax equalization provided Tax protection provided

Travel & Leave Employee's air fare to host country Spouse's air fare to host country Employee's home leave fares Children's home leave fares

By Jack Anderson

HE human resources director of a U.K. subsidiary of a U.S. multinational oil and chemicals company recently said: "Relocation is now expected to increase as (our) company starts to recruit more. On international relocation, the view is that the company must keep moving people."

Such an outlook is typical of those voiced in a comprehensive survey of the expatriate relocation expense policies of over 600 multinational corporations and their subsidiaries in North America, Europe and Asia recently completed by the London-based Confederation of Business and Industry and Ernst & Young.

The participants represented all business sectors and the survey covered both international and domestic relocations.

Is there a future for expensive expatriate executives? In fact, nearly all survey participants anticipated at least some growth in their number of expatriate employees, with the largest multinationals expecting the greatest growth, although a minority comment was registered by some European multinationals.

"Changing business practices such as video links, electronic mail, and modems from home mean that people do not have to move in every instance," responded

The survey showed that the large majority of multinationals, particularly those based in Japan, considered their international relocation strategy extremely important to the overall success of their company. Many also forecast that their Children's frome country education fees total relocation expenditures will increase by 150 percent over the next three years. What is more, interviews conducted after the survey's completion show that human resource directors estimate international relocation costs for each expatriate executive at between two and three times the executive's annual salary.

How does this jibe with the cost-cutting approach of the 1990's? One North American multinational voiced a common opinion: "International relocation costs are rising as a result of greater freedom of movement. Certain benefits are becoming more expensive, such as removal expenses. But on the whole, (our) company is not giving more money — it is cutting back if

While the responses of survey participants varied from company to company, some similarites emerged in the responses received from companies that were based in the same country. Following are general outlines of typical expatriate relocation expense policies for companies based in Belgium, France, Germany and The Netherlands, as reflected by the survey. The policies relate to expenses provided by the companies for their own executives who leave the stated home country to work

Belgium

 Policies on housing for international transferees vary across companies, but provision of a housing allowance is common, as is payment of host-country utilities and insurance expenses. Home purchase expenses are available from some companies, as are rental management costs of the executive's house in the home country. The provision of a house-hunting trip and professional home-search help in the host country is also generally avail-

 Outbound education assistance (such as for foreign-language lessons) is usually given, along with a settling-in allowance. For transport of belongings, the cost of sea freight, insurance and storage is usually paid. Travel and home leave fares are also paid for the employee and family.

Tax equalization, or the guarantee that the employee will pay the same amount of tax - no more, no less - in the host country as in the home country, is the norm. (Tax "protection" refers to a guarantee that the employee simply will not pay more tax than at home, although he could pay less). · Communication of the company's relocation policy is usually carried out verbally with employees, backed up by letter. External suppliers are typically used for tax and social security planning, as well as for cost-of-living information. Relocation companies might also be used for help with the sale or rental of the executive's home-country dwelling.

 A range of assistance is given with housing — from a housing allowance (which could involve company housing) in the host country, to rental management help at home. Assistance with the sale of the executive's home dwelling, as well as with the purchase of a new dwelling in the host country, might also be available.

• The transport of belongings, travel and home-visit expenses, cost-of-living allowances and medical insurance costs are also usually given. Tax equalization is the External advisors might be used for home search activities, vacant property management, area familiarization, moving expenses and cost-of-living calculations. Advisers are also likely to be used for tax and social security planning and work permits.

Germany

• Policies on housing vary widely on assistance with home sale and purchase, the provision of a housing allowance, and rental management assistance. House-hunting and settling-in expenses are usu-ally met. Moving costs are paid, but not for pets or cars. Expenses associated with travel to and from the host country (including home visits) are met for the whole family. Medical insurance costs are typically met. • Tax equalization is the norm. Communication of the company's relocation policy might be through individual discussion or group meetings with the executive's family, as well as hy letter.

 Consultants are likely to be used for home search, hriefing, legal advice, tax planning, work permits and worldwide administration coordination.

The Netherlands

· Housing policies are varied, with companies offering a range of benefits from company housing in the host loca-tion to the provision of a rental allowance to home purchase help. Insurance and utility costs in the host location are frequently met. Occasionally, house-hunting expenses are given.

• Moving costs are generally paid, especially sea freight, insurance and storage, although payments toward the cost of shipping pets and cars are rare.

• In some instances a settling-in payment is made. Also, the provision of a cost- of-living allowance is common, as is tax equalization.

The above results do not appear to be a "sea change," particularly as companies overall are predicting an increase in total expatriates and total costs as shown As one North American telecommunications executive said: "What will happen is that companies will control relocation in terms of expense and make slightly more considered move decisions. But in terms of the overall cost of running a business, relocation is insignificant." However, in response to the "cost-effectiveness challenge" facing human resource directors, the survey showed that expatriates should see certain changes in how relocation expense packages are designed, calculated and communicated.

For example, the survey forecast that cost-of-living allowances will decrease, and will be calculated on an "efficient purchaser" index. Some companies will completely eliminate cost-of-living allowances or pay them in lump sums for only the first year or two of an assignment, particularly in the case of expatriation within a relatively narrrow geographic re-

More external advisors will probably also be used, predicted the survey, to hring down costs without taking away benefits from the expatriate. Moreover, U.K. legislation on relocation costs that took effect this year should place additional pressure on cost containment for U.K. expatriates. The one-third of polled companies currently without a written relocation policy will formalize their practice, and others will enforce policy more strictly, suggested the survey. There will also be more communication with expatriates and their families regarding what the relocation ex-pense policy is, and what its limitations are, as well as an effort to get the expatriate to "buy into" the relocation policy and share some of the economic hurden.

The survey's overall conclusion was that although current and future expatriates will have to undergo some belt-tightening, they are increasingly recognized as key players in determining the success (or failure) of companies competing in the multinational and multicultural marketplace. As one U.K. human resource direc-

"Because the company has so much trouble in getting people to go ahroad, the packages are almost individually negotiated. The company does have an interna-tional policy which is very generous and it tends not to think of costs but simply of getting somebody out there. It costs an arm and a leg hut, if we want people to go, we have to pay."

JACK ANDERSON is a partner in the Paris office of Ernst & Young, the global auditing, consulting and expatriate services concern. The survey referred to in this article, as well as a companion survey on mobility policy, will be discussed at the annual Brussels International Human Resources Seminar on October 5-7, 1994. For further information on the seminar, contoct Stephen Grant at the following address: Ernst & Young, Lintas House, 15/19 New Fetter Lane, London EC4A IAP, England. Telephone: (44.71) 931.2980.

INVEST YOUR FUNDS IN DENMARK

Please choose two of the investment opportunities listed below, and we will forward you the relevant information:

High-interest currency deposit account (on-demand). 19 differenr currencies. Interest rates up to 9% p.n.

Bond Funds

5 bond funds in different currencies and with different compositions.

J.B. Euro-Invest

Geared investment.

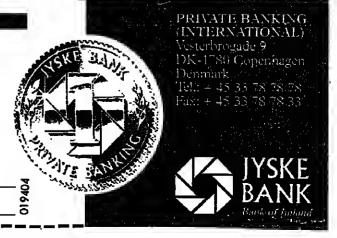

Dollar Investment Package

High-risk investment in USD or USD-related currencies. Geared investment.

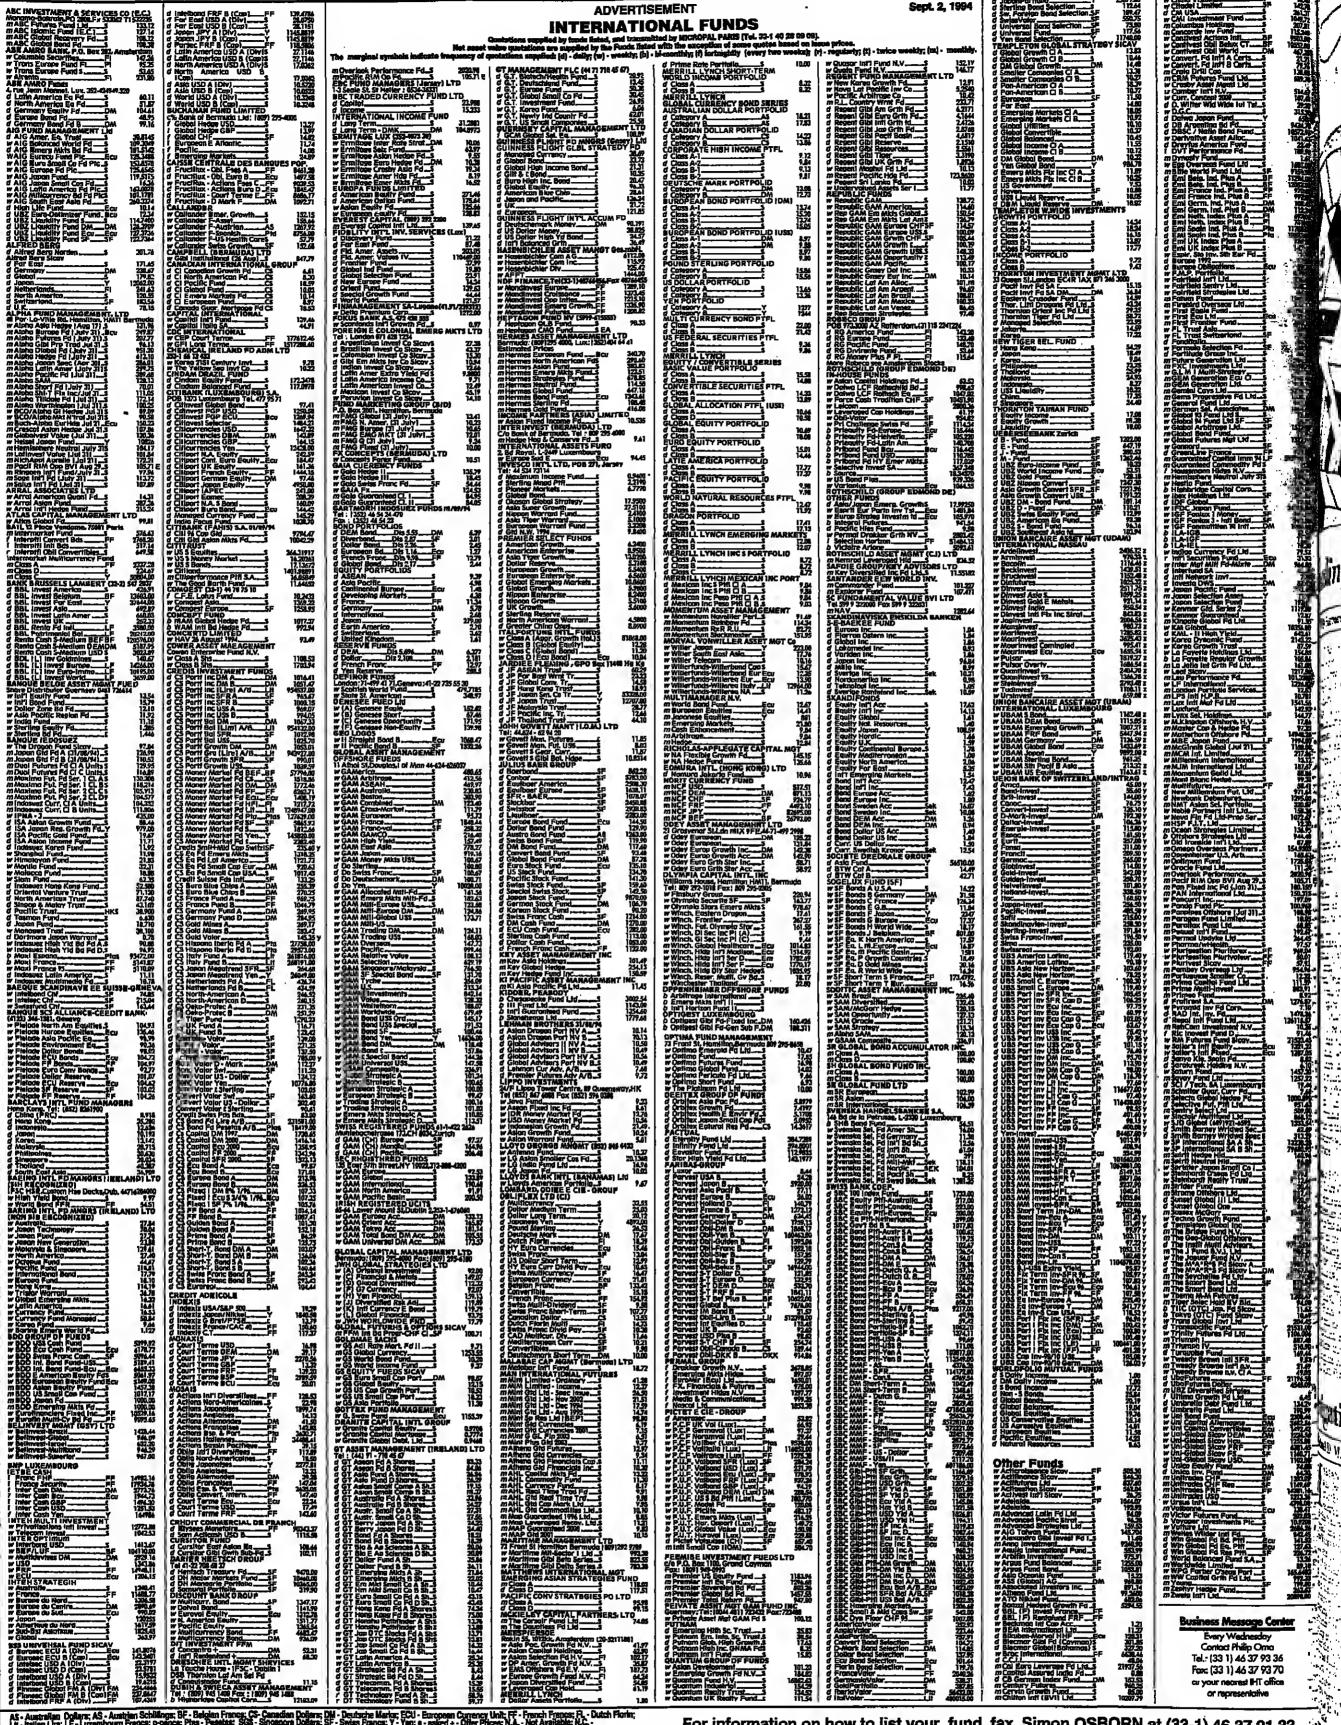

Trade, safe-keeping and portfolio management of international

Please send or telefax the coupon to Jyske Bank.

Posial Code: Country:

High-risk investment in European currencies. COPENHAGEN · LONDON · ZÜRICH · HAMBURG · GIBRALTAR · FUENGIROLA · LISBON

For information on how to list your fund, fax Simon OSBORN at (33-1) 46 37 21 33.

Attend this major international conference to meet and question the region's key decision-makers.

THE MIDDLE EAST & EASTERN MEDITERRANEAN

ASTIR PALACE HOTEL, VOULIAGMENI, NEAR ATHENS
10-11 OCTOBER, 1994

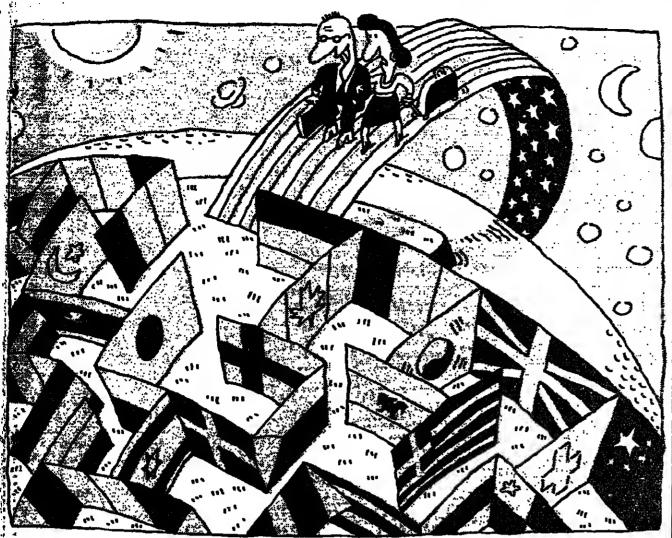

Herald Eribune

FOR FURTHER DETAILS
PLEASE CONTACT:

Fiona Cowan, International Herald Tribune 63 Long Acre. London WC2E 9JH, UK Tel- (44 71) 836 4809

Tel: (44 71) 836 4802 Fax: (44 71) 836 0717

Heading Off Culture Shock Aids Success By Barbara Wall

ULTURE shock is one of the most expensive and least understood aspects of international corporate relocation, say human resource managers.

."It is easy to scoff at the notion of caltural maladjustment," commented Gary Wederspahn, vice president of Pru-dential Relocation Services in Boulder, Colorado. "Some doubters even go so far as to say that it is all in the sufferer's head. However, research indicates that expatriate failure rates in U.S. companies due to culture shock syndrome are commonly as high as 10 to 20 percent." With the cost of foreign assignments steadily increasing, and with cross border regration continuing its upward trend, companies are keen to ensure that their transferees adjust to the new work environment as quickly as possible. Foreign service premiums and hardship allow-ances continue to be paid, but these are increasingly being supplemented with cross-cultural training courses.

"The attitude of corporate America is gradually changing," said a spokesman for International Orientation Resources in Chicago, a relocation firm. "Companies are acknowledging the fact that to operate competitively in today's global market, employees have to be culturally sensitive and flexible in their business dealings."

· Many expatriates will experience their first taste of culture shock in the new job itself. Cultural induction courses, which typically last two to three days, emphasize the importance of an open-minded attitude in the workplace. As well as providing information on the destination country, cultural trainers will also try and make transferees aware of their own cultural

According to Polly Platt, manager of Paris-based Culture Crossings, a consultancy for corporate transferees, the unprepared transferee can inadvertently put up barriers on the first day on the job.

"Anglo-Saxons are often perceived by the French as lacking basic manners simply because they forget, or are not aware, that one should always shake hands with eleagues on arriving at the office and on departure," said Miss Platt, who is also the author of "French or Foe," a witty and informative analysis of Franco-Anglo-Saxon communication.

·But sometimes transferees can try too hard to assimilate into the new culture, added Miss Platt. She said she knew one bewildered transferee who, on realizing he had omitted the French handshaking ritual, immediately corrected himself. But instead of shaking hands when required, he insisted on shaking hands with his col-leagues every time he happened to bump into them, be it at the photocopying machine, the fax machine or in the boardroom. His colleagues naturally assumed he had a very poor memory.

Business methods and management styles are a constant source of stress and cultural discord among transferees and their hosts, say analysts. Miss Platt noted that Anglo-Saxons are often "fact and cash" orientated. 'Goals and objectives must be reached by the quickest and most efficient route, and profit is invariably the motivating force," she said. "By contrast, the French are suspicious of profit. They are much more influenced by notions of perfection and tend to think in terms of concepts."

The pragmatic, short-term approach to business in Anglo-Saxon countries is also out of sync with the way business is conducted in occidental countries and in Latin America, say experts. "In these countries, bonds must be formed and trust established before any business can be conducted," said Mr. Wederspahn. "The Japanese frequently find Anglo-Saxons opportunistic and shortsighted in their business dealings, while Anglo-Saxons can quickly get discouraged with their apparent lack of progress." Differences in business methods can strain relationships, but differences in management styles can lead to a loss in productivity. "In Indonesia, China, Japan and Latin America, subordinates expect to be given clear instructions and directed forcefully, otherwise they will sit back and do nothing," said Dean Foster, director of cross-cultural training for Berlitz, known chiefly for its foreign-language training programs.

"Managers in the U.S., however, expect staff to take the initiative. Brainstorming and teamwork, which is anathema to many cultures, is an integral part of the American management philosophy.

There are occasional assignments where the unexpected happens and even human resource managers are caught unaware. For example, Prudential Relocation was recently commissioned by a leading U.S. telecommunications company to study the special problems that female managers might encounter on transferring to Japan.

There were problems, but not exactly the sort we anticipated," said Mr. Wederspahn. "It was assumed that women would experience difficulties being accepted by Japanese workers. However, women managers were actually held in higher esteem than their male counterparts. This is because powerful women are still something of an oddity in Japan. The Japanese presume that they must be very special indeed to merit such a high rank.

Prudential Relocation found that the main problem for female managers was adapting to Japanese business methods. "Business often takes place in the evening and in social settings such as restaurants. kareoke clubs and geisha hars," said Mr. Wederspahn. "As it is not always acceptable or possible for a woman to take part in these business get togethers, she will have to discover other ways of gaining access to Japanese business circles."

One of the greatest challenges facing human resource managers is to help the 'trailing spouse' - usually the female partner in a relationship - assimilate into the new culture. Rita Bennett, director of Bennett Associates, an international relocation consultancy specializing in crosscultural training, noted that while the hesband is typically offered some form of moral support in the new office, the wife is often left to face linguistic and lifestyle barriers as well as differences in values

"An unhappy partner can put an intol-erable strain on foreign assignments," she said. "Confronted with the realization that a cup of coffee and a good ery are not viable solutions to career and lifestyle disruption, companies are starting to design programs to help the accompanying and perceptions completely alone.

Miss Bennett said that part of the answer may lie in better candidate/soouse assessment and selection, as the partner's opinions and concerns are often minimized in the selection process. A few pertinent questions at the outset, she said. may be all that is required.

Bell Atlantic, the U.S. telecommunications company, has been sending transferees and their families on cross cultural training courses since 1991. "Many companies are still hesitant about allocating resources to cultural training because the results are not always apparent and easily measured," said a company spokesman. "However, we have found that recent transferees who received training adapted to the new culture and became productive in a shorter time span than those who were transferred before 1991. "We now have fewer failed assignments and our transferees generally stay on as-

New IRS Rule Threatens Partnerships

By Robert C. Siner

BROAD new rule aimed at stopping abusive tax practices by partnerships is likely to cause new headaches for Americans overseas doing business under the partnership rules, tax experts say.

Last May the Internal Revenue Service proposed regulations targeting partner-ships formed with the "principal purpose of reducing the partners' federal tax liability in a manner inconsistent with the intent" of the partnership rules. "In such a case," read the rules, "even if the partners comply with the literal language of ...the code, the Commissioner can recast the transactions for federal tax purposes as aporopriate."

According to the IRS, these proposed regulations should become law by the end of year, although the final form in which they emerge is still open to modification.

The basic idea, however, which is likely to remain intact, would allow the IRS, if it decides that a partnership has been set up mainly to avoid taxes, to declare that a business is not a partnership but a corporation or some other business entity which is susceptible 10 substantial additional taxes and penalties.

This development has alarmed lawyers, accountants and others who do business in partnership form. They argue that the rule is so broad that almost any partnership could fall within its scope. And tax practitioners warn that the rule is so vague that it is impossible to tell what is abusive and what is not.

Not so, says Paul Kugler, IRS Assistant Chief Counsel for Passthroughs and Special Industries and one of the authors of the new regulation. "We certainly don't intend to undercut businesses using the partnership form," he said. Mr. Kugler said that the new rules are analagous in some ways to those dealing specifically with real estate partnerships that are not set up for the legitimate business purpose of running a shopping center, or hotel or apartment complex. In the 1980s, many such entities were set up to reap the tax benefits of the investment, then dissolved after the benefits ran out.

Mr. Kugler said that the IRS had increasing anecdotal evidence that abusive partnership was on the rise again, not so much involving individuals, as in the real estate deals, but involving large corpora-

Mr. Kugler said that under the new rule, a partnership agreement formed to carry on a legitimate business would have no trouble, "and if there are tax benefits, that's fine." But a partnership that is drawn up or revised to avoid taxes, he said, would be at risk. But Clint Stretch, a senior tax specialist at the global auditing and tax consulting firm Deloitte & Touche, said that this type of "common law" doctrine could cause major problems for Americans overseas who are members of foreign partnerships. He explained that there was no foreign tax system he knew of that had this type of rule, and that under tax laws in other countries, you're safe so long as you follow the letter of the law. Thus, an American nartner in a foreign firm that restructures itself to avoid taxes could be in compliance with the law of his country of residence, but in violation of the new U.S. rule. The result could be a hefty tax bill from Uncle Sam. Plus, if the American tried to explain his problem to his foreign partners "they wouldn't know what he was talking about." said Mr. Moreover, Mr. Stretch and other tax experts pointed out that most partnerships are established because of the tax benefits. Why? Because a partnership is not taxed itself; instead, any profits and losses are passed through to the individual partners and taxed on their personal returns. A corporation, on the other hand, has to pay taxes itself. It can deduct loses but its shareholders cannot.

The new rule could have a "chilling effect" on partnerships, according to Mr. Stretch. He said that IRS agents could possibly use the new rule as an implied

Mr. Kugler, meanwhile, said he was sympathetic to the concerns of the tax practitioners and those in partnerships. "We understand where they're coming from" he sain. "We're mainly after a few big players" who "take the partnership rule turn it inside out and try to rip off the system." He conceded, however, that the line dividing legitimate from abusive partnerships might be very hard to draw.

The obvious abuses involve setting up partnerships that channel income to one of the partners, which is usually itself a corporation that has losses to offset them. Conversely, losses can be channeled to partners who need them to offset profits.

Less obvious abuses involve multiple deductions of the same loss. Since there are times when these are legitimate, Mr. Kugler said, each determination would depend on the facts and circumstances of each individual case.

Other ahuses can involve manipulation of 'phantom income' (income that is taxable, but produces no increase in the partners' net worth).

Mr. Kugler said that a special IRS task force was working to identify specific circumstances where the new rule would apply so that field agents would know when the rule should be invoked. He expressed the hope that this work and the final version of the regulations would be completed by the end of the year. Mr. Stretch, however, remained uncon-vinced. He said that from the IRS's point of view, it would be best to "let things fester" as long as possible. The way it is now, he explained, poor le are being very careful - not even taking some legitimate losses — because they just don't know exactly what the IRS is going to do.

The Money Report is edited by Martin Baker

BRIEFCASE

Midland's Guaranteed Fund Has Attracted $57 Million

Nothing succeeds like success. That, more or less, is the message emanating from Midland Bank International, part of the HSBC group. Midland's launch of a multi-currency guaranteed fund this summer attracted around $57 million, and the bank plans to launch another product, the fifth in a series, in November. The formula for the products is to offer a guarantee of capital return and the possibility of profit if the markets move fa-vorably. This summer's investors had the choice of investing in U.S. dollars or British pounds.

Those who were prepared to make a five-year commitment will receive 120 percent of the growth in the S&P 500 share index, or 120 percent of the growth in the FT-SE 100 index of U.K. shares. Alternatively, if investors were prepared to commit capital for just three years, they will receive a similar capital guarantee and the promise of 100 percent of any gain in the respective indexes. Naturally, the guarantee aspect is only relevant if the indexes should fall over the

Bank Deposits in Jersey Show Mild Quarterly Gain

The amount of money managed in mu-tual funds in the British Channel Islands is slightly down, as reported last week, but bank deposits are strong. The financial services department of the island of Jersey reports a 1.5 percent rise in deposits to just under £59 billion ($88 billion) for the last quarter. Nearly two thirds of the deposits held on the island are denominated in currencies other than British pounds.

Guernsey Thrift Society Opens Hong Kong Office

A contributing factor to the Channel Islands' continuing financial health is the opening of a Hong Kong office by a major U.K. thrift society based in the other major Channel Island, Guernsey.

expatriate money into dollar- and sterlingdenominated accounts. The top interest rate on the dollar is count is 4.25 percent. while the best yield for sterling deposits is 7 percent.

Woolwich Guernsey is hoping to arract

A fast currency exchange facility for those seeking to make deposits in currencies other than dollars or sterling is also

Fund Association Offers Impartial Words of Wisdom

The Association of Unit Trusts and Investment Funds, the representative body of the U.K. mutual fund industry. has published a new fact sheet on emerging-market funds. For more information, write AUTIF, 65 Kingsway. London WC2B 6TD, or call (44.81) 207.1361.

In next week's Money Report, International small companies. The major argi ments for and against investing, best fund managers, small company indexes, and small companies as long-term, retirement

Currencies Can Create Expatriate Tax Problems pects to realize a gain or loss on mately 8.06 francs to the dollar. the character of a nortion of the

By Heather Timms

OVE across international borders and, like it or not, you become a player on the foreign exchanges. Of course, foreign currency gain or loss is more usually thought of in connection with futures and option exchanges and large investment funds investing in option and hedge

But the rationale for their involvement is to protect the value of their assets against other currencies. In microcosm, this occurs in many seemingly less complicated situations incurred by individuals. For the expatriate communi-

ev. there are many events that can result in foreign currency An example could be the sale of a residence located in the country where the expatriate resides - not the country of his nationality. Another instance ties which are denominated in a can also be critical in overseas currency different from the one tion industry analyst for the In- moves, say analysts. With in which the expatriate usually The real estate example is in-residence, one reasonably ex-

OFFSHORE

COMPANIES

FROM ONLY USS250

More and more offshore companies and trusts are used by businessmen and high

net worth individuals_for tax avoidance,

For FFEE 24 page brochure explaining offshore structures and the advantages of the leading jurisdictions worldwide contact:

vacy and protection of Income and ASSES rate at the time was approxi-OFFSHORE COMPANY. SPECIALISTS Professional Nomenee, Full Accounting and Administration Services available at reasonable cost. All fees agreed with clients with no hidden extras. U.K. LTD U.K. PLC BAHAMAS £120 £325 $500 $500 $295 £250 £350 £255 £495 $500 $750 BATAMAS BAVI. OBLAWARE GIBRALTAR HONG KONG IRELAND ISLE OF MAN JERSEY PANAMA WASHIDA PANAMA W SAMOA hore Banks and insurance aradable to Qualified Appl of the certainties of life, there will also be tax consequences

For example, a U.S. citizen living in France who purchases

a foreign currency gain or loss upon the sale of that home.

Why? Because of the difference in the exchange rate between the U.S. dollar and the French francs. Given that the exchange and the date of sale.

relating to that gain or loss.

For immediate Service and our 60 page Brochure call BU Dego Exchance cash
RICHARD DIXON Esq
Oversoas Company Registration Ajents L2d.
Companies risuses, Pancrey, Isle of Man at 0254 915544 24 fires). Fact 0254 915549
72 New Bord Street, London, Why 900
Tek 071 355 1795. Fact 071 495 2017 Mrs. DIANA BEAN 24 Rathas Place, 26-04 Cathori Contro

TOLL FREE

UK 0800 269900 USA 1 800 2834444 1 800 3823988

Singapore 0104 Tal. 5363282 Fax: 5363991 Robert Drysdale, B.A., M.A. INTERNATIONAL COMPANY ANDERS WADMAN, Solicitor (402 Sent of America Tower, 12 Horrount Road, Central, Hong Yong (or (852) 5220172 Fair (853) 5511150 SERVICES LIMITED eign House, St. Johns, Isle of Man G.B. Tel:+44 624 801 801 Fax:+44 624 801 800 Please send your complimentary brochure that sale. What one does not the dollar price would be resulting economic gain or loss, usually expect is an element of foreign currency gain or loss that goes along with that sale.

Assume also that the house was sold in 1994 for 1,050,000 of situations, the taxes owed Moreover, because it is one francs, and that the applicable due to an underlying gain in the exchange rate was 5.4 francs to the dollar. The sale price in dol-lars would be $194,444. The difference between the U.S. dollar bases provides the foreign exchange gain that would be realized, which is a home in France will recognize

Even though there was no gain on the sale in terms of French francs, there would be a gain recognized because the valfranc on the date of nurchase ue of the dollar had decreased. This is perhaps best illustrat-It would also be possible to ed by a simple example. Asincur a loss in terms of French sume that a house was purfrancs on the sale, yet still make chased in 1985 for a purchase a foreign currency gain. price of 1,050,000 French

In some instances, the identification of foreign currency gain or loss will only reclassify such as whether it is capital or ordinary in nature. In the worst value of an asset could not be offset by a loss realized in the movement of the applicable ex-

Thus, as if the uncertainty of finding a buyer at an acceptable price for a home or deciding when a security has reached its peak were not enough, expatriates must also consider foreign currency exchange risk. And while the measurement of that gain or loss is important, the taxation of that gain or loss is just as important. HEATHER TIMMS is a principal in the Paris office of Arthur Andersen's International Executive Services group.

Navigating the Do-It-Yourself Move Minefield over international moving com-The consumer can thus be

By Michael D. McNickle

Service of the servic

pt 253 7 11

1.

ARIAN Balladin was livid. Eleven months ago, she selected a company out of the Yellow Pages to move herself and her family from New York to the Caribbean. Today, she says, despite the payment of thousands of dol-lars, her furniture and virtually all of her possessions are being "held for ransom" by shippers. "Everything I own is sitting in a container," Miss Balladin said, adding that the problem arose when the relocation broker she hired failed to pay the full amount to the firm that actually did the shipping. As a result, she's been asked to pay an additional $5,000 to get her property back. Problems such as Miss Balladin's can cause nightmares for relocating executives and managers whose companies leave the responsibility for the moving process on their shoulders alone. Agencies who police the industry are careful to point out that while the majority of moving companies are legitimate and reputable, there are a significant number that are not.

"Lots of things can go wrong, and there are a lot of fairly unreliable operators in this business," said Joseph T. Farrell, director of the U.S. Federal Maritime Commission's Office of Informal Inquiries and Complaints, which has jursidiction ance policy may be ficultious.

"People make the mistake of looking in the Yellow Pages under movers, calling up a bunch of them and picking the one who is charging about one-third of what everybody else is charg-ing," said Mr. Farrell. "There's usually a pretty good reason why they're doing that — you kind of get what you pay for."

A common problem, Mr. Farrell said, is consumers frequently don't scrutinize the terms of the deals they sign with shippers. "People often don't get a clear idea of what the estimate they're getting covers," he said. "They might think that it covers everything, but it turns out, for example, it only covers shipment to a foreign port, then you've got to arrange movement from the port to your residence, packing fees and everything else."

Marc Wurzel, an attorney at the New York City Consumer Affairs Department, said that consumers need to declare values if they have certain priceless items. Without a detailed inventory and valuation, he noted. executives will have a hard time insuring the goods or gaining compensation on any damage.

A common scam, say analysts, is that of moving firms offering to provide insurance for customers. For example, the firm might charge an extra $20 per thousand pounds moved. The problem is that the insur-

cheated twice: once for the nonexistent cover, and again if there is any significant damage

Analysts say that people who are relocating should verify any policies purchased through movers with the insurance company itself, or simply buy the insurance independently. Linda Mitchler, a transporta-terstate Commerce Commission in Washington, D.C., said consumers should pay particu- the moving company will fold structive. Upon the sale of a lar attention to whether a mov- or experience financial difficuling company is licensed, and ties. Companies unable to meet whether there have been an un- their financial ohligations can usually large number of com- wind up having customers' plaints filed with regulatory property frozen in transit until agencies such as the I.C.C. debts can be sorted out.

which has jurisdiction over interstate moves. Some of the large companies can result in which the 1.C.C. regulates. gain or loss.

moreover, are also international movers. By checking their domestic record, consumers may be able to get some sense of how they will perform in an overseas move. The size of the firm retained smaller undercapitalized firms. there's aiways the chance that

Save on Int'l Phone Calls

Save on international phone calls compared to local phone companies and calling card plans. Call from home, office or hotels and avoid surcharges. Call for rates and see how to start saving today! Lines open 24 hours.

Kallback

Call: 1-206-284-8600 Fax: 1-206-282-6666

419 Second Avenue West, Seattle, WA 98119 USA

For your own, for your $^{-\frac{\pi}{4}}$ chosen country Imagine you'd get the chance to make the most change rate.

profitable investment of your life - Imagine further that it'd be up to yourself to choose how much the interest of that investment would be. Well, that is certainly unusual, - but, as a matter of fact, we are looking for unusual people.

license-taker for each European country who is able and willing to invest

-- 2.000.000 USS :

in his personal future and is also willing to create activily the amount of his further future profits. We are able to offer you the license for every European country for one of the most profitable participations within the largest private anglo-european lucky-game-business. As a maner of fact we are able to guarantee each of the license-takers -20% per year of the brutto/gross income out of their chosen license-countries. The amount of your income is up to yourself based only on your PR-engagement. Only serious and strong minded investors who have also the capability to show a statement of their credibility, which proves the required amount of US$ 2,000,000,- write to: EEC - European Keizersgracht 62-64

Enterprises NL-1015 CS Amsterdan Consultants C.V. Att.: The chief

The Netherlands Tel.: 0031-20-5207571 - Fax: 0031-20-5207510 —

SPORTS

Steeler Offense Puts Cowboys On the Defensive

PITTSBURGH — The Dallas Cowboys know what's coming: all 218 pounds of Barry Foster right down the middle of their rebuilt defense, relentlessly, ceaselessly, until they stop him. If Play after play, quarter after quarter they'll see it Sunday: No. 29 off-tackle left, No. 29 off-tackle right, No. 29 straight up the gut behind All-Pro center Dermontti Dawson.

There are no secrets about the Pittsburgh Steelers' battering ram of an offense and no secret weapons. They've been waiting months to unleash a healthy Foster for four quarters, and they plan to do exactly that against the two-time defending Super Bowl champions. And if Foster gets tired or needs a few plays off, they'll throw in realts Barn Moreis their too exhibition rusher. rookie Bam Morris, their top exhibition rusher.

First ram, then Bam.

"We can't let them control our defense with their running game," the Cowboys' coach, Barry Switzer, said.
"There's nothing in the world I love more on the sideline than seeing Russell Maryland and Charles Haley and Tony Tolhert sitting there on the bench, resting, while our offense is eating the clock up. Pittsburgh will try to do that to us."

Perhaps the only thing Foster dislikes more than a pack of blitzing linebackers on a third-down draw is a pack of reporters, and he usually dodges the Pittsburgh media as effectively as he does a tentative cornerback. Just as his powerful, unyielding running punishes defenses, Foster himself sometimes takes battering from the media for his unfriendly behavior.

What Foster has said so far about his surgically repaired ankle has been virtually nothing, although he now says he's "97 percent healed."

So, careful to protect his feature back for the grind of the 16-game regular season, the Steelers' coach, Bill Cowher, gave him the ball only 21 times in three exhibitions.

"We feel good about where Barry's at." Cowher said.
Right now, that's back on the field, ready to play Sunday against the team he watched as a youngster. It's a big game, not only because it matches the National Football League's two top rushers in 1992 — Emmitt Smith and Foster — but also because all the folks back in Foster's hometown of Duncanville, Texas, will be watching. "I'm getting pumped up just because it's Game 1," Foster said.

"I want to go out and set the tempo for the rest of the season for the team and myself."

Beating the two-time defending Super Bowl champion Cowboys would set a positive tone for the Steelers, but keeping Foster healthy and productive would be even more important. Foster, the AFC's top rusher with 1,690 yards in 1992, was again gaining nearly 100 yards per game when he was hurt midway through last season.

How much did Foster's injury hurt? The Steelers were 6-3 with Foster playing and 3-5 without him.

100 TEN

Miami Dolphins' linebacker Chuck Bullough, getting ready for action in Sunday's game against New England.

New Player in Strike Talks?

NEW YORK — Bud Selig, baseball's acting commissioner, hints that he may soon directly enter the negotiations with the players in an effort to end the three-week-old strike. In a telephone interview late this week, Selig was asked if he thought it was time for him to meet with Donald Fehr, the players' labor leader. "My only response," he replied, "is Until now, Selig, owner of the Milwaukee Brewers, has chosen to remain away from the bargaining table, consulting long-distance with Richard Ravitch, the clubs' chief labor executive; the council, the owners' labor relations committee, which he also heads, and the owners generally. He deliberately did not name himself to a group of 12 owners and other chib executives who met with players at the bargaining table over two days last week in the most recent bargaining sessions.

Jets and Bills: Will Kelly Make It 11? New York Times Service Sumday Games N.Y. JETS at BUFFALO: KEY STAT: ts kicker Nick Lowery has missed just ut PATs in his career (486-0f-490). Bills wetrback Jim Kelly is 10-1 against the since 1988.)MMENT: instead of waining to see they measure up in their division and AFC, the Jets will get an idea right Jets quarterback Boomer Esiason will preseason. All the remainder of the processing of Buddy Ryan's "46" Deals nurveiling of Buddy Ryan's deck for another run at the Super Bowl.

ATLANTA at DETROIT: KEY STAT: Falcons quarterback Jeff George has com-pleted 202 passes without an interception. Lions punter Greg Montgomery led the league with a 45.6 yards per punt average

COMMENT: Both teams have new quarterbacks (Scott Mitchell for the Lions). Both teams have big play receivers -Andre Rison for the Falcons and Herman Moore for the Lions. But there's only one Barry Sanders, and be plays for Detroit.

PHILADELPHIA at GIANTS: KEY STAT: Giants quarterhack Dave Brown has thrown just seven passes in three years in the NFL. Eagles cornerback Eric Allen returned four of his six interceptions for touchdowns last year,

COMMENT: The Giants' coach, Dan Reeves, shook up his defense a week before the season opener. It's the kind of move some coaches would make after two preseason games. The Eagles have to wonder whether the elbow of quarterback Randall Cunningham's throwing arm is all right.

CLEVELAND at CINCINNATI: KEY STAT; Browns quarterback Vinny Testaverde posted the highest quarterback rating of his career (85.7) last season. Bengals quarterback David Klinger 100 per 10 early test for the Bengals, because it's one of their most heated rivalries. It should be a big game for Cincinnati's front four, anchored by two first-round picks, tackle

Dan Wilkinson and end Danny Copeland. HOUSTON at INDIANAPOLIS: KEY STAT: Houston quarterback Cody Carlson has a .714 winning percentage (10-4) as a starter. Colts quarterback Jim Harbaugh is 35-30 as a starter.

COMMENT: Carlson has watched Warren Moon run this offense for many years, and now it's his turn. He should be they're running the same old offense.

MINNESOTA at GREEN BAY: KEY STAT: Vikings quarterback Warren Moon

NFL MATCHUPS

has completed 62 percent of his passes since 1990. Green Bay kicker Chris Jacke has not missed a PAT since opening day 1990 (121 in a row).
COMMENT: The Vikings had the No. 1 ranked defense in the league, and the Packers were ranked No. 2 last year. There have been some shake-ups on both teams, but Green Bay came out ahead with the addition of defensive end Jones from the Oil-

SEATTLE at WASHINGTON: KEY STAT: Seattle quarterback Rick Mirer set NFL rookie records in attempts (486), completions (274) and yards (2,833) last COMMENT: Redskins quarterhack John Friesz did not have a sterling preseason. But neither did any of the other Washington quarterbacks. Washington is still soins to make its fortune on the ground, with Brooks leading the pack.

TAMPA BAY at CHICAGO: KEY

STAT: Bucs quarterback Craig Erickson completed 72.9 percent of his passes in the preseason. Chicago punter Chris Gardocki put 28 punts inside the opponents 20-yardline last season.

COMMENT: The Bears get to display all the new offensive toys they splurged on during free agency, Running back Lewis Tillman, a former Giant, should shine

ARIZONA at L.A. RAMS: KEY STAT: The Cardinals have won the last four straight against the Rams. Los Angeles running back Jerome Bettis rushed for 1,429 yards as a rookie last year.

COMMENT: We finally get to see the

the day is over, both could have 100-plus yards rushing.

NEW ENGLAND at MIAMI: KEY STAT: The Patriots' offensive line gave ap / just three sacks in the preseason. Mismi quarterback Dan Marmo needs only two touchdown passes to become the second ?

NFL quarterback (Fran Tarkenton is the first) with 300 or more touchdown passes. COMMENT: New England quarter-

Marie Re

. a 150

- + 1 A 1996

· was

PLATING THE

back Drew Bledsoe threw for a season high 329 yards and four touchdowns against the Dolphins last season. This will be a good vardstick for the Patriots to measure how much progress they've made since last see-

SAN DIEGO at DENVER: KEY STAT: The Chargers' Ronnie Harman has led all NFL running backs in receptions over the last two seasons with 152. Over the last 10 years, the Broncos have had the best home winning percentage (.750) of any team in the NFL.

COMMENT: Denver quarterback John ... Elway led the league in attempts (551), completions (348), yards (4,030) and touchdown passes (25) last season, and he didn't have receiver Anthony Miller to throw to.

Monday Night Game

L.A. RAIDERS at SAN FRANCISCO:

KEY STAT: Raiders quarterback Jeff Hostetler's 13.8 yards per pass led the NFL last season. The 49ers led the league in scoring with 473 points.
COMMENT: The Raiders have some very fast receivers, and 49ers quarterback Steve -Young isn't averse to tucking the ball and running when the mood strikes him. Some :people think this could be a sneak preview : of the Super Bowl. It should be entertain-

These matchups were written by Timothy W. Smith of The New York Times.

SCOREBOARD

TENNIS

U.S. Open

Men's Simples
Second Round
Thomas Muster (131, Austria, det. Maurice Ruch. Vergoueta, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2; Marre Rosset
(15), Switzerland, def. Nicklas Kuiti, Sweden, 6-4, 6-2, 6-7 (7-2), 6-2; Richey Renebyrs, U.S., det. Jordi Burillo, Spoin, 6-3, 7-5, 4-3] Patrick Rotter, Australia, per. Jon Anell, Sweden, 7-5, 4-7-6 (12-10), 6-3; Tand Martin (?), U.S., def.
Andrel Chesnokov, Russka, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5; Morkus Zoncke, Germany, def. Robble Welse, U.S., 6-1, 7-5, 6-2; Richard Frombery, Australia, def.
Roandd Agenor, Hatti, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.
Serral Brusuren (3), Spain, def. Andrel Chayskiy, Russka, 7-5, 6-2, 7-6 (7-5); Themas Enaryst, Sweden, def. Hendrik Dreekman,
Germany, 7-6 (7-4), 7-6 (7-4), 7-6;
Amare Goeliner, Germany, def. Tomas Corbon-

Marcuelline, 1, 20 ret, Glenlands Corpon-ell, Sooth, 7-6 (7-4), 3-2, ret, Glenlauca Pozzi, Haly, def. Ames Mansdorf, Ieroel, 4-4, 7-5, 3-4, 7-5, 4-3) Wayne Ferretra (12), South Africa, def. Marcelo Rios, Chite, 8-4, 9-2, 6-4; Andre Agassi, U.S., def. Guy Farget, Prance, 6-3, 7-5, 4-7, 7-5, 1-7 riff Graf [1], Germany, det. Sandra Cacic. U.S., 6-0.6-2; Lindsay Dovemport (6), U.S., def. Pom Shriver, U.S., 6-1, 6-2; Iva Majoli, Croatia. France, 4-1, 7-5; Anna Smashrova, Israel def. Micale Munipola def. Annalica, 6-2, 4-2; Patricka Hv. Canada, def. Annalica, 6-2, 6-2; Shaun Stafford, U.S., def. Linda Horvey-Wild, U.S., 4-6, 4-7 (7-2), 4-4, 2; Roska Bobkova, Csech Resublic def. Nicole Bruditie, Australia, 5-7 (7-2), 5-4, 6-2; Mono Endo, Jopon, def. Julie Holard, France, 6-1, 7-5; Anna Smashnova, Israel def. Micale Munip-Joperman, Netherlands, 5-1, 3-4, Micale Munip-Joperman, Netherlands, 5-1, 3-4, Micale Munip-Joperman, Netherlands, 5-1, 3-6, Micale Munip-Joperman, Micale Munip-J german, Netherlands, 6-1, 3-6. (88-tor-533) with 45 runs, 17 doubles, one trible, the 17). Czech Republic, def. three home runs, 51 RBIs, 51 walks, 112 strike-

Karina Habsudava, Slavakia, 6-2, 6-3; Mariaan de Swardt, South Africa. def. Mariaane Werdel, U.S., 6-4, 2-6, 7-6 113-111; Magdolena Maleeva (15), Bulgario, def. Rusandra Drawinir, Romania, 7-5, 6-3; Mary Pierce (4), France, def. Katurina Studenikava, Czech Re-

BASEBALL Japanese Leagues

.534 .527 .500 .491 .472 .454

The Michael Jordan Watch

SEASON TO DATE: Jordon is botting 203

FOOTBALL

Major College Scores

New Hoven 35, Bloomsburg 6
SOUTN
Actional 19, Georgia Tech 14
Austin Pacy 62, Kenfucky Wesleyon 7
E. Tennasse 54, 42, Carloybo 0
N. Corollad 51, 29, Bowling Green 15
Tennessee Tech 27, Lock Hoven 0
W. Carollad 23, Lendy-Rhybe 14
W. Kentucky 24, E. Kentucky 21
MUNICATIONESCY

Murroy St. 31, E. Illinois 15 Oktohoma St. 31, N. Illinois 14 Stephen F. Austin 10, Youngstow W. Illinois 42, lowe Wesleyon 0 Washington St. 10, Illinois 9 SOUTHWEST

North Texas 48. Abiliane Christian 8 Texas A&M-Kingsville 45, SW Texas 51, 14

OLYMPIC SPORTS

World Swim Championships

Quarterfinals
Group A: 1, Fernando Platas, Mexico, 34416 polats; 2. Brian Earley, U.S., 336,90; 3. Chen Sheng, Ching, 224,48; 4, Alexel Kogaley, BelGroup B; 1. Kevin McMahon, U.S., 339.42; 2.
Edwin Jongelans. Netherlands. 331.98; 3.
Dmitry Soutia, Russia, 315.4; 4. Andrei Koustav, Russia, 311.84
Semifinals
Group A; 1. Brian Earley, 368.46 points 2.
Bortis Lietzow, Germany, 388.38; 3. Fernando

Borris Lietzow, Germany, 363,03; J. Fernan Platas, 351,48; 4. Holger Schlepps, German Group B: 1, Lon Wet, China, 361.44; 2, Evon Stewart, Zfahbabwe, 354.42; 3, Kavin, McMo-hon, 347.88; 4, Edwin Jongelona, 344.94 Elmet

1, Stewart, 302.14; 2, Lon Wel, 375.18; 3, Ear-ley 361.59; 4, Lletow 353.46 WATER POLO

TRANSITIONS

BASEBALL

later and an undisclosed amount of cash. Traded Paul Gibsan, pitcher, to Milwaukee for a player to be named later. TEXAS—Recalled David Huise, outfleider.

BASKETBALL
National Basketball Association
DETROIT—Named K.C. Jones assistant

UTAH-Signed Bryon Russell, forward.

FOOTBALL
National Portfull Leave CLEVELAND—Staned Mike Bedasky, guard Walved Patrick Newman, wide receiv-

INDIANAPOLIS-Signed Lonce Telchel-Paching, to the procific squad.

N.Y. GIANTS— Walved Keith Crawford, Gary Horrell and Eric Weir, wide receivers; Milton Jones and Leonard Ray, defensive ends) Ivary Dillard, facide; Toramy Thispert, Shawn Smith and Pete Shufeth, linebackers, and Dorren Reese, guard. Claimed Pete Shu-lett, linebacker, aftwalvers from Kansas City. Signed Dayld Treadwell, kicker. Signed Gorry Harrell, wide reclever; Milton Jones, defensive end; and Pete Shufeit, linebacker, to the practice sould.

to the practice squad.

N.Y. JETS--Perry Williams, cornerbook.

retired. Waived Kyle Adoms and Terrence Wisdom, suards; Rob Davis, center-sound; David McLead and Alan Allen, wide receiv-David MicLead and Alan Allen, wide reselvers; Paul Burke, Hight end; Lindsay Chapman, rumine back; Gary Beckford and Gedi Dospette, defensive backs; Lovar Bol, defensive and-Hight end, Tany Meala, kicker; Harris Marris, Thebacker; Jeff Blake, avanterback; Fred Lester, fullback; and Chica Nelson, safely. Put Tary Johnson, linebacker, en Injured Cassays. Beached Injury antitioneth with De reserve. Reached injury settlement with Do-mon Pierl, safety. Waived Pat Chaffey, full-bock, and Tulneau Alloate and Mike Anderson, linebackers and David Ware, goord, Signed Clifford Hicks, defensive back, Signed Chico Nelson, defensive back, Tuneou Allote, linebacker, and Terrence Wisdom, suard, to the proctice sauad.

the practice squad.

PHILADELPHIA—Waived Bruce Walker, defensive lackle; Joey Hickey, Hahf and; Eric Floyd, guard; Torn Garild, wide receiver; Markus Thomas and Al Wooten, running backs; Jock Jones, linebacker; Theo Adams, offensive lineman, and Jimmy Smith, wide receiver-kick returner, Put Corey Barolow, linebacker on injured reserve. Claimed Mike Finn, offensive lineman, off waivers from Pittsburgh, Claimed Rickle Shaw, tockle, off waivers from Seattle, Released Kan Rose, linebacker. Stand Ken Rose, linebacker.

linebocker, Signed Ken Rose, linebocker, PITTSBURGH—Signed Tim McKver, de-fensive back, Walved Ricky Sutton, defensive end; Chartle Boumann, kickers Brice Abrams, fullbacks Frank Adams, cornerbock; Dominic Calloway, detensive bock; Corey Holliday, wide receiver: Latish Kinster, sariety: Phacitur Edwards and Chris Williams, defensive tackles; David Treadwell, kicker: Randy Cuthbert and Chuckle Dukes, running bocks; Elbert Ellis, wide receiver; Gary Brown and Tim Simpson, tockles; Regule Barnes and Patrick Scath linebockers; and Andy Kelly, quarterbock. Put Rica Mack, linebockers in injured reserve list. Signed Elbert Ellis, wide receiver! Tim Simpson, lockle; Kevin Brethen, offensive lineman; and Patrick Scath, linebocker, to the practice seared. Signed Eric Green, light end.

practice squad. Signed Eric Green, light end, to a one-year contract.

SAN DI EGO—Walved Vance Johnson, Earnest Wyatt and Wayde Butter, wide receivers; Gres Lone, Horschel Currie and Muke Williams, cornerbacks; Chris Thompson and Israel Stanley, defensive and; Blaine Berger, defensive tockle; Mike Hollis, kicker; Juan

It's past your bedtime, calvin. You'll have to

LEAVE YOUR POIS

sive tackle; Chris Thomas, wide receiver;

and Damion Lyons, cornerbook, Put on Dor-ren Krein, linebocker, and Eurnest Greene, offensive tackle, an injured reserve. SAN FRANCISCO—Signed Tol Cook, car-SAN FRANCISCO—Signed Tol Cook, cor-nerbock, to 1-year contract, and Adam Walk-er, ruaning back, Welved Ron Collins and Bret Kwaria, guards; Jon Kirksey, defensive lock-let Karl Wilson, detensive end; Martin Harri-son and Junior Bryant, defensive linemen; Garry Pay, center; and Domien Russell, ande-ly; Signed Alforce Browning and Larry Wal-land, and the problems. end; and John Iylow and Shaumbe' Wright-Fall, running backs, to the practice squad.

SEATTLE-Waived Jeff Grohem, equator-bock; Muteramed Shameld-Dehr, running bock; Clarence Williams, fight end Joson Atkinson, Hillery Butler and Anthony Davis, Inebockers; Marcus Carter and James McKnight, wide receivers; Joson Childs, sword; Jed DeVries, offensive tockler and Curits McComiel and Matt Werner, detensive tockles. Re-signed Ortando Watters, corner-bock, Signed Larry Whicham, sofety; James McKnight, wide receiver; and Natt Werner, defensive and, to the practice squad, Volded that frade with New England for Darry!

their trade with New England for Darryi Wren.cornerback.and get back their 1995 Athhocker; Roger Jones, cornerbock; Tyree Devis, wide receiver; Pete Pierson, tockle; Israeli Stantey, defensive and; Curris Buckley, defensive back, and Jimmy Williams, linebocker. Put Lawrence Dowery, wide receiver

GOSH, AND WE SPENT ALL DAY ON IT, TOO. I THOUGH

FOR SURE OUR ROBOT WOULD

SINE US FROM MUKING

THE BEO.

Brod Culpepper, defensive tockle. Signed Tyree Davis, wide receiver; Vidal Mills. Ignobacker-sofely and Keith Powe defensive of the bocker-sofely and Keith Powe defensive of the Mashing Con-Walved Ron Middleton, tight end! Tim Kolal, ponter; Pot O'Harn, quarterbock; Chris Holl, sofely; Dondre Owens, cornerbock; Greg Huntington, center; Trop Defender, complete bock. Termingted coneas, cornerbock; Gres Huntington, center; Tico Duckett, running back, Terminated contractiset Rick Grat, defensive end, and Robert Williams, cornerbock, Traded Darryl Mejore, poord, to Green Bay for conditional 1995 draft choice, Re-stande A.J., Johnson, cornerbock, and Cadrid Smittle fullmack, Wolved Rick Homilton, linebacker, Signed William Bell and Tyrone Rush, running backs; Anthony Abrans, defensive lackle; Damon Wright, ledge progressives and Poor Contract, their services. wide receiver; and Don Chaney, fight end, to the practice squad.

HOCKEY

ANAHEIM-Signed Paul Kartya, forward,

Shields, gootlender.
DALLAS—Signed Neol Broten, center and Richard Motylchuk, defensemen. mos. to 1-wormed worm Rowe, cerememos. to 1-year contract.

EDMONTON—Matched offer to Scott
Thornton, forward, by Los Angeles.

HARTFORD—Acquired Glon Westey, defensemon, from Boston for 1995, 1996 and 1997

Ist-round fourth picka. Agrand to terms with John Stevens, defensemon, on multivear conmost.

N.Y. ISLANDERS-Agreed to terms with Bob Beers, defensemen, and Niclas And son and Jeff Modill, forwards.

HEY, YENH!

GENIUSES!

DENNIS THE MENACE

ME BASIC RANCH ARCADE CANCER Anguer: How the person's solved the mystery — HE GRACKED THE CASE

International Recruitment Every Thursday Contact Philip Oma Tel.: (33 1) 46 37 93 36 Fox (33 1) 46 37 93 70 or your nearest iHT office or representative

PEANUTS

DOONESBURY

TA-DA!

AMOS, YOU SURE KNOW

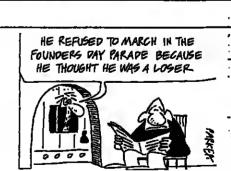

CALVIN AND HOBBES

WELL HOBBES, WE MIGHT AS WELL GIVE UP. I CAN'T FIGURE OUT HON TO MAKE

OK, MOM, OUR ROBOT

- YHA TUD

THE FAR SIDE

'Got him, Byron! It's something in the Vespul does he look mad!

genus, all right — and occ

BLONDIE

ه آذامیه لاصل

SPORTS Real Topology Real One Man's Hopes See State Territory Real One Man's Hopes As at PILINS Real And South's Pride Respondent last the VII Real And South's Pride Respondent last the VII Real And South's Pride

The Proposition of the International Herald Tribune

ARIS — That he sounds more like a southern American football coach is Billy Payne's gift; he inhales bope and a state of the last that is the only way to get anything done at the last to have a stanta or anyplace else. Atlanta, though, especially.

chales guarantees. But that is the only way to get anything the life in Atlanta, or anyplace else. Atlanta, though, especially.

In 1987, after he'd raised a few million dollars to build a church over. Is also in Atlanta, Payne decided he could bring the Olympic Games in Atlanta, Payne decided he could bring the Olympic Games there in 1996. So he quit his job as an expensive lawyer; before the had been an All-American defensive end that, he had been an order that the University of Georgia, where the fans are known for getting down on all fours and barkthouse the does. These are the same Thomsen rierback people who will be catering to the world the July after next when the Olympics come; that these people used to bark like dogs for the same man now in charge of putting on the Games — not William, not Bill, but 46-year-old Billy Payne — well, this incestuously Southern relationship has left much of the country feeling doubly nervous.

IENT. Acu

and from jour

land Section

Missa they

be Charta. FI, range

inst two --. war, de : R William in the Ni; ant Description

A the ic.

m passes -

or received they

Mannia: Night trans

AIDFRS ASSINIBAL

into (34)

'a 13 -

SCALAR;

with 4

NT. 71.

i Claration

Lavery of the

Macu the in per Ben warring ...

for the Page 1

But before Payne, who is attending the International Olympic Congress here, is allowed to respond — and he seems to love this issue, the way he's hunching down to attack it the way the best football coaches do — the question of Atlanta's capability goes such deeper than the South's religious devotion to football.

The trouble started with the notorious mascot Whatizit, a DIEGO at DENIA computer-generated blue thing whose only apparent value was its generic ability to be linked with any and all commercial products. Was that what the 1996 Olympics were going to be all about? Well, Atlanta restyled the mascot and m a contest, 100,000 American kids came up with a new name — Izzy!

So, amazingly, a silly mascot has come to implant suspicions that Atlanta, lacking the culture and history of Barcelona and Lilleham-mer, will allow itself to become a blank slate for the Olympic corporations, that these Games, on their 100th anniversary, will see the marketeers finally running the asylum. In fact, Payne says, having waited patiently for his turn with the ball, the exact opposite is going to happen. Yes, he begins by admitting, "We're not a 1,500-year old city; we're a 100-year old city. What do we have? We do have inordinately friendly people.

"The Games, historically, have been an opportunity to justify or go overboard on nationalism. It's a good time to brag. Knowing how the world feels about Americans, they know we're going to brag a lot. They're expecting that. So it's to our great advantage, maybe for the first time, to embrace the opportunity of what the Games is: the greatest example of international cooperation and friendship in the world today."

What he is doing bere, he is laying out his strengths like a game plan. The best coaches do this, and by the time they're done they've made you forget they ever had any weaknesses.

"Long story short: as wonderful as the ceremonies were at Barcelona, Los Angeles, Lillehammer, they weren't about the power of the Olympic movement. At our Games, we're going to tell a bigger story. How do we top a Barcelona or wherever?"

Now he's instilling confidence. "We are going to communicate an overall sense of welcome. We're going to come up with architecture: Our people are the fabric of our architecture."

And the ceremony? "It will be our intent and priority to connect the importance of the athletes to the actual ceremonies themlives. Not just an assemblage of athletes we'll be looking at we're going to connect those athletes to the people in the stands." How? "It won't work without the element of surprise," be says;

and he's smiling, having recled you in.

The problems for Atlanta include its decision to alter some terms of its bid, a shrinking contingency fund to handle possible cost overruns, and the confederate Georgia flag. Payne has called for state politicians to do something about the flag before the world's cameras capture it as a segue into the South's racist history.

The Atlanta Games have raised up a complicated fear shared by a country still divided, and the dividing line runs down the middle of Billy Payne. "As an opportunity, this is something we've been looking for as Southerners for 100 years," he says. "The historical perception of the good of boys has come to affect our steem over the years. While we're very proud, there's probably been a little introspection built into us over time. Do we not quite measure up?"

For the Americans so upset by his mascot, that might have been the core question. "The answer," Payne says, and bere the coach has no choice; the Olympics demand reconciliation, "the answer is a resounding yes. We measure up in every respect, and finally we have a chance to prove it."

49 Excuse

S1 Welcom

excitement 54 ---- Fail crowning

SS Medicinal doses

59 Gorge 60 Ex-superpower

63 Easily imposed

65 South American

68 Changing pinch

monkey

75 Sreve Martin

77 Not a neatnik

substances

78 Cigarette

80 Invitation

66 Thin laver

stone)

42 Blackthorn

upos

85 Amplify

flowers

91 Modending

98 Lacking

support

103 Appropriate

104 Playwright Avckbourn

t05 Desert lilies

110 Murder, e.g.

t14 TV host John

116 Singer James

120 Monopolize

123 Himalayan

Davis

4 Most description

16 Played for a

t7 Bamboo stalk

hostess Mesta

58 Former Pac.

124 Make

Bombeck 119 Cutting out unnecessary

118 Columnist

99 Laundry stinker

100 Square element

88 Osaka O.K. 89 Funnel-shaped

1 Blurred

15 Of a minor domain

iributary

23 Extra effort

25 Hereditary factors

27 Wizened

29 Senior 30 Author

32 River of

36 Moola

39 Dum-dum

44 Like Coast Guard rescue

46 1953 Ricardo

38 Baths

28 Prefix with meter or moto

profiled in Shadowlands

ຶ €" "

20 Cassava dish 21 Little Warsaw.

Evan Stewart of Zimbabwe, winner of World Swimming Championships one-meter springboard event. China's Wei Lan took silver.

Diver's Gold: African First

favorite in the one-meter spring- efforts were poor while Stewart conboard diving finals Friday to become jured up a superb two-and-a-balf the first African to win a gold medal at the World Swimming Champion-titles at the last world championships staged for the seventh time. in 1991 and three of four at the Barcelona Olympics. The ooe-meter begins on Monday.

Stewart, 19, from Harare, profrom the Lan, who registered 375.18 of Tennessee. points. Brian Earley of the United States took the bronze.

ROME — Evan Stewart of Zimba-bwe stunned Lan Wei of China, the the first four dives. But his last two piked somersault with his last dive to take the title.

"I'm incredibly elated. My legs were shaking oo the podium because duced a superb final dive to total I was so exicted," said Stewart, based 382.14 points and snatch the gold in the United States at the University No African nation bad never previously won a medal at the world China won four of the six diving swimming championships, being Competition in swimming events

Edberg and Stich Zoom Ahead

Martínez, No. 3 Seed, Is Eliminated in U.S. Open

Compiled by Our Staff From Dispatches

NEW YORK - Two-time champion Stefan Edberg and fourth-seeded Micbael Stich served and volleyed their way into the third round Friday at the U.S. Open tennis champion-l'oiling side-by-side uoder bright blue skies - Edberg oo Stadium Court and Stich in the Grandstand - the two great volleyers seemed to be racing each other into the third round, rather than worrying about their opponents, who presented no problems.

While the two former Wimbledon champions were romping into the third round, bowever, a reigning Wimbledon champion was going down in in the women's competition.

The first two games of ber third-round contest with Sandra Cecchini of Italy.

Rut the Sandra Cecchini of Italy.

Ginger Helgeson of the United Martinez, 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, in two hours off 12 of the next 13 games to win, 6-2,

Meanwhile, the fifth-seeded Edberg can Jeff Tarrango, 6-2. 6-3, 6-2. in one Todd Woodbridge of Australia.

passing shot from Bryan in the penulti-mate game that even brought polite tian Bergstrom of Sweden, 7-6, (7-3), applause from the German. "I played well," said Stich, a first-round loser at the Open last year. "I have found my style on the hardcourts. I'm very happy with the way I played." Edberg said, "I played a good match, a solid match. Basically I did everything well today."

No. 2 seed Arantxa Sáncbez Vicario and eighth seed Gabriela Sabatini staged a race of their own to swiftly claim places in the women's round of Sáncbez Vicario, who won her second French Open title this year, lost suffer the same fate as her Federation States stunned No. 3 seed Conchita Cup teammate. Shchez Vicario ripped

The 40th-ranked Helgeson, who had never beaten Martinez in six previous meetings, played a near flawless third set to cut short the Spaniard's bid for a second major title.

one of several players who could capture this tournament. He was a finalist the two years prior to that.

"This was a key match." Agassi said.

Forget, out nearly two years with the forget, out nearly two years with the second major title.

won his race with Stich by three min- third round was last year's surprise nals, upsetting Courier in he second utes, taking out 106th-ranked Ameri- finalist, Cedric Pioline of France, and American, Steve Bryan, 6-1 6-4 6-2, his Woodbridge ousted Mark Petchey of 6-2 victory over Sandra Cacic. finish slightly delayed by a blistering Britain, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4. Marcos On-

Elena Likhovtseva of Kazahstan won the other early women's match, defeating Natalia Medvedeva of Ukraine, 7-6 (7-3), 7-6 (g-6).

On Thursday, an upset stomach almost forced an early exit from the tournament for fourth-seeded Mary Pierce. But after taking some medica-tion from her trainer, Pierce rallied to take a three-set victory over Katarina Studenikova of Slovakia, ranked

Andre Agassi continues to advance, fter a crowd-pleasing if somewhat sloppy 6-3, 7-5, 6-7 (5-7), 6-2 victory Thursday night over Guy Forget of

Although not seeded in the 128player field. Agassi is still considered

Joining Edoerg and Stich in the nament back, he reached the quarterfi-

In the women's singles, top-seeded our and 31 minutes.

Pioline downed countryman Ro- and defending champion Steffi Graf
Stich rolled over 122nd-ranked dolphe Gilbert, 2-6, 6-3, 7-6, 6-3, while rusbed into the third round with a 6-0,

Indurain Breaks Track Cycling Mark

By Samuel Abt International Herald Tribune

PARIS - Triumphantly switching from the road to the track, Miguel Indurain broke the world one-bour bi- seconds behind. cycling record, the most esteemed individual mark in the sport, in Bordeaux, France, on Friday.

He covered 53.040 kilometers (32.96 miles) to exceed Graeme Obree's 52,713 kilometers on the same track last April. Obree shattered Chris Boardman's mark of 52.27 kilometers set in Bordeaux in July 1993.

Indurain, a 30-year-old Spaniard who has won the Tour de France the last four years, started slowly as a crowd of several thousand in the covered velodrome cheered him on. The midafternoon ride was shown live on televisioo throughout Europe.

Obree's pace after the first five kilome- are track champions but Indurain bad chine.

kilometers, Indurain was 1.9 seconds years ago. behind and after 15 kilometers just 1,1

22:38.54 to 22:39.03, and then began

At the 25th kilometer, be was 3.6 seconds and and at 35 anometers 3.5 between the leaked by 16.9 seconds and rising. As the bour French officials last weekend, were ended, Indurain had just passed the beightened when be got off to his relatively slow start. aerodynamic belmet, be punched the air with his right hand while slowing er, be more than compensated for in his high-technology bicycle on the wooden track.

He was almost five seconds behind Englishman be bettered. Boardman, cootrast to Obree's bomemade maters — 5 minutes 43.9 seconds for competed only once before on the Indurain, 5:38.99 for Ohree. After 10 track, in a six-day race in Spain a few

He and his Banesto team officials devoted only three weeks to training The Spaniard nearly matched for the attempt, which included a dif-Obree's time at the 20th kilometer, ferent bicycle and seat position than be has used in the many races against the clock be bas won in road competition.

Fears that be might have been unseconds ahead and at 30 kilometers 5.9 dertrained, or even diverted by a con-

What be lacked in training, howevpower and equipment. His carbon fi-ber Pinarello bicycle was specially Both Obree, a Scotsman, and the manufactured for this ride in a vivid

Morceli Eyes IAAF Jackpot

distance runner, is in line for a ing to the winner of the overall $130,000 jackpot Saturday at 1994 Grand Prix title. the International Amateur Ath-

PLAYING THE ANGLES By Wayne Robert Williams

Charlety Stadium. The Algeri-PARIS (AP) - Noureddine an is one of seven male athletes Morceli, the world's dominant in contention for the prize go-

Morceli, the world-record letic Federation's Mobil Grand holder in the mile, 1,500 meters Prix final, which will be beld at and 3,000 meters, has a six-point the refurbished 20,000-seat lead over the other contenders.

CONCISE, YET COMPREHENSIVE.

That's what our subscribers are saying about us.*

CALL US TOLL-FREE

AUSTRIA: 0660 8155

LUXEMBOURG: 0800 2703 THE NETHERLANDS: 06 022 5158 GERMANY: 0130 848585 UNITED KINGDOM: 0800 89 5965 .IN THE US: (1) 800 882 2884 .

IN HONG KONG: (852) 9222-1188

The 1994 IHT Reader Satisfaction Survey.

Or send in the coupon below

125 The Doctor in Spire of Himself 126 Tea treat D New York Times/Edited by Will Shorts. 128 The End of the World" singer 18 Years and years - 61 Prepare tabloid 97 Herbal quaff 19 For fear that nown 98 One of the 64 Trunk bulge 1 Unbelievable 24 Refuse bargain 2 "My Dinner 29 Light-colored 101 Shifty 64 Architectural wood 105 Skating gold With Andre' 31 Ice fall 70 Snatch director Louis 33 Dance in 4/4 et al. 3 1970 Creedent 72 Leslie Caror Clearwater Revival hit 106 Parts of pipes film, with 108 "That's ---73 Duck 37 Takes 10 the underhanded 74 Peeping Tom 5 Sticky stuff 39 Danish chang 6 Old French (meditative Canadian P.M. exercise) 7 Genrude and Wilfrid 79 German city Ophelia, e.g. 41 Highland 8t Mimic 8 Fast-paced congue 9 Japanese dram 82 Film maker 42 Dog dogger baseball's 83 Unaccompa-44 Top-notch Boyers 45 Relative of 84 U.S.-Mex.-Can. 12 Unusually concordat 47 Aussie fiter narrow, in a 86 Wide receiver 50 Drying powder 13 No-show job 53 Boob tubes 87 Inventor Howe 56 Old French 90 Coming t5 Fairway 57 Celebrated 93 Pelce Island

location

% Not down a

110 Sinkes out Great Britan 111 Head honcho t12 Contemporary 113 Son of Judah Luxembourg 115 Slight person medalist John Netherlands 117 One way to rur Longy 120 Atlantic food Ponucel 121 66, e.g.: Abbr. 109 First to spot a 122 Staffordshire product comet, usually Sweden (armai) - hand delivery Solution to Puzzle of Aug. 27-28 Switzerland

Subscription Rates & Savings Off IHT Cover Prices. HAND DELIVERY AVAILABLE IN MOST COUNTRIES 3 months + 13 FREE issues SAVINGS for 1 year 37 3,300 1,800 Austra A. Sch 5,000 7.700 Bolgium 4,200 Denmark 3,400 1,900 1.050 Finland 1.070 700 32 385 210 210 . 32 115 65 25 . 41,000 22,000 125 Lite 470,000 - 50 275,000 150,000 7.700 4,200 1.050 14,000 14,500 24 14.500 - hand deliv. Madrid ŞΚ 3,100 5 kr. 3,500 1,000 1,000 485 265 Rest of Europe, ear CEI CEI, N. Alnea, lermor Franch Alnea, MrdSe East 900

Yes, I want to start receiving the IHT. This is the subscription term I prefer (check appropriate boxes): 12 months [364 issues in all with 52 bonus issues). 6 months (182 issues in all with 26 bonus issues). 3 months (91 issues in all with 13 bonus issues). My check is enclosed (payable to the International Herald Tribune). ☐ Please charge my: ☐ American Express ☐ Diners Club ☐ VISA ☐ MasterCard ☐ Eurocard ☐ Access Credit cord charges will be made in French Francs at current exchange rates EXP. DATE ________SIGNATURE FOR BUSINESS ORDERS, PLEASE INDICATE YOUR VAT NUMBER. (HT VAT number FR747320211261) Mr. Mrs Miss FAMILY NAM FIRST NAME

Return your completed coupon to: Subscription Manager, 181 Avenue Charles-de-Gaulle, 92521 Novilly Cadex, France. Fax: 33.1.46 37 06 S1 - Tel: 33.1.46 37 93 61

DAVE BARRY

Comets and Haircuts

MIAMI — Gather 'round, young people, because it's back-to-school time, and Uncle Dave wants to give you some important advice to help you excel in the classroom and have successful, rewarding careers, assuming that Earth is nnt destroyed by giant comet chunks.

This is definitely a possibility. Just receotly, giaot cnmet chunks whomped into Jupiter and caused destruction so massive that it would have wiped out all human life if there had been any, which there probably wasn't because the atmosphere on Jupiter has the same chemical composition as Drano.
Of course the astronomy

cnmmuoity carried on as though the mass destruction oo Jupiter was just about the coolest scientific thing to happen since the invention of the pocket protector. Every night you'd see astronomers on the TV news, holding up blurred photographs of what appeared to be a pizza, pointing to a round-ish smudge that appeared to be a pepperoni, and announcing. in happy voices, that it was the equivalent of 19 hillion jillioo atomic bomhs.

They claim we don't have to worry. They claim that the mathematical odds of a large comet chunk hitting Earth in our lifetimes are infinitesimal, even smaller -if such a thing is possible — than the odds of the Buffaln Bills winning a Super Bowl. But whenever we hear the astronomy community making claims, two words should spring into our minds: "Comet Ko-

Back in 1973, the astronomy community claimed that Comet Kohoutek was going in pass close to Earth and produce this spectacular celestial phenomenon, so big and bright you'd be able to see it EVEN IN THE DAYTIME. People were afraid tn go outside for fear they would suffer comet burns. And what happened? Nothing. All over the world, millinns of people spent hours squinting at the sky, pointing excitedly at airplanes, moths, beer signs, smudges on their binocular lenses, etc. But ultimately they had to accept the ugly truth: THERE WAS NO COMET KOHOUTEK.

Oh, sure, the astronomy community, desperate to save face, produced some blurred photo-graphs of a "comet," but it turned nut, upon close inspec-tion, to be a human sperm cell magnified 400,000 times.

My point is that if the astronomy community elaims we're not going to get hit by giant comet chunks, then we probably are. The result would be mass destruction on the most horrendous scale ever seen in the history of this planet, causing famine, disease, death and — in the United States alone — literally millions of persooal-injury law-

This would lead to a major boom in the legal profession, a career field Uocle Dave feels you young people should defi-nitely be considering as you head back to school. Even in the unlikely event Earth is NOT hit by giant comet chunks, experts believe the legal field will con-tinue to grow rapidly, as more and more Americans realize the practical benefits of suing everybody about everything, including dandruff.

So the economic future looks bright, young people. But no matter what career field you ultimately choose to enter, you're not going to get very far if you have a stupid baircut. Uncle Dave is especially concerned about a hairstyle that is showing up more and more often on young males: It's the one where the sides and back of the head are shaved completely oaked, while the hair on top is grnwn really long and pulled straight back into a ponytail.

You young people cannot seriously expect to get a high-paying, long-term-growth-potential jnb, such as business magnate or member of the O.J. Simpson defense complex, if you go around looking like Davy Crockett with a scalp disorder.

Knight-Ridder Newspapers

'D'Artagnan's Daughter': Swashbuckler With Roots

DARIS - Bertrand Tavernier is a French phenomenon: a cinéphile or film buff who became an industry leader. He began tracking down golden oldies at the age of 14, founded a film club called Nickel Odéon, became a distributor and press agent for such then neglected, and often obstreperous, heroes as Raoul Waish and John Ford, is an encyclopedic film historian, a producer, scenarist and since 1973 has directed 19 pictures ranging in subject from French provincial life to American jazz in 'Round Midnight," in time from the Middle Ages to present-day police precincts, and in style from an exceptional documentary oo veterans of the Algerian war to his new release, a swashbuckler called "La fille de d'Artagnan," or "D'Artagnan's Daughter."

MARY BLUME

Tavernier of course knows all about films of the cape and sword, as swashbucklers are called in France. and especially admires George Sid-ney's version of "The Three Musketeers" and "Scaramouche" with Stewart Granger. What he didn't know is how hard they are to make. It takes 10 seconds to write The borses jump on the boat' hut when you are faced with terrified horses and three cameras you think what a dumh idea in write such a scene."

His other idea, pious rather than dumb but in the end disastrous, was to have the film directed by Riccardo Freda, whose versinn of "Les Misérables" he adores. Freda is now 84 and hasn't directed in 25 years. A week before shooting started, the star, Sophie Marceau, threatened to walk out leaving Tavernier, as co-producer, with debts that would have crippled him for the rest of his life. So he took Planned as a summer film, "La fille de d'Artagnan" opened strongly in French beach resorts and in 45 houses in the Paris region. Marceau is the eponymous heroine, with Philippe Noiret as the aging d'Artagnan making a precarious living from

Because the respected but sometimes stalid Tavernier seemed an unlikely director of a commercial action film and because he is an outspoken defender of the French film industry against the so-called American invasion, Le Monde suggested that "La fille de d'Artagnan" is his anti-GATT film.

"When you take on a film a week before shooting you don't think of such things," Tavernier said. "The only thing I did think about in that respect was how awful the last adaptation of 'The Three Musketeers' by Disney was, a stupid lamentable film with California beach boys whn don't know how to wear a costume or walk. It showed a gigantic scorn for the European cultural heritage. I hated it so much that maybe unconsciously I tried to give my film its proper roots."

Many French films are, in Tavernier's words, anorexic and distant from the problems of young people facing unemployment and what he calls the country's terrible mood of corruption and the dictatorship of n.ooey. "We have a responsibility to fight this or people will turn only in films of distraction which are Ameri-

"The drama in France is not that we lack auteurs but that our commercial films are flops. I think we must all ask questinns of ourselves and think of storytelling rhythms and re-discover the pleasure of filming."

In making his swashbuckler, Tavernier amused himself by putting in references in films he likes such as Richard Lester's "Robin and Marian," about the aging Robin Hood, and "Indiana Jooes." He also tried to bring the audience into the film hy playing no their familiarity with the genre: While the nbligatory carriage usually moves as smoothly as a Rolls-Royce, Tavernier filmed his carriage oo an unpaved road with a hand-beld camera, showing the passengers in tooth-rattling discomfurt.

"And in all historical films when people ride up to an inn they always find a room. So we put in something ! have oever seen before, an inn that is closed for a day off." When the Musketeers ask where the castle is of the wicked duke, a peasant reasonably replies that all the castles in the area belong to the duke, leaving the troupe as lost as they were.

One critic took this as parody. "I dnn't like parody," Tavernier said. "It implies a superiority to the genre. The comedy is between the characters and what they must gn lems by offering easy resolutions through. Dumas does it all the time for the commercial break.

Bertrand Tavernier, film historian, producer, scenarist and director.

in 'Le Vicomte de Bragelnone.' f wanted to make a film that Dumas would like."

At 53, Tavernier remains a film buff, writing about it, organizing homages and putting oo his answer-ing machine a bite from an old sound track that he changes every month (the current one features Louis Jouvet). This could make him a crank. Instead be is an impassioned enthusiast with two pluses rare amnog self-referring directors: He cares about his audiences and he cares about memnry.

Memory is probably the link between his varied films but it includes, most unusually, memory of the pre-sent. His film before be took up swashbuckling was "L.627," about the life of Paris cops and written in protest against televisinn series which obliterate contemporary problems by offering easy resolutions in

"I wanted to show that in the lives of these cops what wears them down is that there never is a resolution, never an end, never a conflict easily

"In American films you have the conflict between Mickey Rourke and his boss in 'The Year of the Dragon' or between a cop and someone powerful. That's oot it. These men are demolished by the repetition of daily tasks, by an endless wearing-down process for which they are not trained and in which they are not helped.'

He regards "L.627" as an allegory nf France today: "It can be applied to all French institutions." In "La fille de d'Artagnan" he says he was trying to combat the ambient morosity of France.

One aspect of morosity is forgetfulness, as seen in this summer's commemorations of the liberation of Paris in which fact was transformed to myth. France, Tavernier has pointed out, is weak in making films about the troubled moments of her history — there is no good feature film on the Commune or on the Dreyfus case and precious little that is worthwhile on World War II.

"I am sorry there aren't more his-torical films," Tavernier said. "This spirit of commemoration is a terrible kind of censorship, a way of reinforcing forgetfulness."

One of his strongest films is "La Vie et rien d'autre" (1989), about the aftermath of World War I in which families tramped the battlefields searching for missing soldiers — who numbered 350,000 — while the goverament was choosing one unidentified corpse to bury beneath the Arc de Triomphe. "They wanted all the missing to disappear from the collective memory in making that one

Maybe one day he will make a film about World War II, Tavernier says (he already has a subject in mind), but it will have to be after the commemorative mood has faded. "Maybe in three or four or five years one will be able to do something. As a filmmaker you cannot follow too closely on what has been shown on television because people drown in Every country, Tavernier says, has historical subjects that are taboo and the taboos are unconscious-ly reinforced. "For example, one Paris newspaper was nutraged by my making the Musketeers nld. Yet Dumas did it himself in 'Le Vicomte de Bragelonne,' in which Porthos dies because he can nn longer walk. The sense of 'respect' that makes Le Journal du Dimanche criticize the aging of the Musketeers explains that certain things here cannot be touched."

Forgetfulness is so self-serving.
Tavernier added, laughing at his star,
Sophie Marceau, doing dozens of interviews about "La fille de d'Artagnan" without mentioning another member of the cast: "She talked more about her Yorkies and doves." Ever the film buff, Tavernier says Marceau managed in beat the record nf the writers of the 1937 Hullywood film, "The Life of Emile Zola":
"They wrote all about the Dreyfus case without ever mentioning the word Jew," x

William Time

122

Mary .

RECEIVE SALE AND

Et land

WEATHER

Forecast for Sunday through Tuesday, as provided by Accu-Weather.

Today
High Low W High Low CF CF CF
26/52 18/64 9 27/65 19/60 16/64 16/61 5 27/65 19/60 16/64 16/61 5 27/65 19/60 16/64 16/61 5 27/65 19/60 16/64 16/61 5 36/91 17/62 26/71 19/65 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/64 16/61 16/

Oceania

North America

Europe

C.F. C.F. C.F. C.F. C.F. 24/75 pc. 24/75 pc. 24/76 pc. 2

Lagon Pharotri Turks	25/62 21/70 31/86	$MB	PC	21/82 23/73 29/64	10/50	DC	cuted immediately" despite the appeal a that any more delays in allowing Chung
North A	merie	R					rehearse would irreversibly damage "
Anchorage Adanta Boston Chicago Detroit Horakits Houston Los Angeles Altanti Microsopolis Microsopolis Microsopolis Microsopolis Microsopolis Microsopolis Service Sear Frain Searde	36/100	9 149 13 756 10 750 24 775 21 770 19 766 25 777 15 759 2 756	00 00 00 00 00 00 00 00 00 00 00 00 00	31所 30所 20所 20所 30所 37所 2778 2778	11/52 24/70 22/71 19/80 23/73 14/57 9/48 24/73		personal quality of the performance." The actor Jon Voight has been sued flibel by a former associate, who Voight backed out of a movie-production deal because he wouldn't become ber leter. Laura Pels, in a libel suit that fullowher earlier suit charging Voight with enbezzlement, contends that Voight and blawyer intended to embarrass her in
Terorito Washington	19/5	045	•	19/05	6/48	•	dropping the first suit by planting ma

HE dismissed musical director at the L Paris Opera, Myung-Whum Chung, won another court victory on Friday, when a judge ordered the Opera to pay him 50,000 francs ($9,250) a day as lnng as it fails to obey a court order in reinstate him. Judge Françoise Ramoff ruled earlier this week that Chung could proceed with rehearsals for the season's Sept. 19 opener, Giuseppe Verdi's "Simon Boccanegra," but the oext day Chung was barred from the rebearsal hall at the Opera Bastille. Opera nificials said they were appealing the ruling and, therefore, need not respect it. But Ramoff said Friday that the ruling was to be "execions statements in their breach of contract suit against her.

PEOPLE

Jeff Gillooly, the ex-husband of Tonya Harding who was sentenced to prison for his role in the January attack on the figure skater Nancy Kerrigan, has applied to enter the Oregon Department of Corrections prison boot-camp program. Bill Beers, superintendent of the program, said that if he's accepted and completes it, he could shave 11 to 18 months off his two-year term and be paroled as early as March.

Roseanne is upset about twn planned made-for-TV movies about ber. The star of the popular ABC sitcom that bears her name says NBC's script "makes 'Mommie Dearest' look brilliant," "It's the worst, stupidest script - like this twin comes out of me and sits oext to me on my bed as my inner self and I have these conversations with it," she said in an "Entertainment Tnnight" interview. She's not too thrilled about the Fox octwork's movie, either. Roseanne called Denny Dillon, who is cast to play her, a "midget woman." "I wish they'd wait till I die before they do these kinds of things," she said.

WOLF" MAN JACK — The Jack Nicholson and friend in Venice, where his new film, "Wolf," is to be hown at the annual film festival.

000-8010 004-0312

t19

190 190 165

191

00-0410

1-800-872-2881 1-800-872-2881

1-800-872-2881 1-800-872-2881

001-800-972-288

0-800-872-2881 001-800-872-2881

1-800-872-2883

510-0200

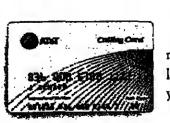

00A-001

00111

0800-10 797-797

980-11-0010

Travel in a world without borders, time zones or language barriers.

Imagine a world where you can call country to country as easily as you can from home. And reach the U.S. directly from over 125 countries. Converse with someone who doesn't speak your language, since it's translated instantly. Call your clients at 3 a.m. knowing they'll get the message in your voice at a more polite hour. All this is now possible with AT&T.1

To use these services, dial the AT&T Access Number of the country you're in and you'll get all the help you need. With these Access Numbers and your AT&T Calling Card, international calling has never been easier.

If you don't have an AT&T Calling Card or you'd like more information on AT&T global services, just call us using the convenient Access Numbers on your right.

ADST Access Numbers. How in call around the world

Using the chart below, find the country you are calling from

Dial the corresponding AT&T Access Number
 An AT&T English-speaking Operator or voice prompt will ask for the phone number you wish to call or connect you to a

To receive your free wallet card of ARAT's Access Numbers, just dial the access number of the country you're in and ask for Customer Service.

COUNTRY	ACCESS NUMBER	COUNTRY A	ACCESS NUMBER	COUNT
	ASIA	Italy*	172-1011	Brazil
Anstralia	1-800-881-011	Liechtenstein"	155-00-11	Chile
China, PRC++	10811	Lithuanise	84196	Colours
Guzm	018-872	Luxembourg	0-800-0111	Costa Ric
Hong Kong	800-1111	Macedonia, F.Y.I	Lof 99-800-4288	Ecuador
India+	000-117	Malta"	0800-890-110	El Salvad
Indonesia•	001-901-10	Monsco*	194-0011	Guatema
Japan*	0039-111	Netherlands*	06-022-9111	Guyana
Korea	009-11	Norway	800-190-11	Hondura
Koresaa	11.	Poland*+	04010-480-0111	Mexico.
Malaysia"	800-0011	Portugal*	05017-1-288	Niczrag
New Zealand	000-911	Romania	01-800-4288	Panama
Philippines"	105-11	Russia"(Moscow) 155-5042	Peru*
Saipan*	235-2872	Slovakia	00-420-00101	Surban
Singapore	800-0111-111	Spaine	900-99-00-11	Uruguay
Sri Lanka	430-430	Sweden*	020-795-611	Venezue
Talwan*	0060-10288-0	Switzerland*	155-00-11
Thatland+	0019-991-1111	U.K.	0500-89-0011	Bahams
	UROPE	Ukraine	84100-11	Bermud
Armenia	8a14111		LE EAST	British V
Anstria	022-903-011	Bahrain	800-001	Cayman
Belginm"	0800-100-10	Cyprus*	080-90010	Grenada
Bulgaria	00-1800-0010	Israel	177-100-2727	Haiti
Crostia.*	99-38-0011	Kuwait	800-288	Jamaica*
Czech Rep	00-420-00101	Lebanon (Beirut		Neth. A
Denmark*	8001-0010	Qarar	0800-011-77	St. Khts/
Finland	9800-100-10	Saudi Arabia	1-800-10
France	194-0011	Turkey*	00-800-12277	Egypt' (
Germany	0130-0010	UAE*	800-121	Gebon
Greece"	00-800-1311	AME	RICAS	Gambia
Hongary	00a-800-01111	Argentina+	001-800-200-1111	Kenya*
iceland"	999-001	Belize+	555	Liberia
Ireland	1-800-550-000	Bolivia*	0-800-1112	South A

@ 1994 AT&T

*GRO Page 4